No-Surprises Cabinet

Nixon Names Old Friends

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Nixon Wednesday night named former attorney-general William P. Rogers his state secretary and Representative Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin defence secretary to fill the premier posts in a Republican cabinet featuring old friends and familiar faces.

He chose David Kennedy, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank of Chicago, to be treasury secretary.

It was a cabinet of no surprises, with no Democrat, no Negro and no woman among its 12 members.

* * *

By the time Nixon announced his selections in a nationally-broadcast and televised appearance from Washington's Shoreham Hotel, the lineup was an open secret. He advised congressional leaders in advance, and his list swiftly became public knowledge.

His selection for the other jobs:

* * *

Secretary of health, education and welfare: Lt.-Gov. Robert H. Finch of California, who managed Nixon's first, losing campaign for the White House eight years ago.

Secretary of housing and urban development: Gov. George Romney of Michigan, the man Nixon pushed out of the 1968 presidential race with a drubbing in the public opinion polls prior to the New Hampshire primary.

* * *

* * *

Secretary of agriculture: Clifford M. Hardin, chancellor of the University of Nebraska.

While Romney was a onetime political rival, the other two governors Nixon named to his cabinet were ardent and early supporters of his quest for the Republican presidential nomination.

Eight of the cabinet members are men well known to Washington, through elective politics or through assignments within the federal government. Rogers, Stans, Volpe, and briefly, Kennedy, served in administration posts when Eisenhower was president.

Nixon, who had indicated during his campaign that there would be Democrats in his cabinet, apparently sought to offset the lack by disclosing that he will soon name a Democrat to be U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Sargent Shriver, now U.S. ambassador to Paris, is reported to have been offered that assignment. Shriver is a brother-in-law of the late President John Kennedy and late Senator Robert Kennedy.

* * *

Nixon also announced plans to reappoint Commissioner Walter Washington to another term as mayor of the District of Columbia. Washington is a Negro whose term expires next Feb. 1.

Prior to the mass cabinet announcement—without precedent in modern times—Nixon had appointed a Chicago banker to be his budget director.

* * *

That selection, announced in New York City, is Robert P. Mayo, 52, vice-president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago, a veteran of 18 years in the treasury department.

Nixon's audience for the cabinet announcement included the men he named, their wives and children, and the people he has chosen for White House assignments.

* * *

Herbert G. Klein, director of communications for the incoming administration, said the whole "official family" was represented.

Klein acknowledged that there was no Democrat in the lineup.

"They're all independents who vote Republican," he said.

Rogers, 55, a Washington and New York lawyer, has been a close friend of the president-elect since they served together in the navy during the Second World War.

* * *

In hours of personal or public crisis, Nixon has turned since to his friend for counsel. Rogers was at his side, 16 years ago during the political uproar over the Nixon fund, the contributions which jeopardized his place as vice-presidential candidate on the Eisenhower ticket in 1952.

Rogers became attorney-general in 1957 and served in that post through the remainder of the Eisenhower administration. He has had only brief experience in foreign affairs, as a member of the U.S. delegation to the 1965 United Nations General Assembly.

Laird, 46, is rated the most shrewd and among the most influential of Republicans in the House of Representatives. He is an expert on defence spending, a 10-year member of the House defence appropriations subcommittee.

Laird was a frequent Nixon companion during the presiden-

NEW YORK (UPI) — President-elect Richard Nixon Wednesday ordered his cabinet appointees muzzled until their inauguration Jan. 20.

He told newsmen he knows they are interested in the policies of individuals, and they are welcome to ask, "but if any of them (the cabinet members) answers those questions, he will have difficulty being in the cabinet."

Fluorides Fall Short

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C.'s Lower Mainland wants fluoridation of its water, but not by enough to make it legal.

The 15 communities served by the Greater Vancouver water district voted Wednesday and last Saturday in favor of the measure by slightly more than 56 per cent, and 60 per cent approval was required passage.

Fourteen outlying communities cast their votes on fluoridation last Saturday and the results were kept secret until the count of ballots started after Vancouver's annual election Wednesday. (Pictures, Page 10.)

'TOM TERRIFIC'

Meanwhile, Mayor Tom Campbell was re-elected to a second two-year term in one of the heaviest Vancouver civic election turnouts in years.

The mayor, often called "Tom Terrific," claimed victory only two hours after the polls closed, saying:

"The last two years have been a hard battle and I'm sick and tired of the continuous bickering in council. Now I've won the big stick to end the bickering."

TEAM BEATEN

The mayor, 41, won by only 600 votes two years ago, but had 40,000 votes with 83 of 111 polls reported compared to 27,500 for Alan Emmott, 12-year mayor and reeve of Burnaby and candidate of a new organization called TEAM, The Electors' Action Movement.

TEAM generally represents the centre and left of the political spectrum while Mr. Campbell ran on the ticket on the conservative Non-Partisan Association, which has dominated civic politics for decades.

FIGURES GIVEN

A total of 37,289 approved fluoridation outside the city, 56.8 per cent, while 28,768 were against it. The rural and suburban figures were lumped together with those from Vancouver for an over-all percentage breakdown.

In Vancouver, the vote was running 55 per cent in favor of fluoridation.

Six communities approved fluoridation by more than 60 per cent. They were University Hill, 94.2 per cent; Port Coquitlam, 62.1 per cent; Fraser Mills, 71 per cent; North Vancouver district, 68.6 per cent; Richmond, 63.7 per cent; West Vancouver, 65.3 per cent.

VOTING AGAINST

Four communities had a majority in favor, but were short of the amount required for approval — Burnaby, 55.6 per cent; Coquitlam district, 59.5 per cent; Delta, 56.6 per cent; Port Moody, 55.3 per cent.

Communities voting against fluoridation were Maple Ridge district, 37.9 per cent in favor; New Westminster, 49.9 per cent; Pitt Meadows district, 45 per cent; Surrey district, 45.4 per cent.

Privilege Denied

Bennett Loses Slander Case

OTTAWA (CP) — The presence of reporters at a Social Credit meeting in 1965 stripped Premier W. A. C. Bennett of his defence of qualified privilege in a slander suit brought against him for remarks about a former provincial public servant, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled Wednesday.

The decision confirmed a $15,000 damages award against Mr. Bennett.

UNANIMOUS

In a unanimous judgment written by Chief Justice J. R. Cartwright, the high court restored a trial judge's finding that the British Columbia premier slandered George Jones, then chairman of the province's purchasing commission, in remarks at a Victoria party rally.

Look Behind Veil

All's Not Well With World For Everyone

By DON COLLINS

There is a tendency in the Christmas season to feel all is well with the world.

Unfortunately, this isn't the case. You need only look behind Victoria's veil of affluence to see the other side of the story.

You can see it in the sad face pressed against the toy store window—the face of a little boy old enough to know his family can't afford Christmas, but young enough to want until the wanting hurts.

* * *

You can hear it in the voice of a mother who knows she must tell her children not to expect very much for Christmas.

You can feel it deep within you after talking to social workers about the cases of human tragedy found throughout Greater Victoria.

The sadness felt in a home of want Christmas Day cannot really be understood unless you are a resident of such a home. But it can be lessened somewhat by the Colonist 500 Fund. This is the 12th consecutive year that the fund, through the generosity of Colonist readers, will aid families in need.

There are no administrative costs, and the amount given can be deducted for income tax purposes.

Money from the fund goes to 500 families selected by the Christmas Bureau, an agency of the Community.

Reform Slowed, But Time Added

Conference Delay Upsets Ottawa

By RON COLLESTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The sudden illness of Quebec Premier Bertrand is virtually certain to postpone next week's constitutional conference.

Bertrand, in a phone call Wednesday morning asked Prime Minister Trudeau to postpone the conference. Trudeau immediately polled the premiers, by telegram, and indications were they would agree to the Quebec premier's request. (See Pages 2, 10.)

The federal government is clearly disappointed over the conference upset. It was ready to unpack the first batch of proposals to achieve a new constitution in five to 10 years.

As a first step, it was expected to offer a draft charter of human rights, plus its plans for reform of the Senate and the Supreme Court of Canada.

* * *

The delay will have some beneficial effects — there will be more time to study the proposals at the political level.

At the Liberal caucus Wednesday, there was a great deal of criticism of the idea that provinces should have a voice in the choice of Senators. This is one of the suggestions to be made by Ottawa.

The delay will also allow Alberta's new premier, Harry Strom, and Bertrand himself, only two months premier of his province, more time to prepare.

The illness of Bertrand, following the death in office of three Quebec premiers in the past decade, tells the story of the strains of political life, particularly, apparently, in the province of Quebec.

But illness is striking the premiers like ninepins, as it has been striking the front line in the federal government.

* * *

Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan has the flu and could not have attended a conference next week. Premier Robarts of Ontario also has flu, but he was still expecting to attend the meeting.

The delay means the conference will probably be held early in February.

Trudeau, who will be tied up with the Commonwealth conference for much of January, said the delay was regrettable and a setback. The people of Canada, he said, want to get on with the work of constitutional reform and settlement of financial problems.

Robert Stanfield, the Conservative leader, endorsed the postponement. The presence of the Quebec premier is essential to the success of any conference, he said.

The consensus in Ottawa is that there is really no purpose in having a constitutional conference without Quebec participating in a full role.

Fancier the Scar Not 'Camp' Today

THIRTY years ago upper crust matrons giggled, twittered and looked very brave as they told anyone within hearing about their appendectomies. This, you understand, was the "in" ailment or operation of the day. The fancier the scar meant more points in the "I'm one up on you" league.

Today the term is "camp" and appendectomies rate only slightly higher than a common head cold. Today, to be really camp I would imagine you would have to be the recipient of a heart, liver or kidney transplant, but inasmuch as these operations are extremely rare, the next most fashionable complaint is slipped, ruptured or degenerative discs.

Of course, simply having a slipped disc gets you only so many talking points. You get extras for being able to describe, in painful detail, the ordeal of a spinal tap or milogram — the method of detecting the disc problem. Finally, the big marks — for being able to spout the magic words, "Oh yes, I've had a spinal fusion."

I WRITE ABOUT slipped discs at this time because of a recent conversation — argument would be more appropriate—re the relative merits of orthopedic specialists and chiropractors. I realize one is a doctor, the other is not.

I am also conversant with the fact the chiropractic field was long held suspect because of a number of practitioners who hung out singles after taking only the most rudimentary courses. Some, many years ago, raked in the loot after obtaining mail order "degrees."

ANOTHER KNOCK and I believe a legitimate one, is that some chiropractors led patients to understand their manipulations could cure everything from pulled muscles to beri beri, which was so much pure, unadulterated quackery.

Now if you're thinking I'm about to embark on a windy tirade against chiropractors, I'll have to disappoint you. As a matter of fact, I have a fair amount of confidence in the wonders some chiropractors can work in certain areas.

BUT I THINK those

troubled with back ailments should know there is only so much a chiropractor can do to alleviate the problems. He can, I can assure you because of many visits to many such healers, give a fair degree of relief. He can allow a person to operate without pain for reasonably long periods of time.

However, there is no way in the world any chiropractor can cure a degenerative disc and I think those hurting from the problem should realize this fully. The only way the trouble can be permanently cured is through the removal of the offending disc and a fusion performed by a competent orthopedic surgeon.

LITERALLY thousands of disc sufferers do not want any part of the knife if they can remain operative through other means. I'm told, by physicians with impeccable credentials on the subject, that sooner or later an operation becomes a necessity.

I've known many athletes who could not have continued to play rugged sports like hockey and football without the aid of chiropractic manipulations. In the long haul, most of them — men like Freddie Hucul and Bill Shvetz, for instance — finally went under the knife, had successful fusions and continued to play.

Here in Victoria, Dr. F. A. Hamdi, a neurosurgeon, has built a reputation as one of the outstanding men in the field of spinal fusions and his fame has spread to all parts of Canada.

AND CERTAINLY, the recent successful metal prosthesis insertion operation at Royal Jubilee, gained international recognition as the first of its kind. This operation, or a variation thereof, could be the long sought answer for long-suffering patients. I said "could be" because much further research is probably needed.

I write hopefully about it because I happen to be part of the camp crowd. Slipped fifth lumbar disc, slipped fifth cerviele and the milograms to prove it.

Someday, maybe the knife, but in the meantime I sing the praises of chiropractors who have bent, prodded and manipulated my spine to keep me reasonably mobile.

Refreezing Could Be Problem

By Dr. G. T. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a nurse and do private duty nursing. The people I am with put their bacon and ham and hot dogs in the freezer. I told them it would ruin the food values but they said it would not hurt. Who is right?—Mrs. M.M.

They are. Freezers are fine for preserving food; freezing does not harm the food value. But thawing and refreezing could create a problem.

Note to Mrs. L. O'G.: No, I wouldn't call mild tranquilizers "dope" by any means. But I do know that some people get in such a habit of using them — habit, not addiction. You say you haven't seen your doctor for several years. Suppose you see him and let him decide whether you should continue the tranquilizer.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Every time I go swimming my nose itches and burns and I sneeze. Mostly this is in chlorine pools or water. Every time I get a cold my sinuses swell up. Could this be the cause? What can I do—C.J.E.

Some people have nasal membranes that are particularly sensitive — and there is no way to cure that. The best suggestion I can offer is try to avoid getting water in the nose. I know that's small comfort, but I think you are better off realizing that, rather than hunting for a cure which, to the best of my knowledge, does not exist. A nose clip might be tried.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain what neoplasm means. Is it some kind of a disease—P.B.

It comes from neo, meaning new; in this case, new tissue that begins to grow somewhere in the body. A tumor. It may be benign or it may be malignant, in the latter case meaning cancer. Strictly speaking, a wart is one form of neoplasm.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband was recently found to have some sugar. Is it possible for it to be a temporary condition? I would dike some information on diabetes, what foods to eat and what to avoid.—Mrs. B.F.

There is no food, no diet which will prevent diabetes from developing, but avoidance of overweight is helpful both in delaying it and in keeping it under control. Sugar, of course, should be avoided.

Chances 'Good' for Quebec Premier

Heart Trouble Sidelines Bertrand

QUEBEC (CP) — A government spokesman announced Wednesday night that Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand is being treated for "cardiac troubles" at the Quebec Cardiology Institute.

But the spokesman told a news conference there "is a very good chance for complete recovery."

RECURRENCE

The spokesman said Bertrand had had a recurrence of the pains Sunday night when examined by a doctor.

The spokesman said Bertrand had been "heading toward a dangerous situation." The premier's office said earlier he had entered the institute for tests following a month of "recurrent discomfort."

The premier had used the name of Charles Giroux, his father-in-law, to avoid publicity. He originally thought he would remain in the institute only 24 hours instead of refraining from work for the next four weeks.

'RHEUMATISM'

Bertrand also thought his trouble might have been rheumatism, said the spokesman, former secretary to the late premier Daniel Johnson and a member of Bertrand's entourage. He asked not to be identified.

Bertrand's illness plunged the ruling Union Nationale party into an uncertain leadership situation.

The 52-year-old premier also asked for postponement of the three-day federal-provincial constitutional conference scheduled for Dec. 16-18 in Ottawa.

AS PLANNED

He suggested that the one-day conference Dec. 19 on fiscal arrangements should be held as planned.

His office said in a statement: "The premier of Quebec asks that the constitutional conference in Ottawa be postponed.

"However, the conference of finance ministers on fiscal arrangements should be held."

A spokesman said Bertrand did not suffer a heart attack.

The statement said Bertrand would remain in hospital until this weekend and was ordered "to take a complete rest for three weeks."

Named acting premier is Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal, 43-year-old Montrealer brought into the Union Nationale government by the late premier Daniel Johnson last year. He won a seat to the legislative assembly in a Dec. 4 by-election in Bagot, represented by Johnson for 22 years.

SESSION

Cardinal immediately went into session with the provincial cabinet Wednesday to review the situation precipitated by Bertrand's confinement in hospital. A two-hour cabinet meeting was followed by a caucus of Union Nationale members of the legislative assembly.

Main issue under discussion was reported to be whether to continue the assembly session and defend a controversial language rights bill introduced Monday by Premier Bertrand.

HOPES FOR BILL

The session might have come to an end late this week. Bertrand said Monday he hoped the bill to protect rights of Quebec's English-speaking minority to choose the language of education for their children would be passed before the session ended.

Cardinal, to be sworn in as a member of the assembly today, would have to defend the language bill if a decision is made to continue the session.

MAIN RUMORS

Any move by a Quebec government leader to obtain medical attention has sparked widespread rumors and speculation because of the death of two premiers from heart attacks in the last eight years.

Johnson died last Sept. 26 at Manicouagan.

Paul Sauve died of a heart attack at St. Eustache, Que., Jan. 2, 1960.

Liberal Leader Jean Lesage suffered a mild heart attack a few weeks after his government was defeated by Johnson in a general election June 5, 1966.

In addition to Cardinal being named acting premier, Solicitor-General Armand Maltais became acting justice minister, and Marcel Masse, minister without portfolio, was named minister of inter-governmental affairs—all portfolios held by Bertrand.

Bertrand had said Monday he would make known his position on Union Nationale leadership at a meeting of the party's "national council" in mid-March.

Talks

South Frown Grows

PARIS (AP) — South Vietnam expressed concern to the United States Wednesday over possible American concessions to Hanoi on organization of the Vietnam peace talks.

Qualified informants who reported this said Saigon's delegation to the stalled conference fears in particular that the Nov. 27 agreement between Presidents Johnson of the U.S. and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam may be eroded by any U.S. concessions.

Under that agreement, the Thieu government ended its boycott of the Paris parley on the understanding that the Americans would fully back Saigon's view of the negotiations as two-sided. Both North Vietnam and the Viet Cong are out to make the talks a four-sided affair.

FEARS KNOWN

Ambassador Pham Dang Lam, who heads South Vietnam's team, expressed his country's fears to the U.S. deputy chief delegate, Cyrus R. Vance, the sources said.

There has been no official sign suggesting the Americans are ready to dilute the Johnson-Thieu accord.

Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh had acted as head of the front's delegation here. But a communique broadcast by Radio Hanoi named her as one of Kiem's two deputies when the expanded peace talks open.

Whether this was a step to upgrade the front's delegation or simply a belated announcement was not known. If the former, it might be an attempt to match the South Vietnamese government's selection of Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky as overseer of its delegation.

FUTURE MINISTER

A veteran of revolution at 44, Kiem is chairman of the front's commission for foreign relations. As such, he would become foreign minister if the Viet Cong seized power in South Vietnam.

More important, he is a member of the board of chairmen of the front's central committee. This board is the inner ruling group of the central committee.

As far as is known, Kiem is not yet in Paris.

Mme. Binh was named in the communique as a deputy to Kiem along with Tran Hoai Nam. Nam and Mme. Binh are members of the front's central committee.

Some United States sources saw the appointment of Kiem as an indication that despite current wrangling over seemingly small matters, the expanded peace talks can begin soon.

The opening of the talks, with the South Vietnamese government joining the U.S. and the Viet Cong joining North Vietnam, is delayed by a snarl over procedural questions.

Saigon Fight Seen

SAIGON (UPI) — Allied troops fought two sharp engagements with communist forces Wednesday near the Cambodian border, military spokesmen said. The South Vietnamese alerted their units for a possible new Red assault upon Saigon.

A government battalion lost 13 dead and 38 wounded in a one-hour clash with an estimated reinforced company of North Vietnamese within five miles of the Cambodian border and 42 miles northwest of Saigon.

A few hours earlier Wednesday, troops of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division killed 10 communist soldiers in fighting with an estimated two Red companies on flatlands about 27 miles northwest of Saigon. The Americans lost two dead and six wounded.

SPY REPORTS

South Vietnamese military sources said intelligence reports indicated the communists might be planning some sort of assault against Saigon in the next nine days to coincide with the 8th anniversary of the founding of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

The NLF, political arm of the Viet Cong and one of the four parties represented at forthcoming talks in Paris, was founded Dec. 20, 1960.

One U.S. source said allied forces recently captured communist documents that pointed to an offensive of some sort, possibly diversionary moves to draw defenders away from Saigon and then an attack on the city itself before Dec. 20.

Costly Precautions

THE ENORMOUS DRAINING of national resources for arms, even without involvement in war, is a continuing worry for all the world. It is well illustrated by the announcement of the Soviet Union's defence budget of $21 billion.

This sum, which amounts to more than 13 per cent of the total budget, is nearly twice Canada's entire estimated revenue for the current fiscal year.

Even so, Canada is spending $1.7 billion for its military needs, which, at 16.2 per cent of the budget, is actually proportionately larger than the Russian arms bill.

The United States' staggering military expenditures dwarf those of any other power, and even accepting the probability that a considerable additional Soviet arms outlay is hidden, is certainly in excess of the Kremlin figure.

The defence outlay anticipated in the current U.S. budget amounts to $79.789 billion. This is no less than 41 per cent of the budget.

Roughly a third of the total, $26.264 billion, is directly attributed to the war in Vietnam.

Indicative of the state of mind in other parts of the world is the decision in Singapore to spend approximately $1.2 billion for defence this fiscal year. This is a massive burden for a population only about one-tenth that of Canada, and works out at something like $600 a head in the pocket republic.

Although Britain has pledged aid to both Singapore and Malaysia in the event of an attack, and has demonstrated its ability to respond quickly by flying Vulcan bombers to the RAF's big station at Tengah in a 27-hour dash, both countries plan to create formidable forces.

Singapore will have by the end of 1969 two full infantry brigades, an armored brigade and at least four reserve battalions. And within 10 years plans an additional reserve of 30 battalions.

It is a commendable effort. The pity of it is that such costly precautions continue to be necessary.

Dragging an Anchor

FISHERIES MINISTER Jack Davis isn't saying so but he must be encountering a certain amount of frustration in his post. By his remarks in recent months he has shown himself well aligned with the fishing industry in his personal thoughts on the protection of the food resources off Canada's coasts. But he seems to be dragging an anchor of diplomatic caution or timidity.

Back in October Mr. Davis said he wanted Canada to take the lead in advocating fisheries management and conservation policies in international waters off her coasts. He repeated the suggestion at Boston Fish Expo. Each nation having a special interest in the fisheries off its coasts, "even a long way off its coasts," the extent of this interest ought now to be defined internationally "not simply in terms of exclusive zones, but also for purposes of conservation —effective conservation and good management as well."

This view coincides nicely with the recommendation of the Fisheries Council of Canada, presented two weeks later, that an International Law of the Sea Conference should be called at which Canada would propose that coastal states own and control the fishery resources on and above the continental shelf and that the nationals of other countries would be subject to the conservation regime of the coastal state. However, the minister also said that the continental-shelf resource management theory was his own; it was not federal government policy.

Similarly Mr. Davis seems to be in accord with the Fisheries Council on the need to implement on the west coast the 12-mile exclusive fishing zone measured from straight, headland-to-headland base lines, which has been hanging fire for four years, and in a way that would exclude the Russians and Japanese from Queen Charlotte Sound. He said—also in October—that Canada would apply at the next Law of the Sea Conference to extend the present 44-mile maximum length of point-to-point headland lines.

A 100-mile maximum distance would permit inclusion of Queen Charlotte Sound among other waters, Mr. Davis said, but he wouldn't say if Canada would seek this distance: "I am inclined to push for 100 miles, but these matters must be dealt with in conjunction with the external affairs department."

If Canada were to plunge headlong into the controversy and unilaterally declare its own lines, it might win the gamble, the minister observed, "but if we were taken into international court, and lost, it would leave little recourse."

It would still leave the recourse, one may suggest, of seeking the change in the convention that Canada is already planning to seek.

What's a Million?

THE SOVIET UNION has been pressing in the United Nations to have Russian adopted as one of the UN's working languages, which now include English and French for the Security Council and English, French and Spanish for the General Assembly. Although Russian and Chinese are additionally used as official languages in debate, the working languages are used in UN documents.

The U.S.S.R contends that Russian has outstanding significance "as a medium of international political, economic, scientific, technical and cultural intercourse." The point may be made that English, French and Spanish are more often learned than Russian as second languages. But on the other hand, if popular use were the criterion, Russian would be in third place after Mandarin Chinese and English, Spanish in fifth place and French far down the list in the 13th position.

There should be a good deal of sympathy, therefore, for the Soviet desire to have Russian made a working language of the UN. But an obstacle is money. The General Assembly last year directed the director-general to study the problems involved, and he reported that to pay the extra staff needed would cost $1,600,000 annually.

But while this represents a problem to the United Nations, would anyone think the less of the Soviet Union if it were to offer to bear the added expense? For a state which has just been presented with a budget of $148,000,000,000, it is quite sensible to ask, "What's a million?" Or in this case, 1.6 million to further increase the significance of Russian as a medium of international communication.

Mixed Marriage

Strategy In Tibet

By P. S. NIRASH
from Gangtok, Sikkim

CHINA is steadily strengthening its grip on Tibet by encouraging a new generation of mixed blood, the offspring of Chinese males and Tibetan women, according to reports reaching Sikkim. The Chinese are said to be insisting on marriage between any Chinese living with a Tibetan woman, and tempt the women to make matches.

After marriage, for example, a Sino-Tibetan couple are given farmland and are exempted from both land and produce tax. They are allotted houses readily, and when a first child is born are granted extra food and household goods.

To the Sino-Tibetan children now growing up many of the traditional ways of life in Tibet are unknown. Belief in reincarnation, whereby theocratic Tibet provided the succession of spiritual rulers, is to them a relic of a primitive past.

Refugees still crossing the Himalayan border say Tibetans are now not allowed to travel more than three miles from their homes without a permit from local Chinese authorities. The free circulation of gold has been prohibited. The purchase of gold or silver is banned to Tibetans. Goldsmiths may repair old ornaments but not make new ones. Details of any repairs must be submitted to the nearest branch of the local bank.

Nine Tibetans have trudged through the mountain snows and crossed the border into Sikkim this month. What is noteworthy is that they brought yaks with them.

The yak is as precious in Tibet as a camel in the desert. Its sale or exchange in Tibet is prohibited, and every head is accountable. Even the carcasses of dead yaks, say refugees, have to be handed over by herdsmen to the Chinese.

Stories given out by refugees invariably paint a grim picture of conditions under the Chinese: shortage of food, a scarcity of other goods, shops run for Chinese only, ruthless religious suppression.

Monasteries, they say, are now become propaganda centres of Mao Tse-tung's infallible thoughts. Huge portraits of Mao have supplanted statues of Buddha, and Tibetans must carry the Chinese leader's Red Book of aphorisms and thought guidance.

It is not easy for Tibetans to cross the border. Bringing cattle with them is an encumbrance. It has caused some observers here to speculate whether the yaks have some hidden relationship with the Trojan horse. They wonder whether the Chinese are deliberately conniving at the escape of some genuinely disgruntled elements and at the same time taking the opportunity to plant trained agents among them.

Speculation Dangers Remain

Currency Truce Precarious As Safeguards Are Lacking

By MARQUIS CHILDS
from Bonn

SILENCE has fallen on the field where the battle of the mark, the franc, the pound and the dollar was fought out with such anger and vituperation short weeks ago. It is the silence of a truce rather than the end of the war since the belief in Western Europe is widespread among high and low that the conflict is bound to break out again.

Three months, six months, no one can say when. But another crisis of confidence bringing with it a new surge of speculative fever will shake the economy of the West to its foundations. What is being done in this pause to cure the ills of the money market is little enough.

One reason is the pause in Washington between administrations. In France, where the money battle began, officials say with a brave show of confidence that President-elect Richard M. Nixon will supply the answer. He will raise the price of gold which will cheapen the value of the dollar and strengthen the pound and the franc. This is an article of faith with the French who believe that inevitably it must come about.

While the Germans are more cautious they, too, talk of the need to raise the gold price. After all, officials in the finance ministry point out, it has not been raised for 35 years and a great deal has happened during that time. For Europeans a sacrifice — just a small partial sacrifice — of the dollar would be the ideal solution.

It is not that the monetary system put together at Bretton Woods in 1945 has failed. That system is the underpinning of the tide of prosperity that particularly here in Germany has reached such extraordinary heights. But the volume of world trade is so swollen that the International Monetary Fund, devised at Bretton Woods, is simply too narrow a frame to contain it.

In 1945 Western Europe was at the bottom of the pit, with the vast destruction of the war opening the way to breakdown and communism. The United States held 57 per cent of the world's reserves of gold. With the Marshall Plan and American aid to Europe of $50 billion in the offing the Western European nations were only too eager to agree to an international monetary system laying down strict rules for the money market.

All that has been changed in little more than two decades. Despite the limited progress of a European Common Market the fierce rivalries of the old nationalism are once again a powerful force. This boiled to the surface in the recent money crisis when an unprecedented $2.3 billion in French francs flowed into Germany in the expectation that the German mark would be valued upward.

This burning fever of speculation was one more sign of the weakness of the present system. At its height it caught up high and low, and especially in France. A cartoon in a Paris newspaper showed a crocodile dressed for travel sitting on a railway station platform with a sign: "To Geneva." Beside him were suitcases bulging with francs which he meant to exchange in Switzerland for German marks and, as he wept large tears, he was saying, "Poor France, poor France."

After France, in an ill-timed move, took off exchange controls there was nothing illegal in speculating against the franc. But having to confess to what may seem to many an unpatriotic act, the speculators are reluctant to talk about their traffic in money.

"Of course, I transferred a large part of the company's balance in francs into German marks when I saw what seemed about to happen," said the European director of a large American oil company who asked that his name not be used. "You can call this speculation but it was an obligation to the company once the flood started. I'm sure a great many companies did the same thing."

The French are never to be outdone in these matters. A high school girl in Paris boasted to her classmates that her father had taken $40 out of her piggy bank and sent it along with his own surplus francs to Switzerland to buy marks. Her father is a civil servant in a highly responsible position.

A French employee in the American Embassy said proudly that he had been able to put $100 in marks. Informed the Germans had just announced there would be no revaluation of the mark, he said, "Oh, well, the money is safe there and so I'll leave it."

It is, of course, the professional speculators, many of them operating in Switzerland, who trigger these crises. Their operations are as secret as some super-espionage agency.

How much of the hot money is flowing out of Germany and back into France? In the first week after the Bonn meeting of the Big Ten the total was around a half-billion dollars, a fifth of what had come in. The counter-flow has now slowed to a trickle.

"We will be lucky if we do not have a new crisis before Christmas," an official of the German state bank says dourly. "Everything done at the Bonn meeting was political, expressing the rivalries of national power. Nothing conformed to reality."

The visitor to Bonn who seeks out officials of the finance ministry gets a lecture on economic reality. No gimmick, no juggling with exchange rates, can work. It is essential for each country to achieve economic stability with discipline and proper management. The example, it is hardly necessary to add, is Germany. But the very imbalance between the amazing success of the German economy and the weakness of Britain and France is one reason for the deepening conflict. And, as they say here with great vehemence, the cure is not penalizing Germany for the faults of others.

'Anglosaxophones' Discovery

Albion Not So Perfidious

By ALAN HARVEY
from London

QUEBEC is discovering the charms of la vie anglaise. After a sleep of centuries, Canada's big French-speaking province is reaching out to the wider world. And it likes what it finds in Britain.

Quebec has just set up its first student association in Britain, L'Association des Etudiants du Quebec en Grande Bretagne, with Daniel Johnson, 23-year-old son and namesake of the Quebec premier who died last September, as its president.

Canada's Anglosaxophones — a jaunty sobriquet for English-speaking Canadians — see nothing sinister in the Quebec invasion. Mr. Johnson, who was elected president by acclamation, says the new body will be less political than Quebec student groups in Paris and Brussels. Nobody need worry about Quebec Libre setting up a branch shop in Britain to assist the Gaullist design for an independent Quebec state in North America.

"Of course, we have some separatists here," says Mr. Johnson. "But roughly two-fifths of the students are English Canadian. We will worry more about cheap travel for students than separatism."

Mr. Johnson is in his second year at London's University College. He is accompanied by his wife, Jocelyn, a Montreal agronomist's daughter. They both like London.

Quebec used to be pastural, priest-ridden, inward-looking. Now it is casting around for new vistas, trying to overcome the "claustrophobie," the sense of suffocation in a predominantly English-speaking continent that the late Mr. Johnson used to complain about in talks with French President Charles de Gaulle.

There are about 200 Quebec students in Britain, at Oxford, Cambridge, King's College, London School of Economics, and Edinburgh. They often feel more at home than in Paris. They like the slower pace, the courtesy. Francois Lebrun of Montreal, now at the London School of Economics after three years as a student leader in Paris, said he was "amazed" by British politeness.

French Canada's vision of its "second" Mother Country is formed by emigrants from England, Scotland or Wales whose linguistic ability — in English — may win them promotion over Quebeckers. The resultant prejudice seems to vanish, however, when the francophone student meets the British on their home grounds and finds Albion not so perfidious after all.

English Canadians are often taken for Americans, which they don't relish: French Canadians, with a wound about language at home, find their slight accent helpful in Britain. They are accepted as Canadians, tout court.

How some French-Canadians feel about their two mother countries was expressed by Dr. Andre Breton, a reader in economics at the London School of Economics, who comes from Montmartre in Saskatchewan.

"History taught us that the Frenchman of France should horrify us. Even now, only the elite see the French as anything but a sinful and heretical crew.

"Heavens! As a boy, I was taught to express in prayer my thanks to the British. By defeating the French at the Plains of Abraham in 1759, you spared us the horrors — or what our priests saw as the horrors — of the French Revolution. In other words, 1759 saved us from 1789."

Canadians Starved For Mortgage Cash

YOUR recent editorial, "No Shame On Us," begins with a laudable preamble and ends with an inglorious conclusion exhorting Canadians not to change their ways, since changes may be dangerous.

Since your editorial refers to . . . an article which presented an abbreviated version of my analysis of the housing shortage in Canada, it would probably be useful to your readers, and the editorial writers, to have the issues restated.

There is a housing shortage in Canada. There is no lack of material, land, labor, or managerial skill. What is lacking is financial capital. The discussion would end here if Canadians were less thrifty than people of other nationalities, or if, as the editorial writer would like to believe, housing shortage were a world-wide complaint. But neither is true. Canadians save on the average more than their American or British counterparts, and the chronic shortage of housing is a characteristic peculiar to the Canadian economy. An economist, whether trained in the U.S. or Canada, who seeks an explanation will inevitably look at the efficiency of financial markets in Canada and compare it with efficiency of financial markets elsewhere. This is what he might find: In England, Western Europe, Australia and in the United States, there are strong financial institutions whose main function is to deal in mortgage lending and to channel private savings into mortgage financing. This type of institution is very weak in Canada. Consequently, chartered banks serve both as savings banks and commercial banks. The importance of personal savings deposits in the total of deposits is a fundamental feature of banking in Canada. At the same time, Canadian banks, although they receive the bulk savings, invest very little (only 3 per cent of their assets) in mortgages. In the other countries the financial markets are characterized by two desirable features: the banks are more active in the mortgage market, and the other institutions, such as savings and loan associations, which compete with banks for private savings, invest about 90 per cent of their assets in mortgages. The consequence of this competition is more adequate mortgage financing.

I was not calling Canadian banks inefficient. They are very efficient in short-term financing. But I was advocating more competition in financial markets, because more competition would make the allocation of scarce funds more efficient. Whether the additional competitive stimulus comes from chartering more banks or, as I would prefer, from other financial institutions, is not as important as the fact that more competition is needed.

I wish I could claim sole credit for the entire analysis. But I cannot. Most of these ideas are presented, in more cogent language, in the report of the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects (the Gordon Commission) of 1958. That these ideas, expressed 10 years later, can still stir up a controversy is testimony to the fact that the acuteness of the housing shortage has not diminished during the period . . .

There are many ways of fighting inflation; one way is to depress the housing sector. That way was chosen deliberately by the makers of economic policy. Consequently, while inflationary pressures existed in most Western countries, only in Canada has there been a persistent housing shortage. In other countries, there has been adequate housing, with an occasional glut developing in some.

Only in Canada will you find that families with $8,000 or less yearly income (three-fourths of all Canadian families) are not eligible to obtain a mortgage on a decent home.

It simply will not do to blame this serious Canadian problem on dark, incomprehensible international forces. The problem developed partly by accident, partly by design. Canada has the resources and the skill necessary to solve the problem. The only thing lacking is concern and determination. Your self-congratulatory editorial does nothing to provide what is lacking.

Answers Not Provided

The modern student searches for new answers to the question which demands a reason for being alive. The modern university, hampered by lack of academic freedom, does not supply the reason and confusion results. Mr. Bishop, professor of English, apparently calls it anarchy, but the question is older than the English and French version of language.

One hundred years ago the workers of England and France were largely illiterate as only the upper strata of society received the church education which commenced about 600 A.D., in the days of St. Augustine, while after the Norman Conquest French was the official language of England for over 200 years.

The name Quebec is a Breton form of the English Cambridge, but is reduced further to Bec in Brittany. Perhaps Professor Bishop could tell us the reason for the different spellings. Few people know the answer, as academic freedom is limited to methods which have received only official approval.

Who Is Guilty?

A very young tabby kitten was seen wandering in the 1200 block on Douglas Street. When first noticed it seemed to be nervously investigating a car parked at the curb. Obviously it was in a frightened condition. Had it inadvertently got out of the car while parked? Had it been deliberately put out? Why was it wandering alone, defenceless and terrified?

The kitten was picked up. The authorities were informed. Why was it not claimed? It was someone's responsibility. Whose?

Too much is expected of the SPCA. Why does anyone acquire a cat and then abandon it, as this kitten apparently was abandoned. No enquiries were received at the usual sources of contact.

Who is guilty?

Lesson from Europe

A lot is being heard these days about "Container Transport," and one gets the impression that this is an entirely new concept.

Well before the turn of the century, as a small boy of 10 years, I recall seeing mail from London destined for India, Australia, etc., dispatched in large modern containers. They were entirely weather-proof.

They arrived alongside the cross-channel boats at Folkestone bolted onto flat railway cars. The ship's crane lifted these containers onto the deck of the boat, where they were again bolted down.

At Boulogne the ship's crane lifted them onto similar French flat cars, and they were never again touched till they were transferred at Brindisi to the deck of a P. and O. steamer bound for India and the Far East.

Thus mail bags were never touched between London and their destination in the Far East.

I have often wondered why our Canadian postal service never adopted similar efficient methods, instead of piling mail bags loose in express baggage cars to be handled over and over again.

It is well to see that our young country is not above adopting methods that have already proved their worth in Europe.

Taxpayers' Decision

Our mayor has made the correct decision to leave "where" and "how" the question of the convention hall is to be settled, in the form of a special referendum to be voted on by the taxpayers.

In Victoria there has always been some resentment of the actions of the CPR. Some objections were correct, but others quite often unfounded. The situation is this: The CPR has offered to give a gift of land to the city on which to build a convention hall, and on their part, supply the necessary equipment and catering service that would be required.

We must face the situation as it is today. The Empress Hotel has always been one of the greatest attractions Victoria has. To build a convention hall elsewhere, it would cost the city thousands of dollars to give the necessary service . . . We as taxpayers would have no wish to see the city involved in this tremendous expense. The fact must be faced that kitchen and catering service is necessary wherever a convention hall is located, and only a large hotel that is expert in this line of work can do it.

The city will derive great benefit from such a plan as the CPR has offered and it is a situation that all taxpayers should make themselves conversant with . . .

Nixon Envoy Scares Israel

By HAL McCLURE
From Tel Aviv

Will the new Republican administration in the United States be more pro-Arab, or perhaps less pro-Israeli?

The Israelis have an uneasy feeling this might be the case.

★ ★ ★

Scranton, who left for home Wednesday, avoided saying there would be any change in the U.S. Middle East policy. This was up to Nixon.

But his repeated description of this policy as evenhanded raised Arab hopes and Israeli fears.

In Cairo, Scranton denied the U.S. was giving "absolute support" to Israel. It was following an evenhanded policy, he said, adding that he believed this would be the case under Nixon.

★ ★ ★

When he crossed the Allenby Bridge into Israel from Jordan, Israeli reporters wanted to know what he had meant.

"I think it is important for the United States to take into consideration the feeling of all persons in the Middle East and not necessarily espouse one nation over some other," he replied.

At a Tel Aviv news conference he was asked whether, by "evenhandedness," he meant he would advocate the same treatment to Soviet-supported dictatorial regimes as to democratic ones.

The former Pennsylvania governor tried to explain again. He said many people got their impression that the U.S. was more interested in one country over another mainly through statements made in the U.S. or in views they believe people hold there.

Reporters pressed him again. Did Scranton believe the United States should take into consideration the feelings of all persons and countries advocating the Soviet presence in the Middle East?

★ ★ ★

"I think that it's very important for the United States, before deciding on its policy, to take into consideration all persons' viewpoints, because otherwise how would they know what kind of policy they have?" he said. "You can't ignore a certain element and say it doesn't exist when it does . . ."

Officially, Jerusalem is taking a wait-and-see attitude. So is Cairo.

Why Shape of Table Is Important

Battle of Wits Reflects Essence of Vietnam War

By CARL T. ROWAN, from Paris

A world grown weary of the Vietnam war will find it hard to understand why more soldiers should die while diplomats here argue over flags, the shape of a table, or who precedes whom into a room.

But that is reality today as these seemingly trifling issues block the way to the broader peace talks that might produce a cease-fire, or an end to a bitter, costly war.

Why all the time spent on such nonsense? someone asks. Because the nature of man, and of war, is such that the gravest principles come to be symbolized in a flag, a chair, the form of address or the question of who enters a room first.

It is only when one understands this that he can appreciate the remarkable feat of the U.S. negotiators, Averell Harriman and Cyrus Vance, in moving everyone this close to real peace talks.

All logic and compassion for human suffering suggest that the four delegations ought to be hard at the business of making peace next Wednesday. But even if they manage to get into the same building the most we can expect is a lengthy struggle over protocol and procedures. And it looks as if they will not even be able to get together.

Although the U.S. delegation here is devilishly silent about the remaining barriers to a meeting, I can report authoritatively that these are three of the sticky issues:

● Will the negotiators sit at a rectangular table, as the U.S. insists, at a square table, as North Vietnam demands, or will the parties finally break this impasse by suggesting a round table?

● Will the conferees agree that only the flags of North Vietnam and the United States may be in the conference room? Or will they give South Vietnam equal status? And in that case, can the National Liberation Front bring a flag?

● Will the Communist side deign to address the head of the South Vietnamese delegation as the "Mr. Vice President" of a sovereign nation when they have maintained all along that Nguyen Cao Ky and his colleagues are just puppets who don't really represent the South Vietnamese?

And how long will Ky grace the premises if he is regarded with anything less than the pomp and splendor accorded a vice president?

These issues would be easy to resolve if they were as hollow and asinine as they seem. But these disputes go to the heart of what the Vietnam war is all about:

★ ★ ★

Are the NLF and the Viet Cong outlaws who are using the money and support of the world communist movement to try to overthrow a legitimate, sovereign Saigon government? Or is the NLF truly representative only of a group of South Vietnamese patriots who have been trying to topple from power a series of puppet regimes kept in power by the U.S. military?

The whole procedural struggle is a battle of wits and patience in which one side tries to trick the other into admitting by implication that the trickster's side is right.

It is something close to a miracle that Harriman and Vance managed to finesse over such a vital issue by getting Hanoi to agree to an "our side, your side" formula that would put Saigon on "our side" and the NLF on "your side" so that everyone would forget to argue about which South Vietnamese group had superior status at the table.

★ ★ ★

Saigon is not enthralled with this, for it leaves the Thieu delegation in a position subordinate to those of the U.S. and North Vietnam and tends to enhance the notion that the Saigon leaders are U.S. puppets.

But now come Hanoi and the NLF trying to get a square table that would make the talks four-sided and upset the "your side, our side" formula. The United States is resisting.

It is not readily apparent why no one has suggested a circular table. Perhaps the idea has been missed because the negotiators are so busy arguing about flags.

Why not let anyone come in waving whatever he wants? Well, if four different flags show up, there we are with four-sided talks again. And the presence of an NFL flag would clearly suggest a degree of "recognition" that neither Saigon nor the U.S. wants to accord.

★ ★ ★

But Saigon is not about to let the flags of the U.S. and North Vietnam wave unless the South Vietnamese flag flies too. And the NLF isn't about to tolerate what it calls a "puppet" flag unless the NLF flag flies.

The solution would seem just what has prevailed in the preliminary talks — no flags.

All Travelling Frenchmen To Carry 'Currency Passport'

UPI, from Paris

In a crackdown on violations of its new currency regulations, the government intends to institute a "currency passport" for every Frenchman going abroad.

★ ★ ★

The "currency passport" will have to be carried in addition to the normal passport. The amount of currency—both French and foreign—will be registered in it every time a Frenchman leaves the country.

The planned action comes on the heels of an announcement the nation is suffering from a record trade deficit of $200,000,000 for November.

Under the new regulations Frenchmen can take the equivalent of $100 in foreign currency and 200 French francs ($40) when they travel abroad.

But there is no check on the number of times they can travel. Thus in essence anybody may cross the border 10 times a day and take the maximum amount of currency out with him each time.

Under the new regulations, each trip will be recorded.

The measures were discussed at a cabinet meeting presided over by President De Gaulle. The weakening French economic situation topped the list of problems discussed during the two-hour meeting.

Delays caused by austerity measures were also announced in the French space program.

A Franco-Russian satellite launch will take place only in 1972—a year behind schedule. Other unmanned launching programs will be delayed by six months until April, 1970 and 1971.

Meanwhile, French police methodically continued their anti-terrorist measures ordered by Premier Couve De Murville. In Paris alone, a massive roadblock operation resulted in 40 arrests.

Nixon's Team—in Profile

UPI, from Washington

Secretary of State — William Rogers, 55, was attorney-general during the second term of the Eisenhower administration, 1957-61, and has been a close friend and confidant of Nixon's for years. A senior partner in a Washington and New York law firm. He has had little experience in foreign affairs. Youthful-looking and sophisticated, he and his wife — also a lawyer — have four grown children.

★ ★ ★

Defence Secretary — Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin is a consummate politician who has built a vast store of knowledge about the workings of the Pentagon during his 16 years in the House. A balding 45-year-old, he advised Nixon on defence and Vietnam during the campaign. He is chairman of the House Republican conference (caucus) and orginally was a "hawk" on Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

Treasury Secretary — David Kennedy, 63, board chairman of Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago, a former lawyer and a Mormon. Rose in the federal reserve system to special assistant to former reserve board chairman Marriner Eccles, entered private banking with interim service as assistant to former treasury-secretary George Humphrey in the Eisenhower administration. Serves in 30 civic and service groups.

★ ★ ★

Attorney General — John Mitchell, a Nixon law partner and his presidential campaign manager this year. Nixon admires him for his tough-minded, analytical approach to complex problems. One of his junior officers in the Second World War as a torpedo boat commander was John F. Kennedy. Made a reputation as a legal specialist in state and municipal bonds. Once played professional hockey with the New York Rangers.

★ ★ ★

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare — Another close Nixon friend, Robert Finch, 43, is lieutenant governor of California, managed Nixon's unsuccessful 1960 bid for the presidency and was a key campaign adviser this year. The tall and ruggedly handsome former Marine outpolled Gov. Ronald Reagan and every other Republican in a partisan race in 1966.

★ ★ ★

Secretary of Housing and Urban Development — The other Mormon in the cabinet, George Romney, the governor of Michigan, is the best-remembered member for his abortive bid for the GOP presidential nomination this year. A vigorous, white-haired man of 61 who neither drinks nor smokes, he was successful in talking both American Motors Corp., of which he was president, and the State of Michigan out of financial trouble.

★ ★ ★

Labor Secretary — George Shultz, 48, dean of the graduate business school at the University of Chicago and a seasoned arbitrator of labor-management disputes. Held high advisory positions in the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations. His stand against government intervention in labor disputes pleases the unions.

★ ★ ★

Transportation Secretary — Gov. John Volpe of Massachusetts rose from bad carrier to a wealthy construction contractor. The 60-year-old son of Italian immigrants was tapped by former president Eisenhower to be the first federal highway administrator in 1956. A reform-minded governor, he once was considered as Nixon's vice-presidential running mate.

★ ★ ★

Interior Secretary — Gov. Walter Hickel of Alaska is an Anchorage hotel owner and contractor who gained his first full-time political job when he defeated the state's first elected governor, Democrat William Egan. Was Nixon's co-chairman for the western states, which went heavily for the president-elect. A former golden gloves boxing champion in his native Kansas, Hickel is 47 and the father of five sons.

★ ★ ★

Commerce Secretary — Maurice Stans, 60, is a New York investment banker who is expected to exhibit the same conservative views and attention to detail he did as President Eisenhower's budget director. A fund-raiser for Nixon's campaign, he is an accomplished big game hunter.

★ ★ ★

Postmaster General — Winton Blount, 47, is president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and head of a multimillion-dollar construction firm in Montgomery, Ala. Has said "politics is too important to leave to the politicians," and led volunteers for Nixon-Lodge in eight southeastern states in 1960. Called publicly for law and order in the South when the 1964 civil rights act was passed.

★ ★ ★

Agriculture Secretary — Clifford Hardin is a suave six-footer with grey hair who puffs on a pipe and keeps a cool head. The University of Nebraska chancellor, now 53, grew up on a farm near Knightstown, Ind., and attended college on a 4-H scholarship. He entered academic circles in 1944 when he joined the faculty at Michigan State University, and he went to Nebraska in 1954.

U.S. Envoy Bears Plan for Peace

ROME (UPI) — President-elect Richard Nixon's envoy William Scranton said Wednesday the new administration will offer a Middle East peace plan shortly after taking office Jan. 20.

Scranton made the statement to newsmen as he arrived by plane en route to New York after a week's fact-finding tour of Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Lebanon and Israel.

"Certainly we will put forward a peace plan," the former Pennsylvania governor said. "But for now I cannot say anything. I must keep my ideas to myself."

Scranton said he went to the Middle East in search of a peace solution.

"I was able to establish that the interested parties truly intend to find a solution to the problem," he said.

In Tel Aviv, Scranton said his trip had boosted his hopes for peace in the Middle East.

Mideast Battle

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — Israeli and Jordanian regulars fought three duels with tank cannons, machine guns and bazookas across the Jordan River cease-fire line Wednesday. They were the first ground clashes in a week.

In Amman, the Palestine Liberation Organization, an Arab guerrilla force, reported one of its bands traded rocket and automatic weapons fire with Israeli units in the northern Jordan Valley. The Israelis also used mortars and two war planes, a communique said.

It was the first outbreak of fighting on the Israeli-Jordanian line since last Wednesday.

Delegate Cites Guerrilla Threat

Korea Still Major Test for UN

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The United States and South Korea said Wednesday the United Nations must stay in Korea to avert a major communist guerrilla war.

Communist delegates staged a mass walkout when the annual Korea debate opened in the General Assembly's main political committee with a speech by South Korean foreign minister Kyu Hah Choi. But they returned to hear counter-attacks by Mongolia and the Soviet Union.

30,000 TRAINED

Choi accused Communist North Korea of training 30,000 special commando cadres to infiltrate the south, disrupt prosperity and stability, and lay the foundations for a massive guerrilla war. He said only faith in the United Nations keeps South Korea from retaliating against increasing communist violations of the 1953 armistice.

U.S. Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., warned that United Nations withdrawal risks the same consequence as the unilateral pullout of American troops in 1949 and 1950.

"Korea is one of the world's testing ground for the principles for which the United Nations was founded," he said. "What happens to this country is of grave concern to all nations interested in keeping those principles alive."

Choi reminded the committee of the series of North Korean raids since a 31-man commando team of North Korean army officers slipped across the demilitarized zone last January in a daring attack aimed at the presidential mansion in Seoul.

armistice violations in the 15 Choi said infiltration and raids continued at an ever-increasing rate during the year, hitting an unprecedented level of 51 major armistice violation in the 15 days from Oct. 21 to Nov. 4.

The climax was the landing of more than 90 guerrilla agents along the under-populated east coast of Korea between Oct. 31 and Nov. 2 in "the most massive and serious military provocation" since the 1953 armistice.

Italy Plagued By New Woes

ROME (UPI) — Italian student and labor agitation, stirred up by months of government instability, intensified across the nation Wednesday while premier-designate Mariano Rumor sought to put together a cabinet for his new government.

Thousands of industrial and farm workers staged a one-day general strike in Sicily and 10,000 port workers at Genoa walked off their jobs, tying up more than 60 ships.

Gas station attendants called a nationwide strike for Friday and department store and supermarket workers scheduled a walkout for Dec. 21 and 22, the peak of the pre-Christmas shopping period.

Railmen May Strike

PRAGUE (UPI) — A railway engineers union threatened Wednesday to stage the first crippling industrial strike in Czechoslovakia since the Stalinist era of 1953.

The Federation of Locomotive Engineers complained bitterly in a newspaper statement it had been persecuted on orders of Soviet occupation authorities and had lost its government recognition.

A compelling union sanctioned by the government implored engineers not to support an illegal strike which would devastate the economy of a nation heavily dependent upon its railways and already struggling with inflationary economic problems.

RUMORS SQUELCHED

The labor quarrel burst upon Prague as the chief Czechoslovak Communist party press spokesman squelched rumors that major changes in party leadership would be made at Thursday's central committee meeting.

Reports circulated that reformist party chief Alexander Dubcek would be "kicked upstairs" to a sinecure job.

"I certainly don't believe there will be any major changes," press aide Dr. Josef Tichy said.

Bennett Loses Jones Case

greeted the Supreme Court ruling with: "It may be purely rhetorical at this stage—but I want my job back. It was a job I did well, and I'd like it back."

Mr. Jones said he felt the verdict "was a just one," but added the award of $15,000 and costs didn't really compensate or offset all the personal and legal costs in fighting the case, or repay him for "irreparable damage to my reputation."

'NO ONE WINS'

"No one ever wins a libel or a slander action," he said. "I'm wiped out."

Premier Bennett would make no comment on the court ruling, beyond saying, "As a private citizen I'll accept it in good spirit."

"It must be regarded as settled that a plea of qualified privilege based on a ground relied on as in the case at bar cannot be upheld where the words complained of are published to the public generally or, as it is sometimes expressed, to the world," said the chief justice.

At the time of the Victoria meeting, the government had introduced an act in the B.C. legislature to oust Mr. Jones from his office as chairman of the provincial purchasing committee.

LATER ACQUITTED

The Act followed charges that Mr. Jones had accepted benefits from persons doing business with the government. He later was acquitted of the charges.

Mr. Bennett said at the Victoria meeting:

"I am not going to talk about the Jones boy. I could say a lot, but let me just assure you of this: The position taken by the government is the right position."

DEFENCE REJECTED

The trial judge rejected Mr. Bennett's defence of qualified privilege, saying the premier had no need nor duty to make the statements he made about Mr. Jones.

But the B.C. Court of Appeal upheld an appeal against the decision.

It said Mr. Bennett was protected by privilege.

In setting aside the appeal court's finding, Chief Justice Cartwright said:

"The claim . . . appears to me to require an unwarranted extension of the qualified privilege which has been held to attach to communications made by an elector to his fellow electors. . . ."

It was proper for a legislator to speak to supporters about matters of public interest. But "if, in the course of addressing them, he sees fit to make defamatory statements about another which are in fact untrue, it is difficult to see why the common convenience and welfare of society requires that such statements should be protected, and the person defamed left without a remedy unless he can affirmatively prove express malice on the part of the speaker."

The chief justice said he was satisfied that any privilege the premier might have had was lost by the fact that two reporters were seated at a press table and Mr. Bennett must have known that his remarks would be made public.

Vancouver lawyer Tom Berger, in the appeal before the Supreme Court, said Mr. Bennett's words carried the "unmistakeable impression that the reason for removal from office of Mr. Jones was discreditable to Mr. Jones."

He said the premier never offered any reason for the removal and this fact led to the inference Mr. Bennett had "no honest belief" in what he said.

NOT COMMENT

Chief Justice Cartwright said the great interest aroused in B.C. because of the controversy made the matter one of public debate.

"But the sting of the words complained of does not appear to me to be comment at all."

Final U.S. Vote Totals

Margin of Victory Near 500,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Nixon received 499,704 more popular votes than Hubert Humphrey in the Nov. 5 U.S. presidential election, complete official totals showed Wednesday.

Nixon received 31,770,237 votes, Humphrey had 31,270,533 and third-party nominee George Wallace had 9,906,141. Other candidates received 239,908.

Nixon got 43.40 per cent of the vote, Humphrey got 42.72 per cent and Wallace 13.53.

A record total of 773,186,819 votes was cast, compared with 70,913,673 votes cast in the 1964 presidential election. But it represented only 60.2 per cent of the estimated 121,500,000 Americans of voting age.

The official totals from 50 states and the District of Columbia did not change the electoral vote totals, which show Nixon 302, Humphrey 191, Wallace 45. The electors meet in their respective state capitals next Monday to cast their votes, which will be counted officially by a joint session of Congress Jan. 6.

Nixon Picks Cabinet

tial campaign, an untitled adviser on matters of defence. His voting record over 16 years in Congress shows Laird a man hawkish on foreign affairs, conservative on matters outside the defence arena.

DRIVE DIRECTOR

Mitchell, 55, from Rye, N.Y., is an expert in state and municipal bonds. He joined the Nixon law firm some two years ago as a senior partner. Nixon and Mitchell quickly became close friends and, early this year, unannounced, the pipe-smoking Wall Street lawyer became director of Nixon's drive for the Republican presidential nomination.

Kennedy, 63, spent 16 years with the Federal Reserve System in Washington, served in the treasury department for a year during the Eisenhower administration.

ROSE SWIFTLY

He joined Continental Bank in 1946, rose swiftly to the top echelon of the eighth largest commercial banking institution in the U.S.

Finch, 43, has known Nixon since 1947, and served him as an administrative assistant during the vice-presidential years. He was top man in the 1960 Nixon presidential campaign, an unofficial but frequent companion and adviser during the 1968 race.

Stans, too, has long been a Nixon associate. He is 60, and a New York investment banker. He was Nixon's top fund raiser during the 1968 campaign, both before and after the Republican convention, presiding over an effort which raised more than $20,000,000.

Romney, at 61, has been governor of Michigan for six years. His smashing re-election in 1966 propelled him to the front rank of Republican presidential contenders, but the luster faded quickly and he withdrew in the face of a gigantic Nixon lead in public opinion polls prior to New Hampshire's leadoff presidential primary.

CAMPAIGNER

He campaigned vigorously for Nixon after the president-elect was nominated.

Hickel, 49, went to Alaska 28 years ago, virtually broke. He became a millionaire in real estate and construction, and the state's first Republican governor two years ago.

Volpe is a construction man, too, and has three times been elected governor of Massachusetts. Federal highway commissioner during the Eisenhower years, Volpe had courted the vice-presidential nomination, and was said to have been in the running until Nixon settled on Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland.

Commonwealth Subsidiaries

1967 Ended Up in the Red

VANCOUVER (CP) — A lawyer said in British Columbia Supreme Court Wednesday that some of the Commonwealth group of companies had a deficit of $1,000,000 at the end of 1967.

David Sigler, representing the B.C. Securities Commission, made the statement during submissions in a court action involving five Commonwealth companies.

The companies, placed under the receivership of accountant A. D. Peter Stanley of Vancouver, are opposing appointment of Mr. Stanley as receiver on a permanent basis.

Mr. Sigler said the deficit was on the Dec. 31, 1967 balance sheet of "Commonwealth Investors Syndicate and the associated group of companies at issue here."

The other four firms involved in the court action are Commonwealth Acceptance Corp. Ltd., Centennial Mortgage Corp. Ltd., Evergreen Estates Ltd., and Commonwealth Savings Plan Ltd.

The companies argued that the securities commission's original order referred only to various individuals trading in company shares and that the court had no jurisdiction to make Mr. Stanley a receiver.

Mr. Sigler, in opposing the companies' position, said the real substance of the case was whether the court could protect the interests of the public.

John Bull on Spending Spree Despite New Crisis Warning

LONDON (AP) — John Bull was told Wednesday that a new economic crisis is hanging over his head.

The warning came from Reginald Maudling, "shadow" chancellor of the exchequer. That is a Conservative party job which, if the Labor party is ousted in the next general election, puts Maudling in the spot where he dictates the budget.

NEW DIMENSION

Maudling said Prime Minister Wilson's government has created an economic problem of entirely new dimension. To John Bull, the man on the street, there were high-sounding words—and maybe accurate ones.

In the meantime, 50 theatres are packed. Lines form to get into movies. There hasn't been the slightest whimper from the distillers or the brewers about a lack of interest in what they're producing.

A shoe-repair shop closed in a London suburb. The man said people buy new ones now, they don't get the old ones repaired.

What's happened is the creation of two worlds. One is the public arena of financiers, politicians, statesmen, newspapers, radio and television. This world tells in all candor about the British pound, the labor versus management argument, the general insecurity affecting the United Kingdom—enough to turn hair grey.

'MONEY NO GOOD'

Then there's the other world of 60,000,000 spenders who have money in their pockets that they are turning loose in a torrent.

One truck driver put it this way: "They say the money is no good. We're in trouble. That (West) German and that French money and the dollar and all that. So let's spend it."

The Bank of England says savings on deposit have steadily fallen. John Bull is spending his money.

Easy Victory

Second two-year term as mayor of Vancouver was won Wednesday by often-controversial Tom Campbell, left, who scored easy victory over longtime mayor and reeve of Burnaby Alan Emmott, candidate of new election organization.—(CP)

Premier Bennett:

Begin Conference Without Bertrand

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett said Wednesday night next week's federal-provincial constitutional conference should start as scheduled despite the illness of Quebec Premier Bertrand.

"I believe as premier of B.C. that this conference should go on," Premier Bennett said. "It might not last as long as it otherwise might have had the premier of Quebec been able to attend."

Mr. Bennett said he, like the rest of Canada's provincial premiers, regretted Mr. Bertrand's illness, "but I really believe all the rest of the premiers in Canada had their opening statements ready, so they could be presented in any case."

"This won't be the only conference on constitutional matters," said Premier Bennett. "This is a big problem and there are many differences of opinion across our nation. It is a tremendous thing to change our constitution basically."

Yeats Inspiration

Poems in Nude College Climax

DETROIT (AP) — A 21-year-old English student at suburban Oakland University capped his senior year by reading poems in the nude to a class of some 50 persons Tuesday night.

Lee Ehinger of Detroit told The Associated Press he stripped off all his clothes, down to his bare feet, and lectured to the audience for some 15 minutes in the Oakland University Theatre.

Then he walked among the audience, which included male and female students and instructors, and passed out candy.

"If I am naked and I am not ashamed, then I am free," Ehinger explained.

"I stood up, took off all my clothes and got an apple," said Ehinger.

"I started talking about how Adam, in the Garden of Eden, took the apple."

"I tried to tie it in with Yeats's idea that everybody is one, that we are all one," Ehinger said.

One student who attended the nude reading said "I think the audience appreciated it as art."

UVic Four Given Fellowships

Four University of Victoria professors have been awarded Canada Council fellowships for further study, it was announced Wednesday.

Wall Death Accident

Victoria coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre ruled Wednesday that the death of Philip Mattison, 75, of 2717 Belmont, was accidental.

Mr. Mattison was found sitting upright in a pile of bricks at a demolition site at 731 Cormorant. The coroner said the victim was killed by a falling wall.

Optometrist Looks to Los Angeles Future

Billions Willed Centuries Ahead

LOS ANGELES (LAT) — For many years before his death March 1, 1966, Dr. Maxmillian Lando wore no socks and kept his overcoat fastened with safety pins.

But Los Angeles citizens — two centuries hence—will have reason to be grateful for the eccentric, 86-year-old optometrist's stark frugality.

He may have appeared to have been an impoverished recluse, but a Superior Court judge Wednesday upheld the validity of Dr. Lando's strange will, under which "the good people of Los Angeles" stand to inherit 3 billion dollars 200 years from now.

Dr. Lando, who lived in a five-room house, left an estate appraised at $728,432.91.

His will bequeathed half of it to his alma mater, the University of Minnesota, the other half to Los Angeles citizens.

He directed that the Los Angeles funds draw interest for 200 years before they can be touched. Financial experts project that funds drawing 5 per cent interest every 15 years double. Thus Los Angeles' share in two centuries would exceed 3 billion dollars.

Dr. Lando's bequest to the university provided that the funds be held intact for 100 years, while drawing interest, then be used for scholarships.

Dr. Lando apparently had only two inteersts in his declining years — the car rides which neighbors took him on to entertain him, and oil paintings, which he did not on canvas but cardboard.

Cousins, who were left only the paintings in Dr. Lando's will, challenge its validity. It was this challenge which led to Wednesday's ruling by Judge Adolph Alexander.

The cousins contended the will should not be recognized because Dr. Lando had written it on paper which already bore his printed name. But the judge held this was no reason to throw out the will, dated Oct. 15, 1962.

The judge said, however, its strange provisions regarding "the good people of Los Angeles" still must undergo interpretation.

Because the will did not specify whether the bequest should go to the city or the county, indications are rival claims will be filed by the two government units.

Edwin Raskin, attorney for Dr. Lando's bank, said he believed the optometrist patterned his will after that of Benjamin Franklin.

Chances for Parley Dim

Nigerian Dubious on Peace

LAGOS (Reuters) — The leader of the Nigerian federal negotiating team said Wednesday he does not foresee a resumption of peace talks with the breakaway state of Biafra.

Chief Anthony Enahoro, who returned from a trip to Canada, said "As far as I am concerned there is no hope of re-opening peace talks with the rebels."

Enahoro made his remarks as Lord Shepherd, British minister of state at the foreign and Commonwealth office, met with federal leader Maj.-Gen. Yakubu Gowon to discuss British proposals to end the 18-month civil war.

Some authorities said peace talks could only come about if Biafra renounced its intention to be an independent state.

Other government officials hoped Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie would be able to bring the two sides to the conference table.

Selassie, head of the Organization of African Unity, chaired the last round of abortive Nigerian-Biafran peace talks and is reported working on plans to resume the dialogue.

Canada Recalls Relief Planes

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canadian Hercules transport aircraft have been withdrawn from the Biafran relief operation following failure of the breakaway government to permit daylight flights with emergency supplies for starving residents of the rebel zone, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp announced Wednesday.

Sharp said the decision had been taken "following the failure of the regime of Lt.-Col. Ajukwu to respond to an appeal by Prime Minister Trudeau on Nov. 4, to permit the Red Cross to operate a relief airlift by daylight into the rebel area."

Despite repeated efforts, the International Red Cross has been unable to hold out hope that the proposal would be accepted by the Biafran authorities, Sharp said.

"In these circumstances, the Canadian government has no alternative but to withdraw its aircraft until such time as the Biafran authorities agree to daylight flights," he said.

Ship Protest

Red Claim Held Vain

ISTANBUL (UPI) — Turkish legal sources said Wednesday the Soviet Union has failed to muster any valid legal argument against the Black Sea patrol of two U.S. guided-missile destroyers.

The U.S. Navy was silent Wednesday on the precise movements of the 3,500-ton destroyers Turner and Dyess, which were steaming through the third day of a five-day Black Sea cruise "somewhere outside the territorial limits of the Soviet Union and other states bordering on the inland sea."

'ROUTINE'

A spokesman for the navy in London said Wednesday that the patrol is "routine" and not intended as a provocation in any way. He denied Soviet claims they would intrude into Soviet waters.

The Turkish legal sources said the Soviets were making a hopeless case against the entry of the U.S. ships by basing their complaints on allegations that the ships are carrying nuclear-tipped missiles.

PRE-NUCLEAR

They said the 1936 Montreux Convention that governs passage of ships through the Turkish Bosporous obviously contained no provision barring nuclear weapons. It restricts only on the basis of gun size and vessel weight, neither of which excludes the U.S. warships.

Rare Stamp Pair From Canada Brings $44,200

LONDON (CP) — An anonymous Japanese buyer paid £17,000 ($44,200) Wednesday for a pair of 12-penny stamps from Canada's first postal issue in 1851. Saleroom experts described it as a world record price for Canadian stamps.

"This is the greatest Canadian philatelic rarity," said a spokesman for Christie's, where a collection of British North American stamps assembled by the late Capt. Vivian Hewitt was sold in conjunction with Robson Lowe, a London stamp dealer.

UNUSED PAIRS

Only five unused pairs of the 12-penny black are in existence. Another pair was sold in New York last month for £16,500, the spokesman said.

Bidding today started at £10,000. The auctioneers were surprised by the size of the final bid.

The 12-penny denomination, issued between 1851 and 1857, proved impractical in the complicated structure of early Canadian postal rates and only 1,510 were sold. The remaining 49,490 stamps of the issue were withdrawn and destroyed.

The total amount paid at today's sale of Hewitt stamps was £52,243. In an October sale in Basel, Switzerland, the first part of the collection, mainly North American airmail stamps, fetched more than £100,000.

Capt. Hewitt was a pioneer aviator. He purchased the 12-penny pair in 1934 for £1,400.

Pilot's Estate Provides Balm

TORONTO (CP) — Jean Merrill Hamilton, 33, of London, Ont., and her two children were awarded $115,651 Wednesday in her suit against the estate of the pilot of a private aircraft which crashed 18 months ago, leading to the death of her husband.

★ ★ ★

Gordon David Hamilton, 33, was a passenger in a plane piloted by James Robert Shore, 41, of Winnipeg. They and another passenger, George Bennett, died after the plane crashed near God's Lake during a fishing trip in Northern Manitoba.

Mrs. Hamilton was awarded $75,651 by an Ontario Supreme Court. Her son, Gordon, 11, was awarded $19,000 and her daughter, Laura, 8, $21,000.

Mr. Shore was founder and president of Office Overload Co. Ltd. Mr. Hamilton was its Toronto-area divisional manager and Mr. Barnett an executive of the firm.

Mrs. Hamilton sued the estate of Mr. Shore, valued at $2,438,025.

Half-Naked Body in Trunk
Murder Motive Not Apparent

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Police were working Wednesday to find a motive for the killing of a miner whose body was found Tuesday evening by his ex-wife wrapped in wet rags and stuffed in the trunk of his car.

Police reported he had been shot twice in the head by what was believed a .32-calibre automatic weapon.

A police spokesman said they believe Tamas was murdered in the kitchen of his home and his body placed in the trunk of his 1960 Oldsmobile along with wet rags used to mop up the bloodstained home.

The car was then driven to a spot near the Fraserview Cemetery in the hope someone would investigate.

When it was not found by Monday evening, police reported, someone using Tamas' name called a local towing company and ordered the car be taken to Tamas' home.

The driver of the towing vehicle, David Anderson, said when he arrived at the address there was a man waiting to pay the $8 towing charge. Anderson said the man told him the car was his landlord's and he hadn't seen him for two weeks.

Concerned because she hadn't heard from her ex-husband in 10 days, Tamas' divorced wife Jennie went to his home, and after talking to a young Hungarian lodger, decided to look in the car.

Together they pried open the trunk and found the half-naked body.

Police declined to disclose the identity of the Hungarian lodger but described him as a "hard-working miner" who uses the house while visiting Vancouver. They said he was working at Britannia Beach at the apparent time of the murder.

(An autopsy had shown Tamas had been dead for at least four days when his body was found.)

Yorky Wins Jail

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Christmas came early this year for 79-year-old Norman (Yorky) Haworth.

Provincial Judge Gordon Stewart was delivering his judgment Tuesday on an assault charge involving a neighborhood squabble, when into the courtroom came Yorky.

Yorky leads the county in convictions with more than 700 for being drunk in a public place.

Yorky said he wanted to see the judge and it was a personal matter. The judge invited Yorky into his chambers after the case was dismissed.

Yorky presented Judge Stewart with a Christmas card and two flowers, which he had just bought. He showed the sales slip to prove they were not "liberated."

He also gave a Christmas card to Justice of the Peace Henry Davis.

In exchange for the Christmas gifts, Judge Stewart granted Yorky's request to go to jail for 15 days. Yorky owed three liquor fines and he was told he could serve the time instead of paying for

Yorky made sure it worked out that he could get out of jail Dec. 24, because "I want to go and see my sister for Christmas."

Takeoff Fails At Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A chartered airliner with 104 persons aboard crashed on takeoff from McCarren international airport when an engine failed. Five persons suffered minor injuries.

The four-engine Lockheed Super Constellation was gathering speed down the runway when the flight engineer suddenly ordered pilot Dick Robinson to abort the takeoff because the right inside engine quit.

Anti-Trust

IBM Faces Suit

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Control Data Corp. filed a civil action Wednesday against International Business Machines Corp., alleging the giant firm had violated United States anti-trust laws in the computer field.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court in St. Paul, asked for treble damages allegedly incurred by Control Data, and requested a jury trial of "all the issues."

It also asked the court to issue an injunction directing IBM to halt alleged monopolistic practices.

The Bloomington, Minn.-based firm asked the court to consider "dissolution of the business or the vestiture of properties of dependent IBM, or enter such orders as may be necessary to dissipate the effects of the violations alleged . . . to ensure competitive conditions in the computer markets and submarkets."

FEAR PRICE CONTROL

The 30-page complaint charged that IBM has for many years "possessed, or had a dangerous probability and likelihood of having possession of, power to control prices or exclude competition with respect to the interstate and foreign computer markets and submarkets."

The suit said IBM's share of the domestic and international computer market ranges from 77 to 90 per cent.

The suit alleges that IBM has "sold or leased some computers at a loss for the purpose or would-be effect of hindering competition.

Booming

Jobless In U.S. Falling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. government reported Wednesday the unemployment rate during November was the lowest in 15 years and that total employment had reached a record high for the month.

The labor department said the November unemployment rate was 3.3 per cent of the U.S. work force. This was three-tenths of 1 per cent below October and the lowest since November, 1953, when it dropped to 3.1 per cent.

JOHNSON FAILURE

The number of jobless Americans fell by 200,000 last month, down to a total of 2,600,000, boosting total employment to 76,600,000, a record for November for the ever-increasing working force.

Administration spokesmen declined to give a reason for the gain in employment, and would not speculate on the possibility that it reflected a failure of President Johnson's income tax surcharge to slow down the bustling economy.

NON-WHITES WORKING

Nor were they able to explain a sharp drop in non-white unemployment during November, which fell to 6.5 per cent from the October level of 7.4 per cent.

Harold Goldstein, assistant commissioner for the bureau of labor statistics, said, however, it was possible the reduction in non-white jobless was the result of expansions in service industries.

Her Wish Up To Hanoi

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Mrs. Hayden Lockhart has a simple wish for Christmas.

She wants her Christmas package to reach her husband, a prisoner-of-war in North Vietnam for the last 3½ years.

And she hopes for better luck than in the past, when Christmas packages mailed to her husband have been returned by the North Vietnamese.

TALKS IN PARIS

"My hopes are higher this year for several reasons," she said after mailing another package.

"The talks in Paris have naturally buoyed my optimism," she said.

Her husband, a captain, was the first air force pilot shot down over North Vietnam. He has been held captive since March 2, 1965.

"I've received just six letters from Hayden during the time he's been a prisoner," she said. The last letter, received in April, had been written in December, 1967, she said.

Powel on Colored Schools:

But All the Pupils Will Be British

LONDON (AP) — Britain may soon have schools for colored children only in areas where many immigrants live.

This apparent reversal of earlier government policy was disclosed Tuesday by Education Minister Edward Short, opening a new school where four out of five pupils are colored at Wolverhampton in the parliamentary district represented by right-winger Enoch Powell.

Powell, who has spoken out repeatedly in favor of Britain's immigrants being returned to their own countries, attended the school ceremony. He sat at the back of the platform and did not speak. A small crowd outside cheered him with cries of "Keep it up, Enoch."

Short said it was inevitable that there would be all-colored schools in some areas.

"But all the pupils will be British," he stressed. "And they will be treated in exactly the same way as anyone else."

Previous government policy urged local authorities to adjust school areas so as to avoid concentrations of immigrants. Where this proved impossible, they were to "make every effort" to disperse immigrant children to other schools farther from their homes.

New University Approved By Quebec Legislature

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — The Quebec Legislature has approved creation of the University of Quebec. The bill creating the new institution was given final reading in the Assembly late Tuesday.

Under terms of the bill, the new institution will include a second French-language university in the Montreal area and two schools in Trois Rivieres, located halfway between Montreal and Quebec City, and in Chicoutimi, about 200 miles north of Quebec.

Former Liberal Education minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie congratulated the government for going ahead with the legislation — one of the many reforms suggested in the voluminous report submitted by the royal commission on education several years ago.

The commission, headed by Laval University vice-rector Msgr. Alphonse-Marie Parent, was established by the previous Liberal government.

Senate Decision

Final Exams Out at UVic

By BILL STAVDAL

Elimination of the traditional year-end examination was approved Wednesday by the senate of the University of Victoria.

At its first public meeting the senate substituted a flexible system of student evaluation largely at the discretion of the professor. Exams can still be used if an instructor wishes.

The senate decision substantially agreed with a request made by the Student Alma Mater Society last summer.

A senate subcommittee on academic planning — including four students — presented a series of recommendations to the senate after several months' study of student requests.

The senate ratified the subcommittee's recommendation that descriptions of course offerings be expanded in the university calendar.

The students had demanded that the name of a professor must be included in the calendar beside the course he would teach. The senate agreed to do so, "wherever possible."

Student Counselling

The senate authorized creation of a student counselling service in each department or division to guide course selections.

The senate vetoed a student request that the academic year begin with a two-week trial period for students to shop around for courses and professors which suited them.

The subcommittee reported to the senate that "undue weight" should not be attached to a single final examination.

It recommended a variety of examination techniques. These might include classroom exam take-home exams, open-book exams, oral exams, evaluation of the year's work, or personal evaluation combined with a student's self-evaluation.

A student will be assigned a letter grade by his instructor after the instructor consults with his department.

The senate also turned down a student proposal for a "reading week" break in spring, which would be devoted to independent study. Instead, a day was added to the midterm break at the end of February.

Apartments Biggest Boom

City Building Highest Ever

The city of Victoria has reached an all-time high in construction this year.

The total value of building permits issued up to the end of November was $24,371,751, city officials said Wednesday.

* * *

The largest category of new construction in this unprecedented total was apartment developments which accounted for $6,947,000. Commercial development so far this year totals $4,678,685.

Another sign of the booming demand was the amount spent on the renovation of older non-residential buildings. This totalled $3,250,000, compared with $2,115,000 during the first 11 months of last year.

Mayor Hugh Stephen earlier this year said the building pace showed the confidence of investors in the growth of the city, although he predicted then that there would be a levelling-off next year.

Crewman in Isolation

Federal Doctors Ease Fears About Cholera

Medical authorities said Wednesday they doubt they will find any trace of cholera in a crewman from a British ship that is in quarantine off Royal Roads.

The crewman is in isolation in St. Joseph's Hospital, but Dr. L. J. Loftus of the national health and welfare department described him as "quite well now."

"He is apparently fully recovered from the attack he had."

MUST PLAY SAFE

According to Dr. L. E. Davies, the department's area director from Vancouver, the odds are nine-to-one against the man having cholera.

"But we have to play it safely," he said.

He is in Victoria to supervise tests, and said he felt that by the weekend results will prove negative.

CARGO OF GRAIN

The sailor took ill aboard the freighter Harmattan Nov. 25 when it was five days out of Shanghai bound for Vancouver, where it was to pick up a cargo of grain.

The ship's captain expressed fear that the man had cholera, and radioed Tokyo for advice. The signals were monitored by the Canadian transport department and the captain was advised to sail to Victoria.

The freighter arrived Sunday and was placed in quarantine. It will remain in quarantine until the results of the tests are known.

DIARRHEA, VOMITING

Cholera is a gastro-intestinal infection. It is highly contageous and is characterized by acute diarrhea and vomiting.

Epidemics of cholera take about 200,000 lives annually in India. But Dr. Loftus said death doesn't generally occur when there is proper medical treatment.

He said the crewman's apparent recovery didn't necessarily prove he didn't have cholera.

WELL CARED FOR

"He was well cared for on the ship," he said. "He was given antibiotics."

While he doubted the man had cholera, he said the disease could be subdued with antibiotics.

Dr. Loftus said he has never known of a case of cholera in Victoria.

Deer Launches Pileup

It wasn't hitting the deer that wrecked the motorbike — it was being run over by the truck.

The deer bounded onto the Old Island Highway in front of Thomas A. Watson, 21, of 1751 Cedar Hill Cross Road, at noon Wednesday. Mr. Watson hit it and was thrown off.

A following truck swerved to miss the deer and the motorcyclist, and ran over the bike.

A following car swerved to miss the deer, the rider and the truck, and went off the road.

There were no injuries to the people, but the deer died.

Pedestrians Warned to Watch

Rough Tempers Kill

Pedestrians were warned Wednesday for their own safety not to fray the tempers of motorists.

The Greater Victoria and District Safety Council issued a message that also advised pedestrians to beware of silent cars, and not overestimate a vehicle's ability to stop, even when the law says the person on foot has the right-of-way.

The council offered eight pieces of advice:

- Cross the street only at corners or crosswalks, and even then keep a sharp lookout and obey all signals. Bad pedestrian manners and behavior have an adverse effect on vehicle traffic flow and cause frayed tempers to develop, which in turn result in accidents.
- Don't always expect vehicles to be able to stop for you. A car going 20 miles an hour needs 46 feet to stop.
- Be alert for vehicles making right turns at intersections. Modern cars are getting quieter, so always look twice.
- The motorist hasn't a ghost of a chance to avoid a pedestrian who dashes from between parked cars.
- Wear or carry something light or reflective when walking at night, and always assume the motorist can't see you.
- Always walk on the left, facing traffic, if on the road, and allow for cars' higher speeds on rural roads.
- Pedestrians can be impaired, too. Don't take chances when you've had a few.
- Remember that drivers can't see as well when streets are wet, and can't stop as quickly.

Oak Bay Hears Tax Life Facts

By CLEMENT CHAPPLE

Oak Bay ratepayers were told Wednesday night how to pay taxes on two furnaces when they only have one in the house.

The answer: tear out the old one and install a new one. A new furnace in a $10,000 house brings additional taxes of $16, secretary Allan Guy told the Oak Bay Ratepayers' Association.

ANOTHER $16

And if a third furnace is needed in 10 years to heat up that new rumpus room, another $16 will find its way to the tax collector — as well as $10 for the new room.

Such are the facts of assessment life in Oak Bay, the meeting in Oak Bay Municipal Hall learned.

Assessment law is uniform province-wide, and each municipality sets the mill rate which determines the taxes in dollars.

Mr. Guy gave more examples of penalties for home improvements, and a member added others.

COLOR COSTS

The plumbing gives way and replacement is a must. That costs $5. Spruce up the bathroom with mauve fixtures — $5. It's a lovely old house, but new electrical wiring is needed — another $8.

To lower the kitchen ceiling means $5 more in taxes. Raise the ceiling again and there's no getting back the fiver. It will cost a further $5.

Other figures — a new floor, $10; a new roof, $8; stucco siding, $16; the front steps collapse, $3.

PLUS PERMIT

None of these examples includes the building permit required to begin repairs — usually $6.

From the floor of the meeting, Jack Rhodes of 2700 Burdick related the cost of saving his basement from a flood.

As new tiles were being laid to top off the offending waters, at a cost of $600 for the repairs, the building inspector showed up to sell a $2 permit.

The assessed value of any house is given as 50 per cent of the market value.

If a house has been assessed at a market value of $25,000, but is sold for $17,000, chances are it will be taxed at its old value, unless the assessor is made aware of the change.

Home-owners can appeal to the Court of Revision to rectify the situation, but only for the coming year. There is no refund of taxes paid on an over-assessed house.

INCREASE LIMITED

Mr. Rhodes said he was able to get a reduction of 37 per cent on his assessment.

To stop spiraling land values from suddenly boosting the assessments of innocent bystander houses, there is a 5-per-cent limit to assessment increase in any one year.

A modest house that is suddenly surrounded by luxurious homes, thereby raising the market value of all houses in the area, will get knocked 5 per cent each year until the total assessment comes up to the others around it.

Christmas Death Claimed . . .

Protests about protest have been heard ever since Mike Gentes, 22, and some friends hanged Santa in effigy from their house at 2540 Blanshard. Mr. Gentes said he objected to what Christmas had become. Several callers said they objected to possible panic for young children, who might take it seriously. — (Robin Clarke)

Food Stall

Oranges Truck Needed

Mandarin oranges and transportation, preferably a truck, are the most urgent needs of the Free Food Stall, convener Mrs. Joan Price said Wednesday.

She asked people able to provide either of these to call 479-4870 or 382-4954.

Businesses in the 700 block Yates will put on their annual Christmas show at 11 a.m. Saturday in the Odeon Theatre for the food stall. A donation of two tins of food will be the admission price to the two-hour comedy and cartoon show.

Free distribution for December will take place Dec. 21 at the Elks Lodge on Cormorant.

DeMolay Dance Aids Fund

The Vancouver Island DeMolay Association will sponsor a semi-formal dance from 8 p.m. to 12 a.m. Saturday at the YM-YWCA to raise money for the Colonist 500 Fund.

Since use of the YM-YWCA is free and two bands, Gates of Time and Blue Requiem are donating their time, all proceeds will go to the fund.

Tickets are $1.75 a couple or $1 stag.

Police Charge Chairs Stolen

A man has been charged with theft over $50 after 16 chairs were missed from the University of Victoria. Oak Bay police valued the chairs at $80. City police have also charged a man with possession of stolen goods.

. . . But Spirit Alive

Thanks from Mrs. John Wood, wife of Salvation Army's Major John Wood, welcomes donation to Salvation Army kettles by 11-year-old Linda Perron. Kettles will be seen and jingle bells will be heard outside all major department stores and at many intersections from now to Christmas.—(Jim Ryan)

Mediation Chief Says Work Entirely Free of Politics

By DON COLLINS

Politics will play no part in the functions of the new B.C. Mediation Commission, the commission's chairman promised Wednesday night.

In his first speech since his appointment to the $40,000-a-year post several months ago, Mr. Justice John Parker told the Amalgamated Construction Association of B.C. in Victoria:

* * *

"The appointments were so utterly unpolitical that not one of the persons appointed (three commissioners and team of mediators) has had any political connection with the party in office."

He said also that the commission had organized its work without interference of any sort from government.

"If we fail, we will have nobody to blame but ourselves."

* * *

Formation of the commission and Bill 33 which will guide it have been strongly opposed by organized labor. Unionists see the compulsory arbitration feature and the power that makes the commission's decisions binding as a threat to labor's freedom.

Mr. Justice Parker said this was a provision only in Section 18 of the act, and that it was wrong to assume it was a dominant feature. The emphasis, he assured, would still be on free collective bargaining.

Of his team of mediators, he said: "You will have available to you the best-paid mediation service in Canada.

* * *

"I believe this to be the most talented group ever assembled in Canada for this purpose."

He noted that labor had complained when three of its leaders took commission jobs, but said the commission had also stolen top men from the business world.

"We know in the future we will have men bought from us," he said.

* * *

Mr. Justice Parker, who was a territorial judge in the Yukon, said he hoped that in a year's time both management and labor would feel the commission was serving a useful purpose "and, in fact, is working."

Next games: Tonight—St. Louis at Montreal; Toronto at Philadelphia; Detroit at Oakland.

Imlach, who assured club owners earlier this month that his club would be in the National Hockey League playoffs, got his finest performance of the season from the Leafs last night.

Winner of three straight games after the confrontation between Imlach and owners, the Leafs delighted their coach and 16,845 Toronto fans last night by earning a 4-4 tie with Montreal Canadiens in a free-wheeling game which produced some exceptional hockey in the last two periods.

FINE GOALKEEPING

Leafs went out to match Canadiens at their game of speed, and stayed with them in sizzling action which produced good passing, good defensive play and brilliant goalkeeping by both Bruce Gamble and the Montreal stand-in, Tony Esposito.

All eight goals came off outstanding individual efforts or pin-point passing which left goalkeepers helpless.

LEAFS OUTSHOT

Gamble had to contend with 41 Montreal shots but while the Leafs managed only 28 at Esposito, the Montreal net-minder had some tough chances and was superb in the third period when he saved the point for his club during a Toronto power play.

Esposito made five big saves to keep the Leafs at 4-3 and make John Ferguson's goal in the 15th minute mean a tie.

Leafs were best served by the Dave Keon-Murray Oliver-Ron Ellis line. It produced goals by Keon and Ellis, both set up by Oliver, who was named the outstanding player of the game.

ARMSTRONG SCORES

George Armstrong, neatly tipping in a shot in the first period for his first goal since coming out of retirement, and Paul Henderson scored the other Toronto goals.

Mickey Redmond and Jacques Lemaire beat Gamble with booming shots and Dick Duff got the other Montreal goal with the neatest play of the game.

OTHER SCORES

In other games, Pittsburgh's Improved Penguins scored a 4-2 win over Minnesota North Stars, Chicago Black Hawks ended St. Louis Blues' unbeaten skein at 12 games with a 6-3 win and Detroit Red Wings lost to the Kings, 6-3, in Los Angeles.

Three goals within 55 seconds in the second period turned things around in Chicago, where the Blues has a 2-1 lead after 20 minutes.

The barrage came against Glenn Hall, who replaced Gary Edwards at the start of the period. Edwards had taken over from Jacques Plante for the last six minutes of the first period after Plante suffered a forehead cut which needed 15 stitches when struck by a puck shot by Stan Mikita.

FIRST OF TWO

After Dennis Hull and Frank St. Marseille had exchanged third-period goals, Bobby Hull ended the scoring late in the game with his 20th goal of the season.

NHL-Soviet Match In Planning Stage

TORONTO (CP) — A reliable source says plans are underway to match a team of professional players against the Russians for the world hockey title in the near future.

The team could be Toronto Maple Leafs or Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League providing the International Hockey Federation agrees to change the world tournament into open competition, the source said Wednesday night.

The statements were made in connection with one made earlier in the day by Earl Dawson, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

". . . the Canadian public and the wish of the European countries — especially Russia — to prove their supremacy against the best we have to offer will force the change," Dawson said.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Gordie Howe Number 9.

That's the title of a book written by Toronto-sports editor Jim Vipond (Ryerson Press, $4.95), and it couldn't have become available at a more appropriate time. Not only is Howe still making headlines as big as ever in a career that is almost beyond belief but anyone still with a Christmas gift problem for anyone interested in sport need look no further. Howe may well be the best-ever Canadian athlete and Vipond has done an excellent job of putting the tremendous amount of material at his disposal into a fascinating history of an attention-holding performer.

No reasonable person will argue any longer that Howe isn't the greatest player hockey has ever had but this amazing man, experts say, could have had a big-league baseball career and could probably have earned a luxury life as a professional golfer. But a man eventually has to be judged by what he is off the playing surface, and everyone will be the richer for having read about Gordie Howe the man.

Seldom in the history of sport has anyone as prominent as Howe lived a more exemplary life. Off the ice he is the perfectionist he is on it, determined to excel at everything he undertakes. He is a fine family man, his modesty amazes those who meet him for the first time, he is thoughtful, still more shy than reserved and has a whimsical sense of humor which expresses a philosophy of life more of us could subscribe to.

★ ★ ★

Vipond's book abounds with tributes to Howe the man as well as to Howe the athlete.

On his ability, the most telling comment came from Frank Selke.

"Gordie Howe," said the man who ran Montreal Canadiens in the days when Maurice Richard was the greatest name in the game, "is the greatest all-round player in the history of hockey. He is a composite of some mighty fine stars including Rocket Richard, Jean Beliveau, Milt Schmidt and others. I've been watching the game as fan and official since the 1900's. I've never seen anyone combine so many faculties. He is simply the greatest."

"Howe's hockey record speaks for itself," says Tommy Ivan, one-time coach of Detroit Red Wings. "As a man he has been a credit to the game, to his family, to his parents and to his friends. He is what a pro athlete, or anyone for that matter, should be. He was the easiest guy to handle—a good-living guy. Like Gordie, I had things a little rough as a kid, and I fully appreciate the way he came up."

"I only wish," says Pierre Pilote, now playing defence for Toronto Maple Leafs, "that half the nice things said about Gordie could be said about me."

Reasons for that kind of admiration abound through the book. Howe signed only one contract which called for a bonus based on the number of goals he scored. It earned him an extra $1000 but since then, bonus arrangements have been based on team performance and league awards.

"I think a player could become a puck hog and forget to pass," Howe explained about goal bonuses. However, he works unceasingly to set up teammates who have a chance to get a bonus from scoring, and Detroit coaches almost always assign a rookie or a player having troubles to be Howe's roommate on road trips because he is always trying to help others.

He winces when someone claims that the Wings have been a one-man team since he joined them, doesn't moan about the fact that he didn't become the second 50-goal scorer in the National Hockey League because the scorekeeper, despite Red Kelly's protests, wouldn't credit Howe with tipping in a shot by Kelly. That came late in the 1952-53 season, in which Howe finished with 49 goals.

And Howe scoffs at reports that he has been the physically strongest man in hockey. He lists Maurice Richard, Jack Stewart, Fern Flaman and, particularly, Bobby Hull, as being stronger.

"That guy," he says about Hull, "is so strong that when he goes out to the field to get his Herefords at night he doesn't herd them. He picks them up and carries them to the barn."

About the only harsh thing said about Howe is that he plays it rough on the ice, and there is no doubt that, determined to excel and with what is perhaps an obsession about never being made to look bad, there is some substance to the charge. But many argue that Howe just finishes things and never starts trouble.

Among those is Hull, who was only seven years old when Howe started his NHL career. Hull, who asked for No. 9 when he joined Chicago Black Hawks "because it was Gordie's number and he was the player I wanted to read about and pattern myself after," is still a staunch Howe supporter.

"He is not the demon some people say," Hull says. "If you want to play hockey, he'll play. He just wants to play, but if guys want to fool around they always come out second best."

Traded to the Hawks in 1957, Lindsay was full of rancor the first time he faced his former teammates, on Oct. 29 that year in Chicago, and immediately started to play it chippy.

At the first stoppage of play, Howe skated over to Lindsay and asked, "You want to play hockey the right way or your way?"

"We'll play it the way it should be played," Lindsay said. "I'm not sacrificing our friendship."

Greece Upsets Portugal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Greece scored a major soccer upset Wednesday night, beating Portugal, 4-2, in a qualifying match for the 1970 World Cup.

Third in the 1966 World Cup finals, Portugal faces a tough task to qualify this time from a group which also contains Romania and Switzerland.

Northern Ireland beat Turkey, 3-0, in Istanbul to add to their 4-1 victory over the Turkish team in Belfast in October. But favored in this group is the Soviet Union, which has yet to enter the fray.

Scotland crushed Cyprus, 5-0, in Nicosia, scoring all the goals in the first half. The Scots' main opposition in this group will come from West Germany, runners-up in the 1966 finals. Both Scotland and West Germany have won their two group matches to date.

PLAY TO DRAW

Belgium drew, 1-1, with Spain in Madrid and remained a threat to all teams in its group, which includes Yugoslavia, runners-up in this year's European soccer championship.

Claremont, Oak Bay Win

Carla Van Schaik scored 18 points to lead Oak Bay to a 30-27 win over Esquimalt in Inter-High School Senior Girls' Basketball League action Wednesday at Esquimalt.

Vancouver Canucks failed to keep pace with the Bucks as they bowed, 2-3, to the last-place Denver Spurs to the delight of 1,217 Denver fans.

TWO FOR CARMICHAEL

Two goals by Bruce Carmichael and others by Warren Hynes, Alex Faulkner, Ed Ehrenverth and Fred Hilts gave the Gulls a 6-0 lead before Ted Snell spoiled Jack McCartan's bid for a shutout at 3:43 of the third period.

Portland used two power-play goals, by Norm Johnson and Bill Saunders, on their way to victory before 5,142 home fans. Andy Hebenton and Larry Leach were the other scorers while John Hanna scored the opening goal for Totems.

Driver Sets New Record

MONTREAL (CP) — Herve Filion of Ancers, Que., shattered the world record for most harness racing victories in one season as he posted three wins at Blue Bonnets Raceway Tuesday night.

The three victories boosted Filion's total to 387 triumphs this year, three more than Eddie Freundt of Dusseldorf, West Germany in 1966.

League's Best Fielding Helped Tigers to Title

BOSTON (AP) — Detroit Tigers had more than hitting and pitching en route to the American League pennant.

Official figures announced by AL president Joe Cronin showed Wednesday that the Tigers jumped from fifth place in 1967 to first in AL team fielding in 1968.

The Tigers, who fielded .978 in missing the pennant by one game in 1967, flashed a tight defence in winning the flag this year. They compiled an average of .983, just two percentage points below the league record set by Baltimore Orioles in 1964.

Harrelson

TWO ARE PERFECT

Although outfielder Mickey Stanley, who switched to shortstop to help Detroit win the World Series against St. Louis Cardinals, was the only individual leader, the Tigers committed only 105 errors, 27 fewer than in 1967.

Stanley and Ken Harrelson, Boston Red Sox' converted first baseman, topped outfielders as neither committed an error in compiling 1.000 marks. Roy White of New York Yankees was next among regular outfielders with .997.

LEADS AGAIN

Other individual fielding titles were won by first baseman Danny Cater of Oakland, .995; second baseman Bernie Allen of Washington, .991; shortstop Rico Petrocelli of Boston, .978; and catcher Joe Azcue of Cleveland, .996. New York's Mel Stottlemyre topped 43 perfect-fielding pitchers.

California led the league with 156 double plays. Minnesota committed the most errors, 170, and finished last with a .973 average.

Namath Shaves $10,000 Beard

The economics of the thing was simple. Joe is about $10,000 wealthier without the moustache than he was with it.

"I didn't want to shave it off—I liked it," the New York Jet quarterback said. "But I went ahead and did a commercial this morning."

Namath declined to say how much the shave for television was worth, but The Associated Press learned the fee was in the neighborhood of $10,000.

FOR CAMERAS

Back at Shea Stadium for a workout, Namath made it clear he didn't shave because anyone said he should.

Milt Woodard, president of the American Football League, had written to Jet coach Weeb Ewbank suggesting the moustaches and beards that Namath and several other Jets had grown didn't do anything for pro football's image.

WHO'S TO SAY

"I didn't like what the league said about it—the moustaches and the sideburns," Namath said, his sideburns still reaching down to the tips of his ears. "I think that's a little personal. . . .

"Who's to say where long sideburns begin. And I wonder why, all of a sudden, hair became bad. The most perfect guy in the world had long hair and a beard."

Canada's National Hockey Team Gets Molson, Smythe and Cash

Munro
... ready with answers

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government agreed Wednesday to provide up to $200,000 to keep Canada's national hockey team in operation this year.

At the same time, Health Minister John Munro and leaders of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association agreed that a new, separate corporation should take over control and operation of the team next year.

The executive of the new corporation, a non-profit body tentatively called Hockey Canada, would be dominated by persons appointed by the health minister.

The CAHA and Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League would also name representatives to the Hockey Canada executive, however.

Mr. Munro told reporters after a meeting with top CAHA officials Wednesday the CAHA has the government financial guarantee it wanted and will continue to operate the team until the end of this season.

WANTED DISCUSSIONS

The government also supported the term in 1968 to the tune of $100,000. But, "before making the financial arrangements for this season formal, I wanted to discuss the arrangements for the new corporation," Mr. Munro said.

A health department spokesman said presidents David Molson of the Canadiens and Stafford Smythe of the Maple Leafs have pledged "full co-operation" and offered to serve personally on the Hockey Canada executive. Apart from them, there has been no indication who will be named to it.

NEED CAHA APPROVAL

The CAHA has yet to give its official approval but it is expected to take this step next month, and this will clear the way for organization of the corporation under federal government auspices.

CAHA acting president Earl Dawson of Rivers, Man., and secretary-manager Gordon Juckes of Winnipeg attended the meeting with Mr. Munro and said they will recommend the new setup to the CAHA directors when they meet Jan. 20 in Winnipeg, the health spokesman said.

Mr. Dawson said earlier that the CAHA has been trying for two years to have a separate organization established to run the national hockey team.

AFFILIATION CONTINUED

Mr. Munro said that under the proposed new setup, the CAHA would continue to hold the international affiliation that entitles Canada to participate in world tournaments, while Hockey Canada would provide the team.

Hockey Canada, as foreseen at this stage, will have about 30 or 40 directors, "spread as broadly as possible among the public," the health spokesman said.

There would be an 11-man executive committee, whose members would be appointed for a certain, as yet unspecified, length of time. Seven would be named by the health minister, two by the CAHA, and one each by the Canadiens and the Maple Leafs.

What the support of the Montreal and Toronto NHL teams may mean in terms of players for the national team is not clear at this point.

TO PICK BEST

"Our aim is to be able to pick the best 18 players available in Canada at a given time," the health spokesman said.

But this would require modification of international rules, which now bar players whose status is officially professional, and willingness on the part of Canadiens and Maple Leafs to detach players from their organizations for fairly long periods of time.

Fitness Program Available But Not Used

CALGARY (CP) — Canada's national hockey team is physically unfit because it will not take advantage of existing programs, says Lee Coyne, fitness adviser to the team.

Coyne, assistant professor at the University of Calgary's school of physical education, was officially appointed fitness adviser last July although he has assisted in the team's training program since 1966.

FIRST TESTS

"I made the first series of tests on the nationals in November of 1966 and none of them were in much better than average condition.

"The team suffered a weakness of cardio-respiratory fitness—which means the ability of the heart and lungs to supply oxygen to the muscles. The more oxygen supplied, the better your fitness."

USED SWEDISH PROGRAM

Coyne, in 1966 discussions with Swedish scientists, obtained fitness information on members of Sweden's national hockey team. He used their program as a basis of tests. Russian information was not available.

"In 1966, the condition of our nationals was 25 per cent poorer than that of the Swedes."

Tests were also made in December of 1967 prior to the 1968 olympic games.

There was some improvement, Coyne says. But the players were still 10 per cent below the fitness level of the Swedes."

FINISHED THIRD

Coyne then offered the nationals an intensive summer program "but they didn't think that was the answer."

"Instead, I gave them a substitution five-week program of intensive training prior to this year's camp."

FEW FOLLOWED PROGRAM

From interviews in September with the players, Coyne learned that few followed the program and none of them to the letter.

Coyne, also a fitness adviser to Canada's national ski team, says team members claim they can not afford to devote 11 months of the year to hockey.

MUST BE PAID

"If that is the case, then we must reimburse them enough that they can afford to do so."

It is not training techniques that are lacking in Canada, Coyne says.

"The trouble is that the scientists and athletes had better get together or we won't be winning anything."

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Lacrosse Association has announced that 10 new teams are expected to play in the 1969 lacrosse season.

Seven are expected to be junior teams in the Cornwall and Ottawa areas, with other entries to come from the Toronto suburb of Scarborough, New Hamburg and St. Catharines.

Armoury Rents Cut Training

TORONTO (CP) — Paul Poce of Toronto, a track and field coach, says at least four of Canada's competitors in the 1968 Olympics are without proper indoor training facilities this winter because of high rentals being asked for department of national defence armories.

Poce, chairman of a committee appointed by the central Ontario branch of the Canadian Track and Field Association to study indoor training problems, says he will ask Health Minister Munro to intercede.

CIRCUIT REGULARS

The crisis arises on the eve of the indoor track season, which opens Jan. 11 at Boston. At least four Olympic competitors —Abby Hoffman, Bob Finlay, Dave Bailey and Peter Buniak —are regulars on the circuit.

Toronto track and field clubs have used the Coliseum at the Canadian National Exhibition and various armories around the city for winter training for the last eight years.

RATES JUMPED

There is a heavy demand for the Coliseum by other groups this year and athletes cannot afford the $281 a night demanded by the armories, Poce said Tuesday.

"We used to pay $5 or $10 a night to cover janitorial services in the armories. Now they're asking $281, based on so much per square foot."

Virtually Unknown Teener . . . . . . Takes World Cup Lead

Young French Skier Springs Upset

VAL D'ISERE, France (AP) — Francoise Macchi, a virtually unknown French teen-ager, jumped off to a surprise lead in the women's World Cup Alpine ski competition Wednesday by winning the giant slalom in the first big race of the season.

Miss Macchi, a 17-year-old blonde from Chatel, above Lake Geneva, completely outclassed the field of 79 girls from 12 nations, which included all the top European stars.

The performance brought her the maximum 25 points toward the World Cup, which was won the first two years by Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C. Miss Greene has turned professional, along with France's Jean-Claude Killy, who won the men's cup in 1966 and 1967.

VETERANS FOLLOW

Two veteran French stars, Annie Famose and Isabelle Mir, were third and fourth.

Miss Mittermaier received 20 points for second place in the World Cup standings, Miss Famose 15 and Miss Mir 11.

Medalists Honored

PARIS (AP) — The French cabinet has awarded the Legion of Honor to four gold medal winners in the Mexico Olympic games.

Colette Besson, winner of the women's 400-metre run, Jean-Jacques Guyon, winner of the three-day equestrian event; and Daniel Morelon and Pierre Trentin, both double gold medal winners in cycling, are the Legion of Honor recipients.

Mr. Cotton began his career with Simpsons-Sears in the Burnaby store in 1953 and has held a number of positions of increasing responsibility in the Company's stores in Western Canada, the Atlantic Provinces and Ontario. He has been manager of the Kitchener area store since 1965.

Mr. Horlick joined the Company in 1949 at Regina and held a number of assignments in Edmonton, Calgary and Burnaby stores. He occupied a senior merchandising position in the Burnaby store prior to his appointment to the new Victoria store which will open early in 1969.

Suspended Driver Wins Suit

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Melvin Thompson of Hartley, Del., suspended as a harness driver at Hinsdale Raceway in 1966, has been awarded $12,000 by a U.S. District Court jury.

The verdict was returned Tuesday night.

Thompson sued the track for $100,000, claiming the suspension caused him loss of employment and reputation.

Thompson was one of 15 drivers indefinitely suspended early in August, 1966, by the Hinsdale Board of Judges.

Navy Fires Head Coach

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Bill Elias has been dismissed as head coach of the Navy football team. No successor was named. He became head coach in 1965.

Navy's won-lost record the past season was 2-8, including a 21-14 loss to Army and the poorest slate in 20 years.

Ruling Powers Order Clean Up of British Soccer Play

By JAMES CONWAY

LONDON (CP) — A British soccer player's statistical chances of leaving the field under his own power are still appreciably better than a Canadian footballer's, but the ruling powers are growing concerned about increasing rough stuff.

The Football Association now is warning players, from small-town amateurs to First Division idols, that the game is about to be cleaned up.

Statistics just issued show recorded offences committed by players in the 92-team pro league last season totalled a record 1,428 — a 20-per-cent increase on the 1966-67 figure.

And the worst offenders again were the First Division clubs. The premier teams hold the unenviable title of most undisciplined division in four out of the last five seasons.

An editorial in FA News magazine, reflecting the association's toughening attitude, said the figures make "depressing reading."

"The FA is not prepared to sit back and do nothing," it said. "Action — and drastic action — is called for."

Currently, an obstreperous player is liable to a minimum seven-day suspension and a moderate fine for serious offences. The FA says future offenders face tougher penalties.

One football seer suggested persistent offenders may be booted off the field for up to three months with fines of $10 or more. The longest suspension in recent years was for six weeks.

During the first month of this season, 11 players were sent off the field in league matches for gross breaches of the rules. But a hopeful sign is that only one of these was a First Division man, suggesting club managers may be tightening the reins on their more temperamental players.

This decline in soccer sportsmanship is seen by some as a direct result of Britain's determined effort in recent years to wrest first place in the football world from the Latin and European countries.

England's World Cup win two years ago and Manchester United's 1968 European Cup success demonstrates this objective has been reached. But to succeed, some players have adopted aggressive playing styles, along with less-savory tactics.

At home the financial rewards from reaching the top and staying there have increased the strains and pressure on top-flight footballers in domestic soccer.

The drop in the average age of soccer stars is seen as another contribution to spreading on-field indiscipline. Youthful impetuosity draws youngsters into the sort of slanging matches with referees over controversial decisions that often are the cause of black marks.

Cooked Turkeys

Woodward's chefs will cook the turkey of your choice to a golden brown, ready-to-serve, complete with gravy and stuffing — order early.

CARVING POULTRY

Place platter so neck of bird is to carver's left. Stick tines of fork astride breastbone. With sharp knife, separate leg and thigh from nearest side by cutting at thigh joint, pressing leg away from body.

With carving fork still in place, next separate nearest wing in same manner as leg, cutting around wing joint, to locate exact dividing point of joint. Sever wing completely.

To slice off breast meat, start at an angle, near tip of breast-bone; cut thin slices of white meat, always working toward joint where wing was removed.

Next, separate thigh from leg at joint. (If it's turkey, then cut off thin slices from these two pieces.) If more servings are needed, turn platter, repeat process on other side.

South Vietnam

Aid Team To Eye TB Need

OTTAWA (CP) — A three-man Canadian aid mission has left for South Vietnam to study local needs in the treatment of tuberculosis and advise on the future of a Canadian TB clinic there, the Canadian International Development Agency announced Wednesday.

The agency's French-language announcement said the mission was assigned in collaboration with the Quebec health minister and will study the prospects that recent developments in Paris would leave paths open for extension of services at the Quang-Ngai clinic, about 350 miles north of Saigon.

ENGLISH VERSION

The English-language version said the mission will study the possibility of reactivating the Quang-Ngai clinic. It made no mention of Quebec collaboration.

Both statements said the mission would re-examine the Quang-Ngai operation in the light of new TB-control techniques using more immunization and more small clinics throughout the countryside.

MISSION HEAD

Heading the mission is Robert McLaren, acting director of the agency's advisers division. Dr. Guy Cardinal, director of the Quebec health department's TB division, and Dr. C. W. L. Jeanes of Ottawa, executive secretary of the Canadian TB Association, complete the study team.

The Quang-Ngai clinic, a two-storey building with an 80-bed ward, was established in 1965 in an area where seven per cent of the population has TB. It was staffed by up to nine Canadians with Vietnamese helpers until early this year.

STAFF EVACUATED

During the Viet Cong offensive against South Vietnamese cities last January, the Canadians were evacuated to Saigon. Canadian staff then consisted of Dr. Michel Jutras of Montreal, an x-ray technician, an administrator and three nurses.

Dr. Jutras returned in February and has been working with x-ray technician Arthur Ludwick of Longueuil, Que. The rest of the Canadians left Vietnam.

CANADIAN AID

The development agency said the clinic is part of Canadian aid to South Vietnam which will total $5,786,200 by the end of this year since its commencement in 1955. It includes a $2,500,000 civilian rehabilitation centre at Qui-Nhon, about 250 miles north of Saigon.

The development agency's French-language statement said the aid to South Vietnam under the Colombo Plan constituted the first "extension francophone" — extension to French-speaking countries — of Canadian foreign aid.

It added that technical responsibility for running the Qui-Nhon rehabilitation centre for civilian war victims recently was turned over to the Montreal Rehabilitation Institute.

Death on Latest Expedition

Tutenkhamen's Curse Has Them Wondering

LONDON (UPI) — Somehow the legend of the Curse of Tutenkhamen will not die.

It began in 1923 when the tomb of the Egyptian Pharaoh, who died sometime around 1352 B.C., was first opened by an archaeological team headed by British archaeologist Howard Carter.

Lord Carnavon, the British earl who financed the expedition, died three weeks later of the effects of a mosquito bite and a subsequent attack of pneumonia.

Imaginative pressmen dreamed up the curse, and the sudden deaths over the years of about 20 persons connected with the opening of the tomb have fed the legend.

Tutenkhamen in his own right was an insignificant pharaoh, reigning for no more than six years before his death at about 18 years of age.

As one of the minor pharaohs, his royal burial equipment survived one bout of grave robbing soon after his death, and the entrance to his tomb was covered by the rubble workmen threw out digging the tomb of a later pharaoh.

His mummy and the attending burial equipment was thus preserved until Carter opened the tomb in February, 1923.

Carter placed the burial equipment in the National Museum in Cairo, but returned the mummy to the tomb and resealed it.

★ ★ ★

Recently, Prof. George Harrison of Liverpool University returned to the tomb with a research team, which included a dentist, a doctor of anatomy and X-ray photography specialists.

The team re-opened the tomb to make 50 X-ray photographs of the mummy. They hope to determine the cause of the young pharaoh's death — thought perhaps to have been murder.

Wednesday, when Harrison returned to London, a crowd of eager pressmen crowded around him, asking about the Curse of Tutenkhamen.

"There is nothing about a curse from the inscriptions in the tomb," Harrison said.

But the pressmen insisted.

Harrison stoutly denied any personal worries about the curse, but admitted there were some "strange happenings" while the tomb was being opened.

"The lights went out in Cairo, and somebody connected with the research team died," Harrison said.

U.S. Poor Will Eat More

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Liberalization of the U.S. government's food stamp program so that the poorest of Americans can get more to eat for less money was announced Wednesday by agriculture secretary Orville Freeman.

Freeman disclosed the new plan to help families with net incomes of less than $70 a month in an address before a Falls Church, Va., high school student body. The secretary estimated the new plan would affect more than 500,000 Americans when it becomes effective in February.

"The goal," Freeman told the suburban Washington school assembly, "is to bring a family food assistance program to every home that needs it, and we should apply a single standard of need whether Virginia is involved or New York or California."

Verdict Reopens Wounds

Execution Legal for Hitler Jokes

By JOSEPH FLEMING

BERLIN (UPI) — A Berliner went to the registry office during the Second World War and asked for an application to change his name.

"What's your name?" asked the registrar.

"Adolf Monster," answered the man.

"It's understandable you want to change that name," the official said. "What do you want to change it to?"

"Wilhelm Monster" he answered.

DEATH PENALTY

Did telling jokes like that about Adolf Hitler deserve the death penalty? Did the judges act legally on the infamous Nazi peoples courts, established to speedily try enemies of the state, defeatists and persons accused of undermining the war effort?

A West Berlin court in a verdict that has caused widespread indignation and criticism has ruled that the Nazi courts' death sentences were legal. The court recently ruled the Nazi judge may not be punished for imposing the sentences.

The court's verdict has reopened old wounds and shown that 23 years after the war's end Germans still have not succeeded in what they called "overcoming the past."

The West Berlin court acquitted Nazi judge Hans Joachim Rehse, 65, of charges of murder for the execution of three Germans sentenced to death by a peoples court in which he was an associate judge. He also was acquitted of attempted murder for four death sentences he imposed which were not carried out.

Judge Ernst Juergen Oske, only 19 when the war ended, ruled that every state, including Nazi Germany, has the right to defend itself against those it considers enemies.

He granted that the measures taken by the Hitler regime against anti-Nazis were harsh but said, "an extraordinary situation demands extraordinary measures."

"Germany was in a battle of life and death" he said in his ruling. "To survive it was necessary to combat defeatism.

"Every era has its own concept of the nature and the purpose of punishment."

West Berlin Mayor Klaus Schuetz called the verdict a scandal. He noted the city prosecutor has said he would appeal the verdict and he expressed the hope "another court will see that justice is done."

Former St. Nicks Old Nicks Then Perfect Santa Hired

No. 2 snapped back angrily at the kids who pulled his beard.

No. 3 didn't show up after his first payday.

So it went for a total of 12 Santas.

That was last year.

This year, Jim Carter, manager of the centre, had to let his first choice out because Santa's lunging on the parade float was due to a nervous condition and the wild hand-waving that delighted onlookers was because he was popping nerve pills into his mouth.

Now Mr. Carter says he has found the perfect Santa Claus: Sam Squires, 66, 5-foot-8 and a portly 192 pounds, a ruddy complexion and laughing blue eyes.

He doesn't drink or smoke and knows better than to show up for work smelling of onions or cabbage or garlic.

He knows, too, always to smile and chuckle even though the day is cold and the bottom gets sore; never promise, anything—it's always "I'll see what I can do"—and never fidget when nature calls upon a child sitting on his knee.

And he likes kids. He has seven of his own and 20 grandchildren.

Television Film Roll Developed

NEW YORK (AP) — Development of a film roll which can produce sound and picture when attached to a television set has been announced by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The first models, it was reported Tuesday, will be priced below $800 and will be aimed at the existing 300,000 black and white TV sets in schools, hospitals and industries.

Called the CBS Electronic Video Recorder, it will be available for educational and industrial use in the first half of 1970.

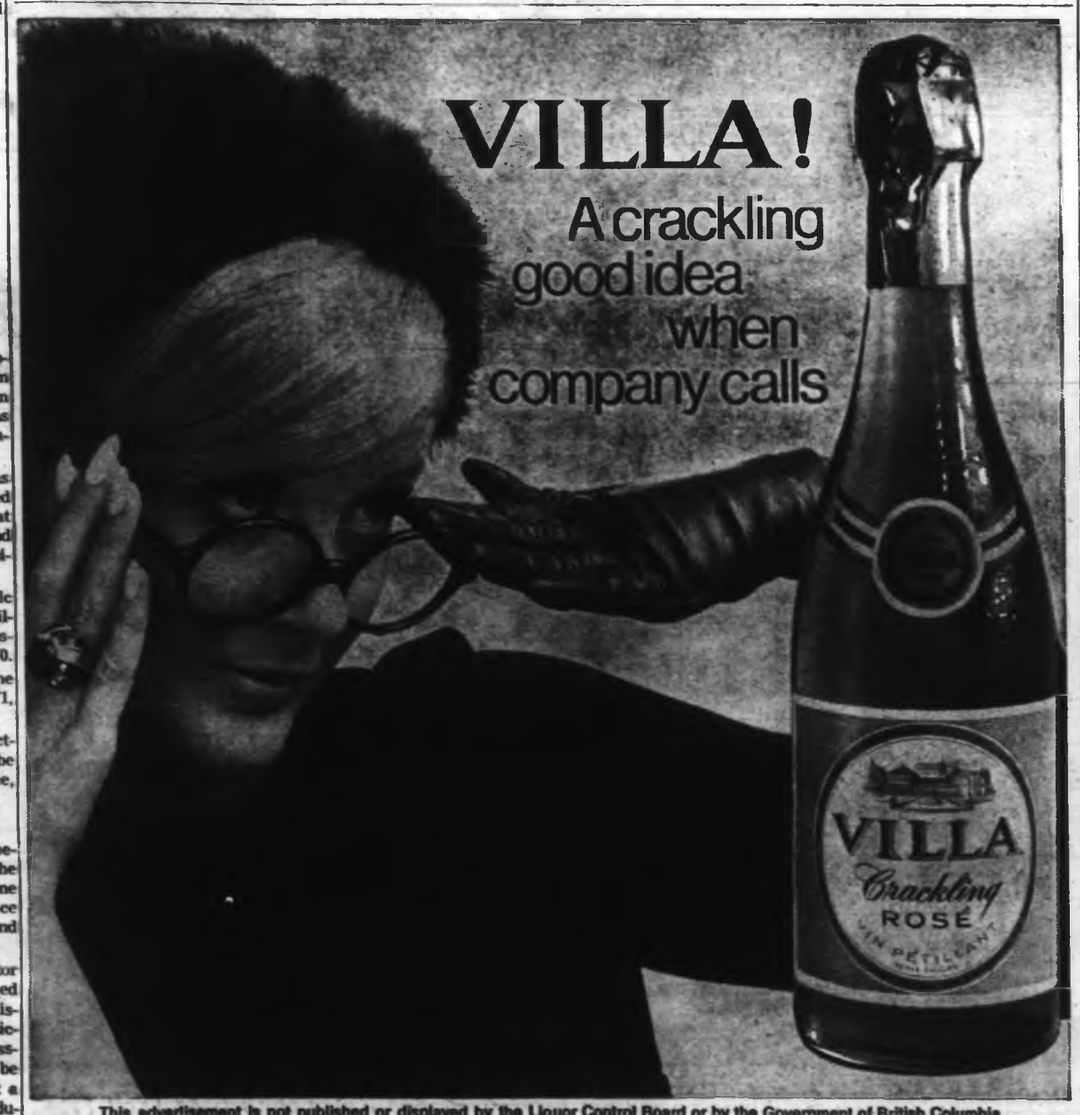

A color model will be on the market in the last half of 1971, CBS said.

A model for home use, expected in about five years, will be produced at a competitive price, the network said.

STILL PICTURES

The EVR uses a roll of specially processed film about the size of eight-millimetre home movie film which can produce up to 52 minutes of sound and picture on a television set.

Dr. Peter Goldmark, inventor of the device, Tuesday showed scenes from the CBS series Mission: Impossible and still pictures on the sex life of the grasshopper. The recorder can be set to show a single frame at a time—an invaluable aid for educational or reference work.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is friendly with a couple of men he works with. Their wives are not the type I would pick for friends on my own. Every Friday evening we have a set date. The six of us go out to dinner and we end up at a little cocktail lounge that has music.

The men drink beer and talk business the whole time. The wives of these two men dance with each other. I sit because I don't like to dance with a woman. I think it looks peculiar. Furthermore, men they never saw before cut in on them on the dance floor and they end up dancing with strangers. They say it's O.K. because their husbands are present. What do you say? — SQUARE PEG.

Dear Peg: I say the whole thing smells like a lost barrel of herring. Haven't you people got homes? Why sit in taverns? You need some new friends and I hope you find them soon and break up this gleesome threesome.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is 18. She graduated from high school in June and is taking a secretarial course.

Thelma has been dating a divinity student. He is 20 and shares an apartment with two other divinity students. We all like Jerome because he seems more settled than most of the young men Thelma has dated.

Last night I understood Thelma to say she and Jerome were going to a party. I woke up at 4 a.m. with an uneasy feeling. I always feel better when I know Thelma is home, so I checked her bed. It had not been slept in. I was worried sick but decided not to awaken my husband.

At 6:25 a.m. Thelma came tiptoeing into the house, carrying her shoes. I gave her a long, hard look but said nothing. My husband did not wake up and he doesn't know about this.

My question is: Do parents have a right to tell an 18-year-old girl when to be in? She does not pay room and board. We are putting her through secretarial school. She has had no curfew since high school graduation. I am opposed to a girl coming in from a date at that hour of the night, am I wrong? — L. L. L.

Dear L. L. L.: That "hour of the night" is not night, lady. It's morning.

No 18-year-old girl should be allowed to stay out until dawn. Your silence was condonation.

Have a talk with Thelma. Tell her she cannot come and go as if she lived in a hotel. Midnight is plenty late for a secretarial school student (to say nothing of a divinity student). And 2 a.m. is a reasonable, respectable hour for weekends.

ERMA BOMBECK Recalls Important Early Lesson

Never Put Jelly Beans on Cake

In a recent column I complained I had so much money wrapped up in my son's dental work that I was forced to let my YWCA membership lapse. The YWCA of Metropolitan Detroit sent me an honorary membership, knowing full well I'd do a column on it.

★ ★ ★

They ought to give their public relations director the day off for that one. If you have ever handled publicity for your club, lodge, sorority or bazaar you know the only way to get into print is to set fire to yourself in front of the woman's editor on a slow news day.

Several years ago I did public relations for our local YWCA on a part-time basis. I had three small children so I bought a playpen. Every morning at 9 a.m. I'd crawl into the playpen with my typewriter and try to think up ways to get the name of the YWCA before the public.

At first I was idealistic enough to think that people would break out in a rash when they heard of our classes on slip-covering, our potato chip sales and our fellowship abroad. So I flooded the mails with press releases. Occasionally the papers would print three scrawny lines with a headline that read, "YMCA Meets."

I knew I couldn't afford the luxury of an enemy on the paper, so as delicately as possible I would try to explain the difference between the YMCA and the YWCA by sending them health charts and inviting them to view our swimins. (We were the ones who wore suites.)

★ ★ ★

Somehow I never seemed to be able to impress the papers. One day I dug up an 86-year-old woman who painted rather well. "This morning she called and said she'd be a little late as her mother is sick. Get it? HER MOTHER!"

★ ★ ★

The photographer stifled a yawn. "We're going to have to do something different," he said. "We can't just have her standing there painting. Is there a way to the roof?"

I even had a gimmick for our world festival. I had my mother bake a cake the size of a car door, decorate it with a map of the world and put a marshmallow wherever there was a YWCA. I sent it over to the people at the newspaper..

The festival came and went without a word of publicity. Reluctantly, I called the newspaper and asked whether they had received the cake.

"We certainly did," they said. "The women's department ate Asia, sports devoured Europe and the city desk took in South America."

★ ★ ★

"I thought perhaps you might have mentioned the YWCA, that we spelled out in jelly beans across the top."

"You PR people will never learn," they said. "Never trust a circulation department to deliver jelly beans. Who was that again? The NRA?"

'Wings' Ruin Decolletage

By MARY SUE MILLER

"Wings" — sharp, bony shoulderblades — are no asset to a woman. Particularly when evening dresses with a daring decolletage loom importantly.

The back really must be smooth and shapely to withstand the exposure of low-cut necklines. Needy territory improves from a course of spot-increasing routines,' the kind of exercise that builds flesh by building musculature. You can almost feel these two exercises working:

- Stand erect with arms out to sides at shoulder level. Stretch arms back as far as possible and then describe small circles, moving arms from front to back. Work deliberately at a medium pace for 20 counts.
- Sit on floor with back pressed flat against a wall. Pace arms against wall so the elbows come in close at waist and backs of hands touch wall at shoulder level. Without letting arms leave wall, slowly slide them up to full extension, then slowly return to starting position. Repeat 20 times, aiming for increased stretch and pull.

At all times, carry the shoulders in the dead center of the body's profile, neither forward nor backward of it. The position minimizes bony looks. What's more, it is almost as effective as a formal exercise.

Nicholsons Entertain

Party Given for Blind

By DOROTHY WROTNOWSKI

It was a happy Christmas party that Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. John Nicholson gave at Government House Wednesday afternoon for blind people.

Car after car drove up the wide driveway at Government House around 3 o'clock in the afternoon. It was a little different than usual as the car occupants got out. Each driver had to get out first and lead his or her charges up the wide steps and into the ballroom.

But it wasn't long before everyone was in and seated at the long tea tables that had been set up and decorated with poinsettas.

Places had been set up for 330 persons but a few more chairs were added at the last minute.

The program had been chosen with care — entertainment for persons who cannot see.

First there were songs by John Dunbar. Then he started on familiar Christmas carols with the guests joining in and obviously enjoying themselves.

This was followed by an interesting capsule history of Government House given in a talk by Victoria historian James K. Nesbitt.

At the head table with His Honor and Mrs. Nicholson were Mr. R. C. Purse, superintendent of B.C. and Yukon division of the Canadian Institute for the Blind, Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, Mrs. Hugh Stephen, Hon. and Mrs. Waldo Skillings, Miss B. McIntyre, Mrs. Houghton Beckford, Mr. Laurie Wallace and Mrs. E. R. Rickinson.

Probably the oldest person at the party was 93-year-old Mr. Frank Henry, who has lived in Victoria since 1886. He was with the Victoria fire department for 33 years.

Christmas Bazaar Theme

Christmas trees and baskets filled with bright red poinsettas set the decor in the Christian Education Hall for the recent succesful food fair and bazaar put on by various organizations of Esquimalt United Church.

Mrs. H. B. Illsey, wife of the minister, officiated at the opening and Mrs. E. Durrant of the United Church Women was general convener. Guests were welcomed by Mrs. R. Wade, president of the UCW, and Mrs. T. Flannagan. The sum of $1,300 was raised for church funds.

Mrs. A. Cuthbert was tea convener and men of the AOTS Club assisted by OGIT members served.

Highlight of the food section were the Christmas cakes, which had been decorated by Mrs. J. Roger and featured homemade mincemeat. Mrs. Roger also put on a cake icing demonstration. Another interesting feature was the country stall of plants managed by the Men's Club.

□

Guests of honor included Mayor and Mrs. R. Gordon Lee, representing Central Saanich, Ald. and Mrs. William Noel, representing Saanich, North Saanich Mayor J. B. Cumming, and Mayor and Mrs. A. W. Freeman representing Sidney. Convenor for the supper was Mrs. Sylvia Hutt.

Multiple Sclerosis patients and their families had their annual Christmas dinner Saturday in Pendray Hall of Metropolitan Church.

Santa brought along gifts and the program included entertainment and other treats. Mrs. Evelyn Lamont, who organized the society 16 years ago and has been its executive secretary since then, spoke to the guests and Canadian Forces personnel helped with arrangements.

□

Craigflower Women's Institute Christmas party will be held at 1 p.m. today in the View Royal Community Hall.

□

The Daughters of St. George, No. 238, will meet on Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the K of P hall.

Kennedy Baby Due Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy was admitted to hospital Wednesday night in preparation for the birth of her 11th child sometime today. The delivery will be by Caesarean section.

Aides to the Kennedy family said the 40-year-old widow of the late senator from New York was admitted to Georgetown Hospital. The Caesarean section delivery will be the fifth for the vivacious and athletic Ethel Kennedy. Few women have more than three Caesarean operations.

Mrs. Kennedy had one false alarm with her current pregnancy Oct. 19 when she was admitted to the hospital and spent one night there.

Fact-Finding Team To Help Shipping

MONTREAL (CP) — Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey told shipping management and labor leaders Wednesday the federal government plans to create a neutral team of officials to help the shipping industry solve its problems.

He was speaking at a study session on the future of the port of Montreal organized by McGill University and the Montreal Port Council.

TEAM BACKGROUND

The labor department was doing research on a world-wide basis into port problems, he said. The information collected would form the background for a team to which both labor and management in the shipping industry "can turn in time of needs."

He hoped this particular program would lead to a permanent fact-finding board to aid in the solution of other national labor issues.

NEW CONCEPT

"It is a new concept . . . and it will cover all other areas which come under federal jurisdiction," he said.

These areas included ports, railways and grain handling.

Mackasey said he realizes labor's greatest problem in the world today is technological change. But in the past year a new appreciation had come to both management and labor of the need to communicate with one another.

THINKING REVISED

Both management and longshoremen had revised their thinking and were ready to meet the challenge.

"Slowly but surely the unions are accepting the fact there must be increased productivity, but at the same time efforts must be made to eliminate their insecurity," he said.

J. W. Pickersgill, president of the Canadian transport commission, told the gathering the port of Montreal may become a terminal for many of the general cargo vessels now using the St. Lawrence Seaway.

He said the seaway would come more and more to depend on bulk cargo, such as grain and iron ore. The reason was the development of container ships.

MAY BE TREND

Canada's first container terminal went into operation at Montreal last month under an agreement between Manchester Liners and the CNR. This agreement "may indicate a trend," Pickersgill said.

"Other companies may decide it would be more profitable not to send general cargo vessels into the Great Lakes, but to switch from ships to rail or road carriers at Montreal, Quebec City or Maritime ports.

The former transport minister, now head of the regulatory agency for all national transportation, said "this does not mean that the seaway is becoming obsolete, but merely that its future use is likely to be oriented increasingly to the carriage of bulk commodities rather than general cargo."

Board Budget Over Limit

VANCOUVER (CP)—The department of education told Vancouver school board its provisional budget for 1969 is $2,100,000 over the limit established by the new education financing formula. The limit set for 1969 by the department for Vancouver on a flat mill rate was $39,600,000.

Warning Margin Less From Turbo Trains

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Paul Hellyer said Wednesday advance warning of level-crossing danger would be less for new turbo-powered trains than for conventional trains, although the difference in regular running speeds is not great.

He was questioned in the Commons by Warren Allmand (L—Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace) about an accident near Kingston, Ont., Tuesday when the new CNR turbo-train collided with a truck on the train's inaugural Toronto-Montreal run.

Hellyer said the Canadian transport commission is investigating the accident.

He assured Allmand advance studies were carried out to show that the lightweight, turbine-powered locomotive could operate safely on the route.

Although the new trains cover the Montreal-Toronto route in four hours compared with the five hours of the fastest conventional diesel passenger trains, Hellyer said the difference in speeds is not great.

The new trains gain by faster acceleration and deceleration, he said.

More Power Exports Allowed

OTTAWA (UPI)—The National Energy Board announced Wednesday it had licensed Cominco Ltd. to export 1.5 billion kilowatt hours of power annually to the U.S. The licence expires Dec. 31, 1972.

The licence authorizes Cominco to export the power over its international power line near Nelway, B.C., to Spokane, Wash., for distribution in the U.S. Pacific Northwest.

Cominco wanted authorization to export 2.750 billion KWH per year but the energy board reduced the figure to 1.5 million KWH and Cominco agreed.

The board said the energy exported would be surplus to "reasonably foreseeable requirements in Canada."

The board also rules that Cominco's price of about 2.5 mills per KWH was "just and reasonable in relation to the public interest."

Perfection of Some Acts Boring

Circus on Ice Loved Most of All

By BILL THOMAS

The perennial Ice Capades played to a near-capacity house Wednesday in Memorial Arena and this season the accent is definitely on comedy.

The fantastic costumes and settings get applause, the fine precision skaters get applause but the funny acts get the ovations. The show gets off to a slower start than usual but George Bussey gets things going with his Stop Thief routine. He does all the predictable clown tricks with water and the works. Mr. Bussey gets loads of laughs and the audience loves every minute of his routine.

Vic Zoble is back with his trampoline routine. His is the only "dry" act in the show but it is one of the funniest. Mr. Zoble manages to get himself entwined in the equipment and bounces about from one hilarious situation to another.

If anyone gets top marks for laughs then it must be Austrian-born Hans Leiter. He does two particularly funny numbers — Night Before Waterloo and Winter Wonderland.

Mr. Leiter makes the contortions and crazy falls look so easy — which only goes to show just how skilled he is at his specialty.

GETS THE LAUGHS

Extra comedy on ice comes from Hans Mueller and Pepe. They do a tango routine that goes wrong right down the line but it does get the laughs and that's what counts.

As usual the sets and costumes are lavish and the production numbers include one specially for children. The Sugar 'n Spice routine includes all the candy delights and a magic genie.

Gingerbread men come to life and dance and then four great sundaes slide centre ice only to turn into four gorgeous girls who are decorated as ice cream delights. To cap it a number of small fry are invited to ride around the ice as the number reaches its finale.

Stars Wolfgang Schwarz, Sashi Kuchiki and Donald Knight skate so well they all seem to be doing the same thing but, of course, they do it superbly.

The Wild, Wild, Wild West production number incorporating the Magic Screen drew prolonged applause and in this number Donald Knight and Janet Runn are very good.

Roy and Sandi Wagelein dance a pairs number that is excellent. It has grace and their routine is perfectly in time with music.

Ice Capades lives up to its reputation as a first class family show. It will play until Saturday.

MacDonald

Travel Side Benefit Of Capades Career

By SUSAN PERENACK

Vacations in Hawaii are among the fringe benefits of being in the Ice Capades cast, says Bob Mac — or Robert MacDonald, as he is known in his home city of Victoria.

"Mac sounded better for the comedy skits I used to do, and I just left it that way," he explained the change in his name.

Bob started skating in 1960 when his family joined the Victoria Skating Club. Six years ago, he placed third in the dance and silver dance in B.C. competition at Prince George.

COMEDY SKITS

He combined his long-time interest in theatre with skating, and started doing small comedy skits locally, in Nanaimo and in the Interior.

He auditioned and was accepted by an ice show, but his career was interrupted by a six-month stint in the U.S. army.

After the army he returned to B.C. and was soon asked to join Ice Capades, where he's been a member of the corps de ballet for four years.

'MOST GLAMOROUS'

"Most glamorous, spectacular, colorful and varied," was his comparison of the ice show with other fields of show business.

Each week of the long season is spent in a different city, he said. This is his fourth tour of North America and there have been visits to Hawaii and Australia.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. MacDonald of 3131 Service Street, will see him in the show tonight.

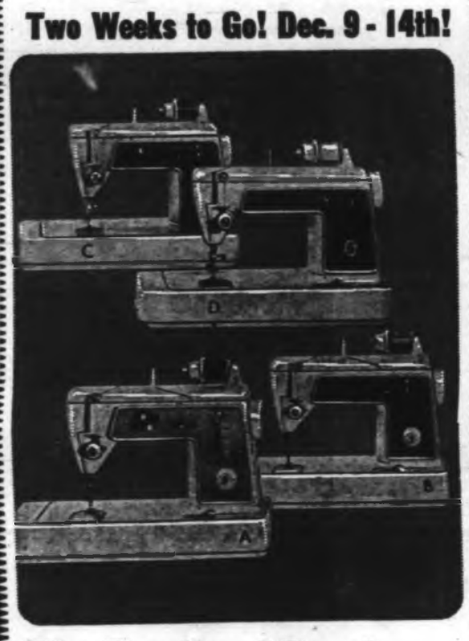

Tattoo In May

She said schools throughout the province were being approached to ascertain the number of bands and dance groups which would participate.

The junior tattoo is expected to become an annual event, she said.

Air, Water Pollution

Special Probe Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — A special Commons committee to investigate the problem of air and water pollution was proposed in the Commons Wednesday by David Anderson (L—Esquimalt-Saanich).

Pollution is inevitable, he said, but steps can be taken "to preserve our natural heritage."

The United States is already spending $10,000,000,000 a year on pollution control "without much success," Mr. Anderson said.

In Canada pollution control falls under provincial jurisdiction. Many government departments are also involved, he said, but no one co-ordinates their efforts.

He said a parliamentary committee could make suggestions on the best allocation of resources.

The resolution, which was still under discussion when the hour for private members' business expired, received the support of Conservative and New Democratic Party spokesmen.

Hugh John Flemming (PC—Carleton-Charlotte), a former fisheries minister, said the problem of jurisdiction becomes even more complicated in the case of international boundary waters.

Ran Harding (NDP — Kootenay West) supported the proposal for a committee but suggested the problem could be studied by the standing committee on national resources which is already established.

It was a "severe indictment of our government" that pollution has become a danger to the future of life on the planet.

Stroll Ends In Court

MONTREAL (UPI) — Louis Cote, 37, was released in May after serving a prison term for his part in a Dec. 18, 1965, robbery at a Laval branch of the Provincial Bank of Canada.

He was ordered to stand trial once more Tuesday after preliminary hearing on charges of being in possession of more than $400,000 worth of bonds taken from the bank's safety deposit boxes using a passkey.

Quebec Provincial Police Cpl. Marcel Provost said Cote had been under constant surveillance since his release and was followed recently as he walked up a Joliette mountainside and allegedly dug up an oil drum containing the bonds.

Widow of Ex-Mayor Funeral Wednesday

Private funeral services were held in Hayward's chapel Wednesday for Mrs. Isabella M. Hayward, widow of former mayor Reginald Hayward of Victoria.

Born in Aberdeen, Scotland, Mrs. Hayward was a pioneer resident of Victoria. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jaffrey of Aberdeen.

In 1908 she married Reginald Hayward, who became mayor of Victoria in 1923, and later was Conservative member of the B.C. legislature for the city. Until his death in 1961 he was president of Hayward's Funeral Co. Ltd.

Former member of the Women's Canadian Club and the Burns Club of Victoria, Mrs. Hayward enjoyed gardening around her home at 2140 Oak Bay Avenue.

Surviving are three sons, Charles in Vancouver, Reginald of North Vancouver and William in Victoria; four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Bishop D. A. G. Rankilor officiated at the private funeral service, which was followed by burial in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

More Canadians Will Teach

Ghana Widens CUSO Link

ACCRA (AFP) — Ghana's economic affairs ministry Wednesday signed an agreement with the Canadian University Service Organization which broadens CUSO's hitherto limited activities in the education field.

CUSO now will be able to recruit technical personnel for other fields such as medicine, agriculture, engineering, forestry and fishing.

The present agreement supersedes any other in force between CUSO and any individual ministry.

Main provisions are: Each CUSO volunteer will serve a two-year period which can be extended at the discretion of the parties concerned; CUSO will cover the costs to and from Ghana of Canadian volunteers while the ministry to which the volunteer is assigned will undertake to provide accommodation and contribute towards house maintenance.

There are at present 125 CUSO volunteers in Ghana, 105 teachers in secondary schools and training colleges, 10 in nursing, four with the Volta River Authority and one each at the agriculture ministry and in pharmacy.

The service started operations in Ghana in 1962. Economic Affairs Commissioner E. N. Omaboe signed for Ghana and Bruce Miller, co-ordinator for Ghana, signed for CUSO.

Winter Time Lighter

STORNOWAY, Scotland (AP) — The sturdy Scots of the town of Stornoway, on the island of Lewis off northwest Scotland, have had enough of Britain's new time.

They are putting their clocks back one hour to Greenwich Mean Time to give themselves an hour more of light in the morning.

Britain used to do the same every year but this year summer time is continuing through the winter as an experiment. This puts Britain on the same time as the rest of Western Europe and is expected to help businessmen in their telephone deals with the continent.

HEAVY FIRE

The experiment is under heavy fire from schools and parents who complain children are going to school in the dark and braving increased traffic hazards. At Stornoway, 485 miles south of the Arctic Circle, it was night until 11 a.m.

"We've had enough of this darkness," said Mayor Donald Stewart. "Everyone knows it is silly. We are going back to sensible hours of daylight."

The British government has promised to review the time switch, but it opposes individual areas changing time.

B.C. Grit Wants CBC Probe

PENTICTON (CP) — Dr. Pat McGeer, B.C. Liberal leader, said Wednesday the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is one of the worst examples of inefficiency in the country.

Dr. McGeer told a service club meeting that B.C.'s new labor mediation commission should investigate organizations of this type with a view to pointing out their shortcomings to the public.

"The most inefficient organization is the CBC, where workers stumble over themselves in a worse fashion than was ever witnessed in wartime shipyards that operated on cost-plus contracts," said Dr. McGeer.

He said the commission, established under the province's controversial Bill 33 labor legislation, had a duty to weed out inefficiency.

"The commission must do research and fact-finding and then make its findings public," said Dr. McGeer.

Session Halts As Fists Fly

BERN (Reuters) — Fists flew in the Swiss Parliament when 27 young Jura separatists burst in and stopped proceedings for five minutes.

The youths, from the militant Belier separatist group, brandished placards demanding that their French-speaking homeland be split from the German-speaking Bern canton.

Fuel Leak Jeopardizes U.S. Christmas Moon Launch

CAPE KENNEDY, (UPI) — Engineers late Wednesday discovered a potentially serious problem in Apollo 8's Saturn 5 rocket that could disrupt plans to send Americans around the moon this month.

However, a space agency spokesman said present indications are that the problem will not affect the Dec. 21 launch date for astronauts Frank Borman, James Lovell and William Anders.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

A space agency spokesman said project officials were attempting to determine if the leakage was serious enough to require repairs. If a repair is necessary, engineers would have to remove the engine, postponing the launch until Jan. 18.

"If we have to pull the engine we're out of business for December," said an official at the Apollo launch control centre.

The spokesman said engineers were running tests Wednesday night to determine precisely how much leakage was involved.

"Present indications are that an engine change will not be required," the spokesman said.

Officials explained that some seepage is normal from the engine. But the engine in question was reported to show "a higher leakage rate than previously observed."

★ ★ ★

The rocket's frigid liquid oxygen and hydrogen propellants were drained after the test, but kerosene fuel remains in the saturn's first stage.

Because of the relative positions of the earth and moon, and the desired lighting on the lunar surface, there are only seven days this month during which Apollo 8 can be launched.

Borman, Lovel and Anders are scheduled to swing into orbit around the moon Christmas Eve, circle the moon 10 times and then return to a Pacific Ocean splashdown Dec. 27.

Satellite Data Just Heavenly

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The new Stargazer satellite took its first look at the heavens Wednesday and American astronomers liked what it saw—a pair of bright, giant stars named Miaplacidus and Iota Carina.

At 1:44 a.m. PST, as the Orbiting Astronomical Observatory soared high over Tennessee, a radio signal opened a sunshade on top of the satellite, exposing a cluster of seven telescopes.

OAO was launched Saturday from Cape Kennedy into a 480-mile-high orbit, placing it above the earth's atmosphere which prevents ultraviolet and other wave length of stellar energy from reaching telescopes on earth.

Burglar Obviously Not Insect Type

"The burglar is requested not to remove anything because all rations have been poisoned with E-605 insecticide."

Concorde Gets Silencer

LONDON (Reuters) — Modifications to the engines of the Anglo-French supersonic Concorde jetliner should reduce its takeoff noise by half and increase its payload by one-fifth, it was reported today.

Scientists at the Bristol Engines Division of Rolls-Royce were said to have developed a new nozzle which, when inserted in the back of Concorde's four huge jets, will break up shock waves from the rear and direct the noise back instead of down and forward.

Bristol scientists believe their plug nozzle will reduce engine noise by between six and nine decibels while improved aerodynamics will reduce aircraft drag.

French scientists who are collaborating with Rolls-Royce on the research on Concorde's Olympus 93 engines, also were reported to have developed a silencing device.

Miami Inaugural Forced to Cuba

Chief of Panthers Latest Skyjacker?

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Trans World jetliner inaugurating non-stop service from Nashville to Miami was diverted at gunpoint Wednesday to a non-scheduled stop in Cuba with 39 persons aboard.

When the plane touched down at Havana's Jose Marti Airport, Cuban security police escorted a young couple, apparently the hijackers, off the plane.

Responding to speculation that the hijackers might be the fugitive Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver and his wife, Kathlene, an FBI spokesman in Miami said the possibility would be investigated.

PAROLE VIOLATOR

The 33-year-old Cleaver, sought as a parole violator, has sworn he will never return to prison. The FBI said Tuesday his wife withdrew $33,000 from Cleaver's San Francisco bank account and flew last Sunday to New York.

"A guy has a gun at my back," Capt. Dennis Maloney radioed shortly after the Boeing 727, with 32 passengers and seven crew members aboard, took off from Nashville.

TO HAVANA

"He is forcing us to go to Havana. We are proceeding there."

The plane, 19th U.S. commercial airliner forced into Cuba during this year's unprecedented wave of skyjackings, landed at Jose Martin Airport at 3:27 p.m. PST.

The crew and plane were released and completed the trip to Miami International Airport Wednesday night. The passengers were expected to be freed late Wednesday.

Aboard the plane when it took off from Nashville at 9:44 a.m. were Mason Rudolph, veteran of the professional golf tour from Clarksville, Tenn., and Tex Ritter, country and western singing star of Grand Ole Opry fame.

Treaty Best Hope

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee has concluded there is no ready answer to stop plane hijackings. But it says the best long-term hope is for Fidel Castro to agree to the extradition of the hijackers from Cuba.

Members of the House Inter-American Affairs subcommittee headed by Rep. Armistead Selden, D.—Ala., also expressed hope Tuesday that weapon detection systems and other thechnological devices, using X-rays and radar, could be developed to detect weapons on the persons of passengers as they board planes.

PANEL REPORT

In a report the panel said, however, that the best way would be a treaty requiring the extradition of hijackers, placing them "in the hands of U.S. courts for trial."

The subcommittee said because the United States broke off diplomatic relations with Cuba it has no extradition agreement with the Castro government.

A proposed international treaty, known as the Tokyo convention, would only provide that the country in which the pirated plane lands should hold the hijacker long enough to permit an investigation and to leave open the possibility of extradition proceedings.

SENATE ASKED

President Johnson asked the senate to ratify the agreement in September and the senate is expected to consider it next year. The subcommittee also recommended that another agreement providing for actual extradition be worked out.

It expressed hope Cuba would sign such a treaty "in her best interests," noting that if a hijacked U.S. plane crashed, it "could bring serious repercussions in the United States."

It said "a majority of the hijackers appear to be persons of unstable mentality."

Hissing Greets Motion Of 'Canadian' Faculty

OTTAWA (CP) — The faculty of Carleton University gave short shrift Wednesday to proposals from two of its members calling for maintenance of a "two-thirds majority of Canadian citizens" on the teaching staff.

By a vote of "about 130 to 5" a three-hour meeting rejected the proposals and decided instead, on a vote of "about 140 to 2," that hiring should be solely on the basis of academic competence.

The meeting reacted with concerted hissing to a motion to censor the two professors who had brought forward the proposals, James Steele and R. D. M. Mathews.

This motion was ruled out of order.

The voting came after a series of speakers had condemned the Steele-Mathews proposals, which have circulated on the campus for some time.

'SMELL' UNLIKED

Prof. Muni Frumhartz of the sociology department, in one of the strongest attacks, said he didn't like the "smell" of the Steele-Mathews memorandum.

"It smells of loyalty tests and it smells of blood tests," he said.

The two sponsors argued that their proposals were not designed to set up a quota system or to prevent a cosmopolitan academic community.

But Prof. Mathews, 37, said the present system is discriminatory.

"The failure to seek . . . qualified Canadians for posts in Canadian universities is discriminatory. It discriminates against Canadians.

The failure to have provided in the past and to continue to fail to provide excellent centres for the production of Canadian scholars is discriminatory.

HAD VOTED FOR IT

Prof. Steele in a final statement said he felt the motion on academic competence finally adopted was "in no way contradictory" to the proposals he and Prof. Mathews put forward. In fact, he had voted for it.

Several professors suggested the resolutions violated the human rights code and one asked whether faculty members might "lay ourselves open to a charge of conspiracy" by discussing them.

Prof. Steele, in presenting the resolutions, said Canadians now are probably in a minority in the Canadian university system.

Broad Resolution Involves Other Tongues

Canada's Talk-French in UN Falters

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Canada gave less-than-enthusiastic support Wednesday to a resolution she is co-sponsoring with Francophone countries that seek to promote use of a second language in the UN secretariat.

The trouble is that under the working of the resolution, the second language need not be French. It also could be Russian, Spanish or Chinese.

The resolution seeks through permanent employment restriction and incentives for promotion to make as many as possible of the 1,900 professional employees of the secretariat proficient in two languages.

MOST FRENCH-SPEAKING

Sponsored by 31 countries, most of them French-speaking or bilingual, it is being debated in the General Assembly's administrative committee.

Speaking for Canada Wednesday, J. P. Goyer, parliamentary assistant to External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, said:

"The measures suggested in this resolution . . . leave room for improvement. We support them because they are a worthwhile improvement and a necessary step towards a solution fairly acceptable to all."

NOT ENOUGH SUPPORT

Francophone countries which drew up the resolution could not find sufficient support for a motion that would specify French as the second language.

French and English are officially the "working languages" of the secretariat. But in practice, few professionals—which do not include translators and the like—can use French.

The use of French in debates has been growing. Some members of the Canadian delegation use it. Many of the newer countries are former French colonies. Bulgaria and Romania use it in preference to Russian.

OVERCOME PROBLEMS

Goyer said the financial and other objections to learning a second language can be overcome.

"To recognize the principle of official languages is to accept their use in practice and the consequences this involves," he said.

"In other words, while taking a pragmatic attitude towards the problems to be solved, it is necessary to accept the costs either solution entails and to seek machinery capable of preserving the efficiency of the body being managed.

The resolution specifies that the second language be one of the working languages of the General Assembly — French, English, Chinese, Russian or Spanish.

Last year, the about two dozen members of the Francophone group in the UN got a resolution passed that would pay bonuses to profesional staff who learned a second language. But this ran into considerable objections.

JOB CONDITION

Under the new resolution, as of Jan. 1, 1970, a condition of permanent employment for new staff would be knowledge of one of the working languages of the secretariat—French or English.

An indication of the opposition a resolution specifying French would receive was the introduction of a Soviet resolution that would make Russian a working language of the secretariat.

It is not known how hard the Soviets will press their resolution now that the watered-down Francophone resolution has been introduced.

Goyer said that Canada is not going to let the matter of a second UN language drop.

"My delegation intends to study this whole question in greater depth in the light of our own (Canada's) experience . . . in order to formulate concrete proposals to help realize our objectives.

Car Price Probe Rejected

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Edgar Benson Wednesday rejected the suggestion of Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver Kingsway) that he launch a special inquiry into higher prices of new cars.

However, Privy Council President Donald Macdonald, government House leader, told Mrs. MacInnis in the Commons that he will consult the cabinet on the possibility of establishing a Commons committee on consumer affairs where such an inquiry could be made.

Mrs. MacInnis said new car prices were a major factor in driving up the cost of living in November.

George Hees (PC—Prince Edward-Hastings) asked what plans the government has to reduce the cost of living.

Benson said the government is doing everything in its power to fight inflation and rising costs.

Billyclubs Swung On Campus

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police and striking students clashed briefly under swinging clubs and flying rocks Wednesday at an illegal dissident rally at San Francisco State College.

At least eight arrests were made and one girl was taken away in a stretcher.

About 50 police surrounded the rally. Militants threw a few rocks at them and police closed in. Some policemen subdued strikers with clubs.

After 10 minutes tempers subsided and the 500 strikers and supporters marched off the campus.

Conducting their own picket brigade for the first time were 35 members of the American Federation of Teachers. About 250 of the college's 1,100 teachers belong to the federation.

The teachers carried signs that said, "Negotiate Now," referring to their own demands for pay raises and other benefits.

Detectives Quit Force

TORONTO (UPI)—Three metropolitan police detectives, who were suspended recently for "improprieties in the acceptance of monies" resigned voluntarily. The detectives were all in the fraud squad. The police department said no charges would be laid.

Arsonists Kill Four

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Four bodies were recovered Wednesday in the smouldering ruins of an old downtown hotel destroyed by fire that police said was the work of arsonists.

★ ★ ★

City officials said six persons were unaccounted for.

Deputy Police Chief Solomon Reines said there had been a "neighborhood vendetta" against occupants of the hotel, described as mostly elderly transients.

★ ★ ★

Fire Commissioner Edwin Englehardt said witnesses told authorities they saw a band of young men throw gasoline-soaked rags into the building.

Intelligence Tests

Strangle Suspect Like 8-Year-Old

NEWCASTLE, England (UPI) — Norma Bell, one of two schoolgirls on trial for strangling two young boys, gave key testimony Wednesday against her 11-year-old chum and co-defendant, Mary "May" Bell.

Norma, 13, described how she and Mary took three-year-old Brian Howe to a waste area called "tin lizzie" near their homes in the slum section known as Rat Alley.

TOLD TO LIE DOWN

"Mary told Brian to lie down, he did. Mary started to hurt him," Norma told the court.

Some boys interrupted Mary, Norma said. But they left and Mary began squeezing Brian's throat with one hand while covering his mouth and nose with the other, the girl said.

"I says to Mary, 'leave Brian alone'," Norma said.

THREE VISITS

She admitted visiting the body with Mary three times. She also told the court how she took scissors that Mary used to make Brian "baldy."

Both girls, who are not related, have pleaded not guilty to the murders, unprecedented in Britain for suspects so young.

Later, the two girls and Brian's step-sister, Pat, looked for the little boy, Norma told the court.

"We went down to the railway bridge and looked over the tin lizzie. Mary said, 'he may be behind the blocks or in between them'," Norma said.

"She wanted Pat to go there and see him and have a shock because Pat liked Brian very much," Norma said.

NOTES READ

"Mary had told me that, and that is why I said, 'he'll not be there'," Norma added.

Norma broke down and her sobs filled the court when the prosecutor asked her to read notes about the death of Brian and four-year-old Martin Brown which a handwriting expert has said the girls wrote.

NORMAL TERMS

Dr. Ian Frazer, a child psychiatrist, testified that Norma never showed signs of physical aggression and was on normal terms with her parents since she was put in a hospital on Aug. 28.

The doctor said a number of intelligence tests showed she was a mental age of 8 years and 10 months, however.

FORCE NEEDED

"My husband hit May on the shoulder to get her hands away from Susan's neck," Mrs. Bell said.

David McCready, 12, said Mary started fighting with Norma while the three children played in a nursery school sand box last summer.

"Norma fell down. May jumped on top of her and they just started fighting. May started to scratch Norma's face. She kicked her on the side," David testified.

Busmen Balk At Beatings

LONDON (AP)—London bus crews voted to hold a protest strike Dec. 21 against drunks and louts who beat up conductors. One conductor was stabbed and another was kicked and lost an eye. The busmen are seeking better police protection and stiffer penalties for thugs.

Dallas Honors Officer Slain on Duty

DALLAS (UPI) — For Mrs. Floyd Alexander Knight, three days a widow, birth will follow death and will bring sadness.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Knight was the wife of a policeman — "a good officer," his boss said.

Floyd Knight was buried Tuesday — the first Dallas policeman killed in the line of duty since Lee Harvey Oswald gunned down officer J. D. Tippit Nov. 22, 1964.

"We are grateful to Floyd Alexander Knight and all men like him," said the Dallas Times Herald in a front page story Wednesday.

"In that same humility, we contribute $500 in the beginning of a trust to assure a better future for Mrs. Knight and their children," the paper said.

Knight was shot to death Sunday in the storeroom of a drive-in grocery. He was on stakeout duty to prevent holdups.

"Words and money cannot return this young man to his home and his unborn," the Times-Herald said. It asked the city of Dallas to "assure this family that it honors the dead, who sacrificed to protect the peace."

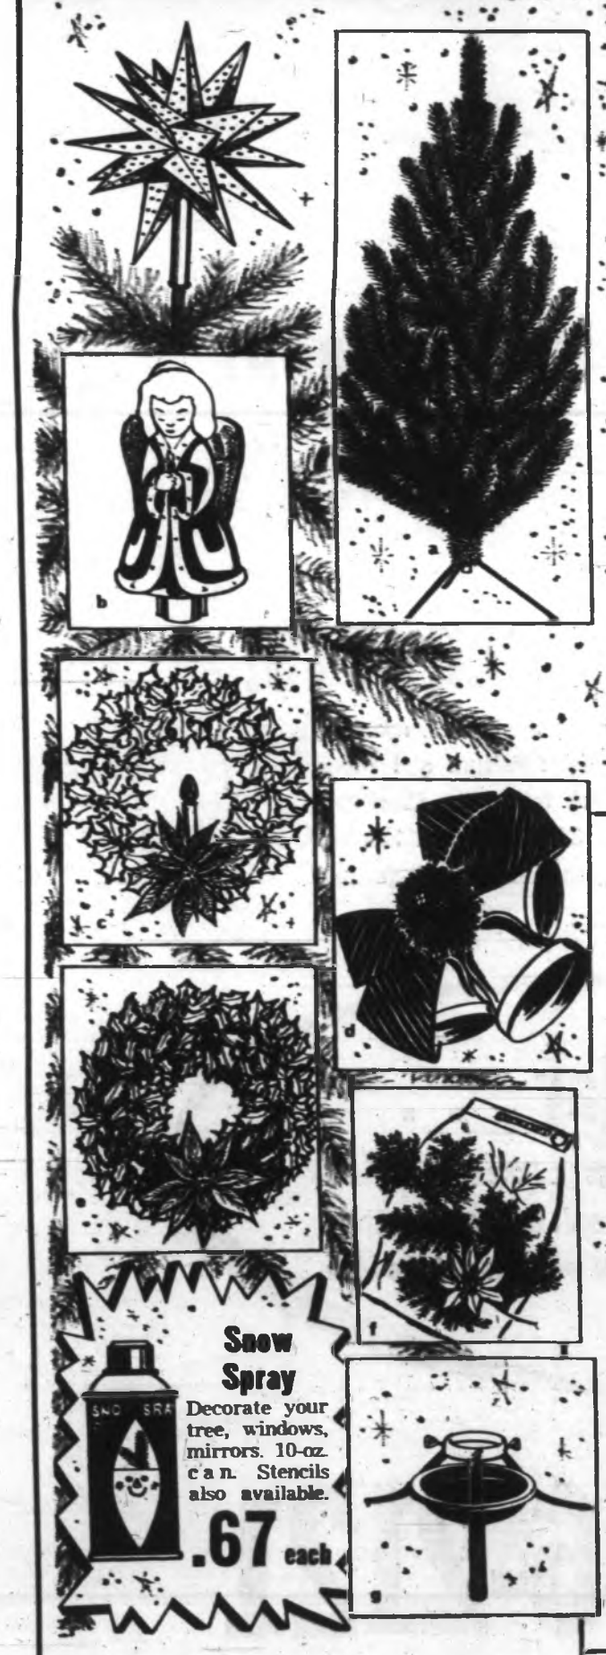

Mrs. Knight has a two-year-old daughter. She was expecting her second child any day.

One week ago, her husband did not go to work. Instead, Officer Knight rushed his wife to a hospital to have her baby. But it was a false alarm.

Storied Ship Spark For New Troubles?

BELFAST (CP)—The nostalgic arrival from Canada of the old gun-running ship Clydevalley took on new political significance Wednesday when a major figure in the welcoming committee was fired from the Northern Ireland cabinet.

There appeared some possibility that the dismissal of Home Affairs Minister William Craig, who represents the constituency into which the ship will be sailing Saturday, will further stir up feelings among Irish groups already tangled in factional violence.

RIGHTS ISSUE

Even before Craig was dropped, fears had been expressed that the arrival of the 52-year-old Clydevalley, a floating reminder of the Irish troubles of a half century ago, might serve as the focus of new demonstrations over Ulster's current civil rights issue.

Craig is a leader among hard-liners of the government Unionist party against the minority Nationalist party, heavily Roman Catholic, which is seeking more civil rights in Protestant-dominated Ulster. Prime Minister Terence O'Neill has been preaching moderation and has been angered by extremist speeches made by Craig recently.

LIVELY DOINGS

One thing leading observers to think there may be lively doings at the dockside in nearby Larne on Saturday is that the bitterly anti-Roman Catholic Rev. Ian Paisley is due to conduct a service and perhaps read a history of the Clydevalley's 1914 exploit of running in guns to oppose home-rule advocates in the South of Ireland.

Craig

Extreme Protestants led by Paisley are reported likely to gather round Craig, regarded as a rival to O'Neill for power, and challenge the stability of the administration.

SEES NO VIOLENCE

But Sam Campbell of nearby Whitehead, a Unionist organizer who masterminded the rescue of the Clydevalley from a Canadian scrapyard, said Wednesday he sees no likelihood of violence on the dock when the iron-hulled steamship sails into Larne harbor at the end of her transatlantic trip.

"It's made a lot of people angry but there won't be any demonstration, I'm sure," said Campbell, who bought the ship after she had run aground off Newfoundland and appeared destined for the breakers.

TRAFFIC PROBLEM

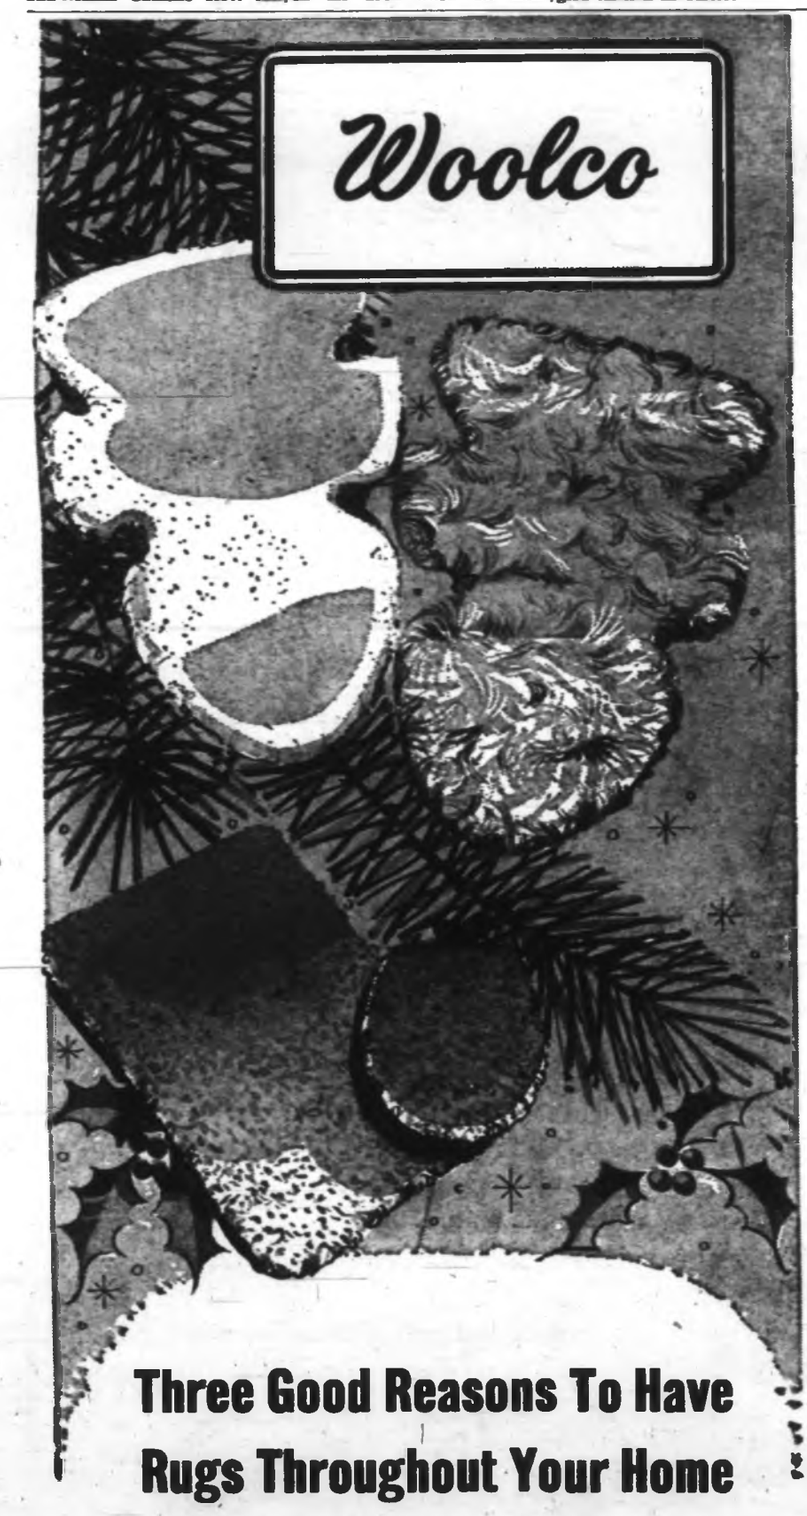

Campbell estimated 25,000 persons will be on hand for the arrival at Larne, 25 miles north of Belfast, but said the police are treating the influx as only a traffic problem in a community of 11,000. He also said Craig remains as a guest of honor.

Campbell said the Clydevalley, which left St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 27, is anchored off the Scottish Isle of Islay, 70 miles from here across the North Channel between Ireland and Scotland. She is to be kept offshore until she sails down for the Saturday ceremony.

GUNS TO NORTH

After her welcome, the Clydevalley is to await plans for setting her up as a museum of North Irish sentiment. In 1914 she brought a cargo of guns from Germany to Northern Irish opponents of home rule who had sworn to fight the Southern Irish, or even the British government of the day, to remain linked to the crown.

Today, the Nationalists still fight for detachment from England and "home rule" under the Republican government in Dublin. This is only part of the tangled turmoil in Ulster.

Whisky 'Drunk Like Water' All Coat Lifter Recalls

"I was drinking whisky like it was water," an admitted shoplifter said Wednesday in Central Magistrate's Court.

A security officer from Eaton's told court Scholfield was apprehended Tuesday evening, as he left the store with a $39.95 topcoat without paying for it. He told court Schofield "appeared to have been drinking heavily."

Schofield told court, "I don't even remember being there."

Prosecutor Cory Stolte read Schofield's previous record to court, dating to 1955, with many charges involving shoplifting, possession of stolen goods, and other charges.

He told Magistrate Ostler he had just recently been released from prison on his last charge.

The magistrate told him, "You are obviously a quite unrepentant thief. You are sentenced to six months."

After being found passed out on his front lawn, and having pleaded guilty to intoxicated driving, Wilfred T. Black, 49, of 4704 Mountain, was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Black was charged after he ran his 1954 model car into a ditch on Beaver Lake road at 7:10 a.m. Tuesday.

Prosecutor Stolte told court police learned Black had attended a party where he had been drinking, and as he backed out of the host's driveway, continued backing until he was in a ditch. Another person gave him a ride home, where he passed out on his lawn, court was told.

Magistrate Ostler told him, "Mr. Black, you are one of the most fortunate men I've looked upon in a long time." He explained that because the accused had two previous impaired driving convictions, and the Crown had charged him with intoxicated driving, the maximum sentence was 30 days in jail. He said had they proceeded in another manner, he could have sentenced Black to one year in jail.

Two men charged with possession of marijuna following police raids in the Victoria area in late November, elected trial by magistrate and pleaded not guilty.

Ott Misler, 28, of Port Alberni, and Wolfgang Nitsch, 24, of Ucluelet, were remanded to Jan. 9 for trial before Magistrate J. A. Byers. Magistrate Ostler explained that he would not be on the bench at that time.

The two men were unable to set a date earlier because they were represented by a Vancouver lawyer who would not be available before the remand date.

Eric Joseph Clermont, 19, of 614 Bay, also arrested in the November drug raids, was sentenced to three months in jail, following a presentence report.

Clermont pleaded guilty Dec. 3 to possession of marijuana. Magistrate Ostler said he did not believe a heavy sentence was necessary in Cleremont's case, because he had shown improvement in his living habits.

City Still Has Say On High-Rise Style

There will likely be an apartment development beside the high-rise on Rockland Heights, but it will not be a twin to the existing building.

That seems to be the prospect following a legal opinion received this week by the city on the controversial site.

The present building was the first of a proposed two-stage development, but it came under criticism for overshadowing the city's old water tower.

However, the city thought it was obliged to allow a twin tower to be developed under the original agreement with the developers.

But the city's development committee was told this week that an expert legal opinion was that while the developers had a right to put up another building, its design and height were still subject to city approval.

In any event, a second proposal will still have to survive a public hearing and meet the approval of the city engineer before it will be considered by council.

Oil Stove Fire Ruins House

A fire at Sidney early Wednesday which ruined the home of Donald Dillion of 10415 All Bay Road, started in a wall between two oil stoves, a fire department official said.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillon and their four-month-old baby escaped from the house after Mrs. Dillon saw flames in the living room at about 4 a.m.

The fire department official estimated the damage at $10,000.

Mrs. Dillon said it was propably the baby that kept her awake. The Dillons are staying at the home of Mrs. Dillon's mother, 3904 Cadboro Bay Road.

Oil Cans Arson Link With Gutted Sawmill

Investigation continued Wednesday into the possibility of arson being involved in the fire Monday which caused an estimated $25,000 damage to Ideal Sawmill on Tyee Road.

The fire gutted the $40,000 mill in a matter of minutes. Deputy Fire Chief Carl Coates said two oil cans found at the site did not belong to the mill.

Slow 2,200

Air Line Boosts Offer

Air Canada, still operating smoothly despite a work-to-rule slowdown by 2,200 employees, came up with a new contract offer late Wednesday in an attempt to reach agreement with the Canadian Air Line Employees Association.

Details of the offer were not disclosed.

The contract negotiations in Montreal were adjourned to give union representatives time to consider the proposal, and were expected to resume Wednesday night.

'IMPROVED' AIR

Air Canada described the atmosphere at the bargaining table as "improved."

Members of the employee association—which represents passenger agents, communications personnel and switchboard operators—have been working without a contract since their previous one expired July 31.

They started their work-to-rule slowdown Monday to put pressure on the airline, but so far this has caused no major delays.

LENGTHY SESSION

Earlier Wednesday, negotiators declined to comment on progress but an airline spokesman said there were indications that the bargaining session might be a lengthy one.

Thomas C. O'Connor of Toronto, chairman of the conciliation board, denied that he was under any pressure to report to the labor department on the talks.

Wages and working conditions are among the major points in dispute. The association wants pay increases of 19 to 35 per cent in a one-year contract, and Air Canada has offered 15 per cent over two years.

Gagnon

Police Officers Quiz Reporter

MONTREAL (CP) — La Presse reporter Lysiane Gagnon says she was interrogated at home Tuesday night by RCMP officers who wanted to know how she obtained portions of the unpublished third report of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

In a story Wednesday in La Presse, Miss Gagnon describes the visit by two policemen who she says asked questions for an hour and a half while she refused to reply.

They did not search the premises, but three other RCMP officers searched the home of her parents and questioned her sister Mona-Josee, who also refused to reply.

"The police tried to question her about the activities of a friend of hers, Gilles Jasmin, who lives in Ottawa and knows —as do several thousand others —some people who work for the B and B commission."

Miss Gagnon says the Ottawa apartment of Jasmin, a student, was searched by five RCMP officers. Nothing was discovered by either search party.

Miss Gagnon is the author of a series of articles which appeared in La Presse Oct. 22-26 on the commission's third report, dealing with the economic aspects of biculturalism. The report is scheduled to be published in about a year.

When the series was published, Jean-Louis Gagnon, co-chairman of the royal commission, acknowledged that the excerpts from the report were authentic.

Debate Limits May Ruin Role of House Speaker

OTTAWA (CP) — A former Commons Speaker warned Wednesday that proposed changes in House rules may jeopardize the role of the Speaker and place that person in an impossible position.

Marcel Lambert (PC — Edmonton West) continued an attack started by the opposition Tuesday on a Commons motion to approve the report of a special committee that recommends sweeping changes in parliamentary procedures.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Lambert, and other speakers, concentrated their criticism on the proposal to allocate time for each debate. Also drawing fire was a proposal to lift debate on departmental spending estimates out of the House and into standing committees.

In a sharp renewal of the NDP attack on the time-allocation proposal, David Lewis, the party's parliamentary leader, asked the government to shelve it to see whether an all-party committee could properly allocate time for debate.

He said the government cannot be given the right to allot time. A small group of men could then control, subvert and destroy Parliament.

RIGHT TO DICTATE

Lambert, Speaker in the 1962-63 session of Parliament, said the time-allocation proposal gives the government the right to dictate how long each debate will last. Traditionally the House was its own master on the length of debates under the guidance of the Speaker.

However, with the government having the final say in the length of debates the Speaker "becomes the servant of the government" not of the House.

"Your Honor's position has been placed in jeopardy."

The Speaker would be "no longer the arbiter of the rules of this House but of the rules as put forward by the government." The Speaker "must not be placed in an impossible position."

Lambert termed the offending committee proposals government-inspired—there had been almost general agreement during discussions by the special committee—and "unbridled licence."

"This is the most vicious, dastardly attack upon Parliament that has been perpetrated.

"If the government feels a debate has gone on for too long let it bring in closure frontally."

Prime Minister Trudeau had misled the public deliberately on a TV interview when he said that all debates must at some point come to an end. He was "just trying to muddy the situation" since all MPs agreed that debates must end.

What they didn't agree with was the government unilaterally determining how long debates will last.

As for moving estimates out of the Commons and into standing committees "it's going to be a fearsome system." The present committee structure was not designed for the task.

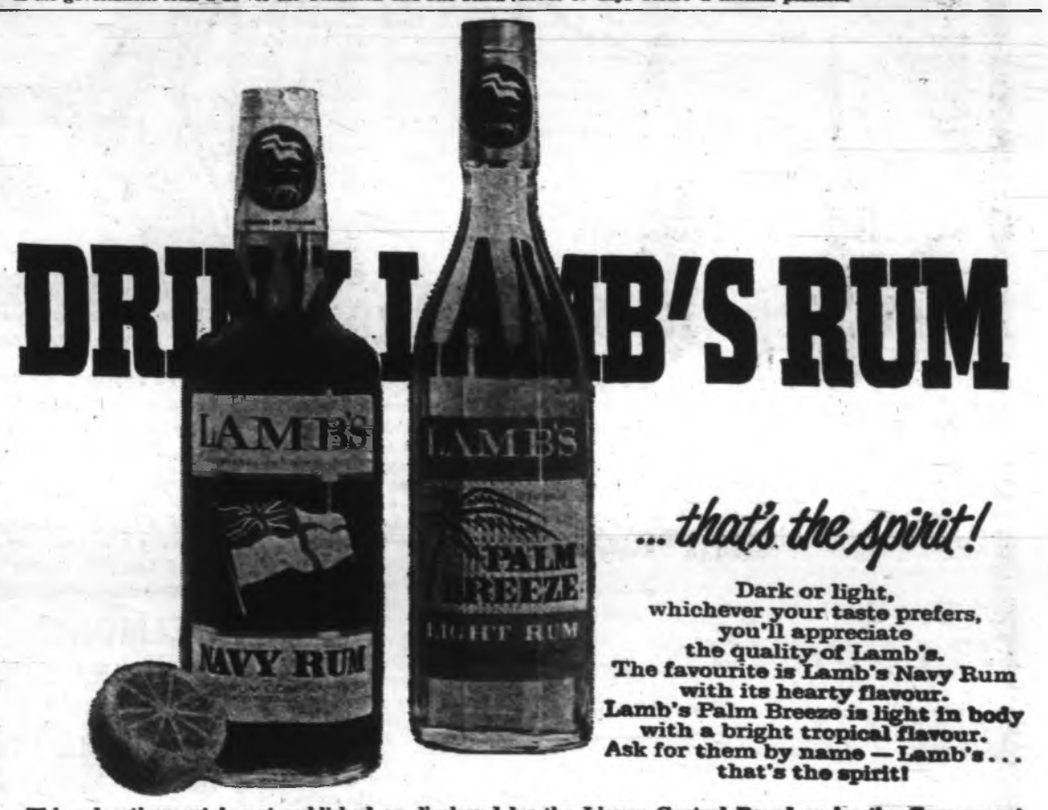

The House should continue to study the estimates, if only along broad policy lines, leaving the details to the committees.

At present the House was faced with some 40 bills and about 80 days before a normal summer recess in which to consider them. A responsible opposition would sit down with the government and agree to time limits on each debate.

Timetables for passing bills were not new, Mr. Macdonald said. The British Parliament had used them for almost 100 years.

If he acceded to an opposition request to let a majority vote of House leaders determine time allocations, the government would always be in a minority position.

Crusader Returns

Liberal Priests Hit By Pamphlet Blast

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (CP-AP) — Rev. Charles C. Coughlin denounces liberal priests, bishops and "loud-mouthed clerical advocates of arson, riot and draft card burning," in his first pamphlet published in 26 years.

The Canadian-born priest was one of the most controversial figures in the United States in the 1930s and early 1940s when he drew an audience of several million as the crusading "Radio Priest."

★ ★ ★

Father Coughlin also accuses his superior, Roman Catholic Archbishop John F. Dearden of Detroit, of "under-the-table approval" of dissident priests whose aim is to "upset Pope Paul."

Coughlin

"Bishops must assume the major responsibility for the moral predicament in which the members of the Catholic Church find themselves," Father Coughlin wrote in a 54-page pamphlet entitled Helmet and Sword. The pamphlet was released Tuesday.

He also attacked churchmen who have criticized the church ban on artificial birth control.

It was Father Coughlin's first publication since Social Justice, a weekly magazine published from 1936 to 1942. The government banned Social Justice distribution in the mails after U.S. Attorney-General Francis Biddle denounced it as "traitorous."

★ ★ ★

The government said it "mirrored the (Nazi Germany, Italy and Japan) Nazi propaganda line."

The 77-year-old priest claimed a radio audience in the 1930s of 30,000,000. He heaped invective on "international bankers," Communists and the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

★ ★ ★

Under pressure from the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Detroit, he ceased his radio program in 1940.

Father Coughlin said the pamphlet was the first section of a book on the "crisis in the Catholic Church."

Pope Orders Obedience

March Backs Rebel Priests

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Demonstrators supporting rebel priests marched through St. Peter's Square Wednesday only moments after Pope Paul VI warned the clergy to obey the church and reject "near-subversive" trends.

About 100 students took part in the protest, carrying signs in support of ousted rebel priest Enzo Massi of Florence and Colombian guerrilla-priest Camilo Torres, who was killed last year fighting against government forces in Latin America.

The demonstration lasted about two hours during which the students read aloud passages from the controversial New Catechism written by Mazzi, who was removed as parish priest of Florence's Isolotto working class district last week after accusing the established church of ignoring the poor.

Massi's New Catechism describes Jesus Christ as a social agitator as well as a redeemer and messiah.

Vatican officials paid no attention to the demonstrators. Vatican sources said they did not know if the Pope was told about the protest while it was underway.

Italian police, who are responsible for maintaining public order in the square, made no attempt to intervene and the crowd eventually dispersed without incident.

In his speech to the audience of Romans and pilgrims inside the basilica, the Pope said he was aware that many priests were asking themselves if they are really doing their duty.

"We think the answer to these most serious questions is easy," the Pontiff said in his remarks directed to the Italian priests.

"Do well what the church tells you to do," he said. "Don't believe that you can find a better solution in the near-subversive novelties that are being suggested."

He said there were some priests "who would like to break ranks, break away from the discipline the church has created and is perfecting."

These priests, the Pope said, "believe they can better approach the world by throwing away their habit, or by assimilating the worldly usage of the profane."

Pocket Rocket Contract Let

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. army has awarded a contract for a new soldier's missile said to be capable of knocking out enemy tanks more than a mile away and destroying concrete bunkers. The $56,371,527 contract went to Hughes Aircraft Co.

Arrests for Illegal Entry Latest Steps in School Row

NEW YORK (AP) — Rhody McCoy, administrator of a controversial Brooklyn school decentralization experiment, was arrested Wednesday in an attempt to open a school ordered closed by a state trustee.

Having vowed to establish the extent of community control in his Ocean Hill-Brownsville district, McCoy and two others entered Junior High School 271 shortly after 8 a.m. and refused to leave when asked to do so.

They were seized by police and taken out the back door of the school.

The school with 1,700 pupils was closed last week following a series of disorders. McCoy was directed by trustee William D. Firman to submit a written plan for safely reopening the facility but did not do so.

Early Wednesday, in another experimentally decentralized district in East Harlem, police arrested 17 persons—12 men and five women—sitting in at a school to protest the forced return of nine teachers.

As the 17 sit-ins were booked on charges of criminal trespass, eight of the nine teachers described by local leaders as "unwanted" entered the school under heavy police escort.

Both disputes centre on issues of community control of local schools. Both communities are predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican.

Ocean Hill was the focus of the recent citywide strikes by the predominantly white United Federation of Teachers which kept 1,100,000 public school pupils out of classes for 35 days.

One of the terms in the final strike settlement was the temporary appointment of a state trustee to oversee the eight schools in Ocean Hill.

Freedomites Still 'Holiday'

AGASSIZ (CP) — About 40 children continued their unofficial holiday Wednesday as Sons of Freedom Doukhobor parents prevented the youngsters from returning to school.

The Freedomite children have been kept at home for more than a week as their parents attempt to secure the return to Canada of their spiritual leader, Stefan Sorokin.

AGREED TO RETURN

Jerry Pringle, Liberal MP for Fraser Valley East, said Tuesday in Ottawa that the Freedomites had agreed to return the children to school after he promised to meet them early in January.

But Siegfried Bartel, chairman of Agassiz school board, said Wednesday he had spoken later with sect leaders and they said their children will remain out of school until Ottawa makes a more concrete proposal.

Sorokin, 66, has lived in Uruguay since 1952. He returned to Canada in 1961, and when he left said he would be returning again that year.

He has not been back since. The Freedomites claim he was forced to leave.

More than 200 members of the Freedomite sect live in a shack town near the Agassiz Mountain prison where scores of Freedomite terrorists were sent in 1962.

A few remain in prison.

St. Leonard Classes Nearing Bankruptcy

MONTREAL (UPI) — Special classes set up for English-speaking Roman Catholic Grade 1 pupils in suburban St. Leonard are in danger of going broke, organizers said Tuesday.

The schools, operated in basements and halls, were set up this fall when the community's Catholic school commission began phasing out English-language teaching in schools under its jurisdiction.

Robert Doble, a teacher and finance comittee member, said Tuesday funds have run out and appealed for public support.

Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand Monday promised the situation in St. Leonard would return to the "status quo" once controversial minority language rights legislation approved in first reading Monday by the Quebec legislative assembly has been adopted.

Doctor Convicted In Bizarre Fetus Serum Case

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Andre Grenier was found guilty Wednesday of three charges of criminal negligence in the deaths of three of his patients who were injected with a "youth serum."

A 12-man Court of Queen's Bench jury deliberated for nearly one hour before returning the guilty verdict. The 39-year-old doctor will be sentenced today by Mr. Justice Ignace Deslauriers.

Crown Prosecutor Andre Ledoux argued during a 1½-week trial that Dr. Grenier did not have the necessary experience to prepare and administer the "rejuvenation" injections, made from living cells of fetuses from freshly-slaughtered ewes.

Three patients — Normand Sayve, 46, Pierrette Riverin, 31, and Marie-Louise receiving injections June 3, 1967. Subsequent autopsies showed cause of death was gas gangrene.

Defence counsel Marcel Turgeon had appealed for acquittal on grounds that the conduct of Dr. Grenier, before, during and after the injections, was that of an honest, serious doctor and not one of criminal negligence. He described the whole affair as "an accident, a technical error."

Ledoux said that while necessary precautions as to cleanliness and sterility had been taken by Dr. Grenier, the main question for the jury was whether the doctor had the ability or knowledge to make and administer the treatment.

Dr. Grenier, testifying in his own defence earlier in the trial, admitted he signed the death certificate of one of his three patients without knowing the exact cause of death.

He had attributed Miss De-Grandpre's death to acute infection, possibly cause by influenza or pneumonia.

His defence counsel said the certificate had been signed at the request of the dead woman's sister and that it was in conformity with observations made without performing an autopsy.

9 IN MEMORIAM

GLOVER—In loving memory of our [illegible] husband and father, Edwin Harting (Hank), who left us so suddenly Dec. 12, 1967.

Oh, what would we give to clasp his hand,
His dear, kind face to see,
That meant so much to us.
His spirit has fled, his sufferings o'er,
He is in our hearts forevermore.

HALL—In loving memory of my husband Arthur, who passed away December 12, 1961.
Sadly remembered every day,
Sadly missed along life's way,
Just as you were you will always be,
Treasured in my memory.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife Alice, son, brother and sisters.

ROBERT—In loving memory of Russel, who passed away suddenly, one year ago.

ABOUTV

with Bruce Lowther

PEOPLE AND PROGRAMS: ABC may be a distant third among the U.S. networks in the ratings, but its Channel 4 continues to lead in the Seattle-Tacoma area. Ratings show NBC leads in 23 of the 38 leading U.S. markets while CBS is ahead in 13 and ABC in two, the other being Philadelphia.

The BBC, heeding the times, has dropped the traditional blackface makeup from its 11-year-old TV Black and White Minstrel Show. The title has been changed to Music, Music, Music but everything else is the same—costumes, material and pace.

Producer David Wolper, whose Bridge of Remagen movie was halted by Russia's Czech invasion, finally finished it in Rome. Actor George Segal started across the bridge in Czechoslovakia and left it in Rome, and they say you can't tell the difference.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Wednesday's wry answer — The song says, "I thought that cards were a frameup, I never would try, but now I'm taking the game up, and the ace of hearts is high."" Ethel Waters sang Taking a Chance on Love in Cabin in the Sky. The other song, about rainbows in my wine, was the Duke's I'm Beginning to See the Light.

Today's question — This being the Colonist's birthday week, what's the specialty daily, weekly or occasionally of Robert Elegant, Richard Jackson, Stan Delaplane, George Thosteson, Eugenia Sheppard and Ray Kerr. Don't peek. Answers Friday.

Thursday Highlights

C-10:00—Dean Martin again. Still dull—5.

Thursday Movies

12:45 noon—Flood Tide (1958 stiich). George Nader is the biggest name in this turkey. Fact is, there's not a first-rate film all day—6, 8.

January Meeting

Big Brothers May Aid Young Nanaimo Boys

Don Omlid of 890 Bay Street, who has been working on the project for several months, said this week that he had been studying possibilities of setting up the organization in the district.

★ ★ ★

"It was the Halloween near-riots that really got me going," he said. "Up until then I was only going slowly but then I decided to really get going on it."

The Big Brother objectives are to give a fatherless boy an adult male companion who will help him to learn to live in society, he said.

The Big Brother does not take over family autonomy but becomes a friend, giving the boy objectives for maturity rather than having the boy grow wild, possibly becoming a social liability, he said.

Mr. Omlid said that if the society is formed, Big Brothers would be chosen under the strict requirements.

★ ★ ★

"When you make a mistake with a boy, it isn't a mistake made with a pet that can be destroyed. It's with a child who will carry that mistake for life."

He said the Big Brother idea was not a cure-all but one of many ways in which growing boys could be helped.

Mr. Omlid has not been working alone. He said he has been seeking help through groups such as churches, service clubs, welfare agencies, Brannan Lake Boys' School authorities and the RCMP.

"About a dozen hard-core community-minded people are very interested."

Mr. Omlid said he would wait until the first two weeks of January before calling a meeting to form a steering committee.

Students Picket For School Bus

LAKE COWICHAN — Students picketed Lake Cowichan school board's office Wednesday morning chanting, "We want a bus, we want a bus."

There were approximately 75 students from grades eight to 10 asking for a bus to take them to a skating party at Fuller's Lake Arena, Chemainus, in the evening.

A previous request to the school board was turned down. The students had offered to pay for the use of the bus and a driver.

Pat Bryan, vice-principal at Lake Cowichan senior secondary school, told the children that they would not gain anything by their action and to hold a meeting at school.

Following the meeting the students decided to approach the board again through normal channels.

Ron Kimak, board secretary-treasurer, said: "we are not allowed by law to rent the school buses out.

"The school board does not recognize transportation assistance for the skating party because they do not consider it an extra-curricular function," he said.

Arctic Christmas Greeting

Trudeau Picks UNICEF Card

OTTAWA (CP) — On the outside cover it looks like the cheery UNICEF greeting card many Canadians have chosen to send this Christmas. Inside, however, it's signed by the prime minister.

Called Arctic Dance, the cover shows a group of children in colored parkas circling an evergreen tree with igloos dotting a snowy landscape stretching to the sea.

Inside, season's greetings are given in the UN's five official languages: English, French, Russian, Spanish and Chinese. The prime minister's signature is beneath followed by his name printed in bold capitals.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield and his wife, Mary, have picked a formal card with a plain white cover embossed in gold with "the Canadian coat of arms.

Inside, opposite season's greetings in English and French, is a photograph of the couple standing before a fireplace at Stornoway, the Opposition leader's official residence in Ottawa.

Governor-General and Mrs. Roland Michener have chosen a most elegant card carrying a breath of spring rather than a winter scene.

Inside the plain white cover relieved only by a small gold crown and the words Government House, Ottawa in English and French, is a large color photograph of the vice-regal couple by Malak of Ottawa.

Sticks of Dynamite Planted in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Police discovered a package with four sticks of dynamite and a detonator near a building housing government offices here Tuesday night.

They kept an all-night vigil around the building near the mid-town intersection of Sparks and Elgin streets after taking away the dynamite package.

A watchman called police about 10:45 p.m. after he noticed three men place something near the building. The watchman said they drove away in a car with Quebec licence plates.

The dynamite was placed about 100 feet from the offices of the British High Commission in Ottawa.

Stripes Give Way

TORONTO (CP) — David Budgell Wednesday changed from green, black and cream to conservative blue and was allowed back to classes at Martin Grove collegiate institute.

The 17-year-old Grade 10 student was sent home Tuesday for wearing what vice-principal John Young said were gaudy clothes—green striped bell-bottom pants, a black ascot and a cream-colored sweater.

"We expect our students to dress in a manner that would be acceptable to most businesses," Mr. Young said.

"I don't like it but I guess I'll have to go along with it," said David.

Mrs. Budgell said the school's action was "a bit silly."

"I think they're going too far," said David's father.

Winnipeg Ballet In Prague

PRAGUE (Reuters) — The Royal Winnipeg Ballet has arrived in Prague to start an 11-day tour with performances scheduled at four of Czechoslovakia's main cities.

The Prague newspaper Lidova Demokracie Wednesday hailed the ensemble as the "leading representatives of the ballet in North America."

The group opens in the east Slovak city of Kosice Dec. 17. Other performances are scheduled for Dec. 18 in Bratislava, Dec. 19 in Brno and Dec. 21 in Prague.

Garden Notes

Ye Olde Seedeman

By M. V. CHESNUT

Thanks to a good friend of mine who is something of a collector of rare books, I have just been privileged to handle and read a little volume which I believe may be the first seed catalogue ever issued.

It was prepared by a Richard Gardiner, "of Shrewsberie," who lived 350 years ago. Gardiner was the proprietor of a profitable dry goods shop in Shrewsbury, but was a market gardener and seedsman on the side, and his little book of only 30 pages is probably the first to be devoted exclusively to vegetables and vegetable seeds.

Gardiner evidently didn't think much of his fellow seedsmen and was most outspoken concerning "the great and abominable falsehoods of those sortes of people which sell Garden Seedes," and he speaks of "many thousands of poundes robbed yeerly from the Common Wealth by those Caterpillars." He advises his competitors to "have a care to sell in Reason and Conscience."

This Shrewsbury dry goods merchant, market gardener and purveyor of "seedes" appears to have had his favorites among his garden subjects — principally lettuce and carrots. But his regard was not entirely a matter of personal taste, for he writes:

"Carrets are good to be taken with salte fish. Therefore sowe Carrets in your kitchin gardens and humbly praise God for them, as for a singular and grate blessing; so this much for the use and benefit had in the Common Wealth by Carrets. Admit, if it should please God that any City or Towne should be besieged by the Enemy, what better Provision for the gratest number of people can be, than every Garden to be sufficiently planted with Carrets?"

I imagine Richard Gardiner's eyes would really pop if he could see how horticulture has developed since he peddled his "carrot seedes" in 1603. One of these ~~developments~~ which interests me particularly is the growing of potted plants and seedlings in soil-less mixtures.

I think what probably started the research along these lines was the difficulty in getting any uniformity in batches of potting soil. No two potfuls were alike, and the performance of the plants varied accordingly. The standardized John Innis composts were a big advance, but even these vary from sample to sample, depending on the quality of the fibrous loam component in the mixture.

Many commercial growers have gone over to the University of California mixes, containing only peat moss, sand and chemical fertilizers in varying proportions, depending on whether they are to be used for seed-raising, potting or slip-rooting.

In Britain, Levington Compost is the big thing, which is a selected grade of peat moss with added nutrients. In the U.S., a popular dirtless potting mix is Redi-Earth, using peat moss, vermiculite, trace elements and plant nutrients.

I am having very good luck with just plain peat moss, watered with a weak Alginure solution, and all my seeds last spring were raised this way. The trick with all these soil-less mixes, though, is to leave it loose in the pot; it should never be firmed as you would with potting soil.

ART BUCHWALD Writes the Script

Anatomy of a Student Riot

WASHINGTON — Those of us who try to keep abreast of student affairs have noticed that student riots are taking on a pattern. The script reads something like this:

Dean of students arrives on campus. Students start throwing rocks, dirt and tomatoes at him, and try to hit him over the head as they scream, "Amnesty! Amnesty!"

Dean of students, as he tries to protect himself, yells back, "What do you want amnesty from?"

Students: "From attacking you. We demand that you sign a paper that we won't be punished for throwing things at you and trying to hit you over the head."

Dean: "But why should I do that? Wouldn't it be better if you didn't attack me?"

Students: "Spoken like a bourgeois racist. You don't even care to listen to what we have to say."

Dean: "I'd be happy to hear what you've got to say if you'd just stop throwing things at me. I can't listen when I'm constantly ducking."

Students: "Obsenity—what do you have to say to that?"

Dean: "Very interesting."

Students: "What about the draught?"

Dean: "I don't know anything about the draft. My specialty is anthropology."

Students: "Black is beautiful."

Dean: "That's very good. Why are you throwing that chair at me?"

Students: "The system stinks and we have nothing to say about the crummy, capitalistic, profit-making establishment."

Dean: "I assure you that whether you throw that chair at me or not, it is not going to help your cause. It would even hurt it."

Students: "We don't have a cause. We have certain demands and if they're not met in two hours, we're going to burn down the library."

Dean: "What good will that do?"

Students: "It will bring about the needed reforms in education."

Dean: "Without books?"

Students: "You're trying to hold a dialogue with us."

Dean: "Heaven forbid."

Students: "If you don't agree to sign a paper giving us amnesty, we'll close down the school."

Dean: "I don't have the authority to give you amnesty. But I won't press any charges against you if you'll only stop hitting me with those table legs."

Students: "You're patronizing us. Aren't we even grown up enough to have charges pressed against us?"

Dean: "All right. I'll press charges against you then, if that's what you want."

Students: "What about due process? Don't we even get a trial?"

Students: "Up against the wall! Up against the wall!"

Dean: "You said it; I didn't."

Students: "Don't we have any constitutional rights at all?"

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Ties Thwart Love

★ ★ ★

Shirley MacLaine and Lauren Bacall are both reportedly interested in famous television commentators. I believe this is true for Miss Bacall. Shirley is still the wife of Steve Parker. They get together in London and sometimes in Hollywood, but mostly Steve lives in Tokyo.

★ ★ ★

Omar Sharif, who has made screen love to Sophia Loren, Julie Christie, Ingrid Bergman, Catherine Deneuve, Anouk Aimee and Barbra Streisand, was lamenting, "I don't know why I can't ever seem to meet any really interesting women."

★ ★ ★

Genevieve Waite, the sharp-tongued star of Joanna, startled the guests at a recent party with some remarks about her director, Michael Sarne. In spite of the very mixed reviews, the film is doing well. It's the most far-out and uninhibited of the year.

★ ★ ★

John Huston plays a nasty old lecher in De Sade which he is directing. The movie is being shot in Berlin in great secrecy, not because of the erotic theme but because the West Berlin authorities are protecting the art treasures of the royal palace of Charlottenburg, the locale of the movie.

★ ★ ★

I bumped into Funny Girl producer Ray Stark and he was beaming with much mental arithmetic, counting his profits from the smash movie. He told me he is firm about Barbra not singing at all in his Owl and the Pussycat picture. "She wants to prove she can act without having to sing." I hope Harry Stradling photographs her again—what a job he did for her in Funny Girl and Hello, Dolly!

★ ★ ★

Alfred Hitchcock has maidens from all over the world wooing him for the top romantic role in Topaz . . . And the young woman in the romantic life of George Hamilton is a British-born divorcee whose first name is Elizabeth. She has been visiting him on the set of The Survivors.

Peter O'Toole's competition for his Lion in Winter Oscar will be Ron Moody as Fugin in Oliver. And while Miss Streisand and Katharine Hepburn are the top favorites for their respective pictures, the dark horse is Joanna Woodward for Rachel, Rachel. The Oscar for the best picture seems to be a certainty for The Lion in Winter.

Love Needs Effort

DR. STUART ROSENBERG

Flaubert said genius is only long patience and hard work.

Michelangelo is supposed to have said this:

"If people knew how hard I work to get my mastery, it wouldn't seem so unusual at all."

There is much that we can learn from these masters. Nothing significant comes easily. We purchase cheaply only the allurements of life.

How true this is of all our real and lasting treasures. Start with our home life. Some couples wrongly think love and family unity are possible wiout constant effort.

Bad coffee in the morning has been blamed sometimes for wrecked homes. A powder keg full of trivia, adding up to nothing, has blown up many a marriage.

But a good home, because it is the greatest work of art achievable by man, takes time and patience. We never can take love for granted.

We have to keep polishing our oyalty and our devotion to keep them from tarnishing. We have to work at being good husbands and wives, sincere fathers and mothers.

We never reach a stage of completion or perfection. We can't rest on our laurels.

The moment we think we've achieved complete and final understanding, we may be on our way to losing it. But unfortunately for the rational man and woman, life affords many chances.

If we've made mistakes — and who hasn't? — we always can try to rebuild the bridge. We can recapture love that has rusted by lack of use.

Our trouble is that we imagine the tasks and challenges of life so formidable we never make a real start at tackling them. Broken homes often are not so much broken as they are deserted. Deserted by people who refuse to expend the effort to solve their problems.

It's the first step that counts. Even a trip around the world begins by taking the first step. Once we're on the way, the road becomes easier and the direction clearer.

Praise Coined for Good Host

Coin-studded citation presented to Ron Worley, B.C.'s deputy minister of travel, by Canadian Pacific Airlines official Ken Dakin of Vancouver, is in recognition of government co-operation as host to travellers on promotional tours flown here by airline. Currency on plaque comes from five continents, from which CPA representatives are meeting in Victoria this week.

By Province, Profession

Fervor Injected Into Denticare

Denticare may still be some way off for British Columbians, but the provincial government and the dental profession announced Wednesday they are going to work together to achieve this goal.

Welfare Minister Dan Campbell and Dr. J. Fred Reid of North Vancouver, president of the B.C. Dental Association, said they have reached agreement in principle on the eventual introduction of a denticare scheme for B.C. Neither could say, however, how soon it might come.

JOINT ANNOUNCEMENT

The disclosure of the denticare accord followed a joint announcement by Mr. Campbell and Dr. Reid that agreement has been reached on a new fee schedule for welfare patients requiring dental services. It will cost the government approximately $225,000 a year more to meet the new welfare rates, which are 75 per cent of the 1968 dental association fee schedule.

The new payments begin Jan 1.

Last July 1, the 850 dentists in the province suspended normal dental work for welfare patients, after deciding to provide only emergency treatment until the fee dispute was settled.

The dentists wanted parity with physicians, who collect 90 per cent of their fee schedule under B.C. Medical Plan.

Mr. Campbell said the provincial government would not introduce any denticare plan of its own, but would expect this service to be provided in time under the national medicare scheme, with Ottawa sharing the costs.

OTTAWA AWARE

Asked if the B.C. government was attempting to "push" Ottawa into adding dental services to medicare, Mr. Campbell said, "They are aware of our views," but added that no negotiations were in progress.

The dentists at present operate a dental insurance program of their own, which covers about 30,000 persons through group plans.

LAYING GROUNDWORK

Mr. Campbell said the agreement on welfare cases means "we are laying the groundwork" for denticare. Along with the agreement, he said, went the understanding that the dental profession and various government departments would "coordinate their apparatus in a way designed to carry denticare in the future."

Close to 70,000 persons in B.C. qualify for dental services through the provincial social welfare department.

Registered Nurses Rap Parity

VANCOUVER (CP) — A suggestion of wage parity between registered and psychiatric nurses was criticized by the British Columbia Registered Nurses' Association Tuesday because their duties "are in no way comparable."

"Neither the training nor the performance of the licensed nurse is equal to that of a registered nurse," the RNA said in a statement.

An RNA spokesman said a Grade 10 education is the minimum requirement for psychiatric nurses while registered nurses need senior matriculation.

Nevertheless Still 'Real Problem'

Plain, Old Flu Here

There is a lot of influenza around Greater Victoria, but chief medical officer of the Metropolitan Board of Health, Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, was not prepared Tuesday to say that it was Hong Kong or any other specific kind of flu.

"It just seems to be plain, old flu, and it's a disease that's hard to cope with. We can't seem to get the virus identified, and consequently it is difficult to prescribe medication. I don't mind saying that this has been a real problem for the profession," Dr. Whitbread said.

He added that the disease had not reached epidemic proportions, although there was a lot of absenteeism from school and work.

In schools in the district, the rate of absenteeism had increased to 10 per cent from a normal 5 per cent, and Dr. Whitbread said influenza was the reason.

It's a tired-out, weak-all-over, headachy feeling, Dr. Whitbread said, and the best thing to do is go to bed, drink lots of liquids and take aspirin.

The attack normally runs for about five days. If it lasts longer, call a doctor, Dr. Whitbread said.

One Case Not Epidemic

MONTREAL (CP) — The first case of Hong Kong flue has been reported in Montreal, the city's health department says.

The patient is a serviceman who returned from the Far East via the U.S.

Vaccine against Hong Kong flu is gradually becoming available from Canada's only producer, the University of Montreal's Institute of Microbiology and Hygiene, and ample supplies should be available in January.

Construction Bonds Authorized

The provincial cabinet has authorized $14,000,000 in new borrowing for the construction of schools and hospitals in B.C.

A cabinet order Wednesday provided for issuing of $7,000,000 worth of 25-year debentures at 7 per cent interest for each of the B.C. School Districts Capital Financing Authority and the B.C. Regional Hospital Districts Financing Authority.

The allocation of funds to the various school and regional hospital districts is expected to be announced by the government shortly.

Storm Sweeps Cold, Snow Across Alberta

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The first province-wide snowstorm this winter, sweeping across Alberta Tuesday night and Wednesday has claimed at least one life and left snow ranging from a trace to more than six inches.

The storm raged Wednesday from South of Edmonton to Montana, after leaving up to four inches in Edmonton Tuesday night where a woman died while shovelling snow at her home. Several Saskatchewan regions were also affected.

TEMPERATURE ZERO

Temperature across the province hovered around zero in most centres, and ranged from an overnight low of 25 below zero in the Peace River country to 15 above at Medicine Hat.

Most transportation systems were reported maintaining near-normal schedules and only minor disruptions in rush-hour traffic were reported Wednesday morning.

WARNINGS POSTED

Police said the dead woman was Nadie Romanki, 67. She was discovered by her husband after she had collapsed outside their home.

Although bus, airline and railway spokesmen said traffic was running "almost normally," the Alberta Motor Association warned drivers to stay off the highways unless it was absolutely necessary.

VISIBILITY BAD

"It's not because of the road surface," said AMA spokesman Barbara Saunders. "It's the visibility. The snow is light and powdery and it's like a smoke screen ... when it gets blown about by cars."

Mrs. Saunders said the warning to motorists was in effect for the entire province from Calgary north.

A spokesman for Pacific Western Airlines, which runs an airbus service between Edmonton and Calgary, said their flights all were on schedule.

SMALL ACCIDENTS

Neither RCMP or Edmonton city police had reports of any serious accidents because of the snow. But a city spokesman said "there was a rash of small accidents all over the city Wednesday morning around 8 o'clock, but that's right in the middle of rush hour."

"Our reservations are very, very heavy," said a CNR ticket agent. "Many people who had planned on travelling by car are changing their minds and booking with us."

Grande Prairie

Teachers Walk Out

GRANDE PRAIRIE (CP) — Four schools were closed Wednesday and 65 teachers suspended after teachers walked out over noon-hour supervision.

POVIDED UNDER ACT

William Weber, secretary-treasurer of the county school board, said the board ordered the suspensions "due to a neglect of duty, for failure to supervise students during the noon hour, as provided under the school act."

In Edmonton, Education Minister Ray Reierson said he received a telegram from the Grande Prairie county council asking him to intervene and take immediate action.

"There is no way I can intervene other than as a mediator," Mr. Reierson said.

Schools May Share Office High-Rises

CALGARY (CP) — The city's school boards are considering proposals to rent spare space over downtown schools, Ald. Eric Musgrave said Tuesday.

He said the city's housing committee had discussed such proposals informally with school board representatives but nothing definite had come out of the discussions.

Under the proposal, school boards would build high-rise buildings and use only the first three or four floors for classes. The rest could be rented out for apartments or office space.

Ald. Musgrave said larger urban centres in the U.S., notably New York and Chicago, have used the plan.

No-Surprises Cabinet

Nixon Names Old Friends

Rogers

Finch

Shultz

Mitchell

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Nixon Wednesday night named former attorney-general William P. Rogers his state secretary and Representative Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin defence secretary to fill the premier posts in a Republican cabinet featuring old friends and familiar faces.

He chose David Kennedy, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank of Chicago, to be treasury secretary.

OPEN SECRET

By the time Nixon announced his selections in a nationally-broadcast and televised appearance from Washington's Shoreham Hotel, the lineup was an open secret. He advised congressional leaders in advance, and his list swiftly became public knowledge.

His selection for the other jobs:

STATE OFFICIAL

Secretary of health, education and welfare: Lt.-Gov. Robert H. Finch of California, who managed Nixon's first, losing campaign for the White House eight years ago.

Secretary of housing and urban development: Gov. George Romney of Michigan, the man Nixon pushed out of the 1968 presidential race with a drubbing in the public opinion polls prior to the New Hampshire primary.

ALASKA GOVERNOR

CAMPAIGN AIDE

Secretary of commerce: Maurice H. Stans, budget director to former president Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Nixon's campaign finance chairman.

Secretary of agriculture: Clifford M. Hardin, chancellor of the University of Nebraska.

Postmaster general: Winton M. Blount of Montgomery, Ala., president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

ARDENT SUPPORTERS

While Romney was a onetime political rival, the other two governors Nixon named to his cabinet were ardent and early supporters of his quest for the Republican presidential nomination.

Eight of the cabinet members are men well known to Washington, through elective politics or through assignments within the federal government. Rogers, Stans, Volpe, and briefly, Kennedy, served in administration posts when Eisenhower was president.

Nixon, who had indicated during his campaign that there would be Democrats in his cabinet, apparently sought to offset the lack by disclosing that he will soon name a Democrat to be U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Sargent Shriver, now U.S. ambassador to Paris, is reported to have been offered that assignment. Shriver is a brother-in-law of the late President John Kennedy and late Senator Robert Kennedy.

WASHINGTON MAYOR

Nixon also announced plans to reappoint Commissioner Walter Washington to another term as mayor of the District of Columbia. Washington is a Negro whose term expires next Feb. 1.

Prior to the mass cabinet announcement—without precedent in modern times—Nixon had appointed a Chicago banker to be his budget director.

TREASURY VETERAN

That selection, announced in New York City, is Robert P. Mayo, 52, vice-president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago, a veteran of 18 years in the treasury department.

Nixon's audience for the cabinet announcement included the men he named, their wives and children, and the people he has chosen for White House assignments.

ALL REPRESENTED

Herbert G. Klein, director of communications for the incoming administration, said the whole "official family" was represented.

Klein acknowledged that there was no Democrat in the lineup.

"They're all independents who vote Republican," he said.

CALLED TO SIDE

In hours of personal or public crisis, Nixon has turned since to his friend for counsel. Rogers was at his side 16 years ago during the political uproar over the Nixon fund, the contributions which jeopardized his place as vice-presidential candidate on the Eisenhower ticket in 1952.

When Eisenhower fell victim to a heart attack, it was Rogers whom the then vice-president summoned to his side.

SPENDING EXPERT

Rogers became attorney-general in 1957 and served in that post through the remainder of the Eisenhower administration. He has had only brief experience in foreign affairs, as a member of the U.S. delegation to the 1965 United Nations General Assembly.

Laird, 46, is rated the most shrewd and among the most influential of Republicans in the House of Representatives. He is an expert on defence spending, a 10-year member of the House defence appropriations subcommittee.

Laird was a frequent Nixon companion during the presiden-

NEW YORK (UPI) — President-elect Richard Nixon Wednesday ordered his cabinet appointees muzzled until their inauguration Jan. 20.

Fluorides Fall Short

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C.'s Lower Mainland wants fluoridation of its water, but not by enough to make it legal.

The 15 communities served by the Greater Vancouver water district voted Wednesday and last Saturday in favor of the measure by slightly more than 56 per cent, and 60 per cent approval was required passage.

Fourteen outlying communities cast their votes on fluoridation last Saturday and the results were kept secret until the count of ballots started after Vancouver's annual election Wednesday.

'TOM TERRIFIC'

Meanwhile, Mayor Tom Campbell was re-elected to a second two-year term in one of the heaviest Vancouver civic election turnouts in years.

The mayor, often called "Tom Terrific," claimed victory only two hours after the polls closed, saying:

"The last two years have been a hard battle and I'm sick and tired of the continuous bickering on council. Now I've won the big stick to end the bickering."

TEAM BEATEN

The mayor, 41, won by only 600 votes two years ago, but had 40,000 votes with 83 of 111 polls reported compared to 27,500 for Alan Emmott, 12-year mayor and reeve of Burnaby and candidate of a new organization called TEAM, The Electors' Action Movement.

TEAM generally represents the centre and left of the political spectrum while Mr. Campbell ran on the ticket on the conservative Non-Partisan Association, which has dominated civic politics for decades.

HEAVY TURNOUT

A total of 37,899 approved fluoridation outside the city, 56.8 per cent, while 28,768 were against it. The rural and suburban figures were lumped together with those from Vancouver for an over-all percentage breakdown.

In Vancouver, the vote was running 55 per cent in favor of fluoridation.

Vancouver, which operates under a separate charter, also elected a mayor, city council, parks board and school board.

FIGURES GIVEN

Six communities approved fluoridation by more than 60 per cent. They were University Hill, 94.2 per cent; Port Coquitlam, 62.1 per cent; Fraser Mills, 71 per cent; North Vancouver district, 68.6 per cent; Richmond, 63.7 per cent; West Vancouver, 65.3 per cent.

Four communities had a majority in favor, but were short of the amount required for approval — Burnaby, 55.6 per cent; Coquitlam district, 59.5 per cent; Delta, 56.6 per cent; Port Moody, 55.3 per cent.

Privilege Denied

Bennett Loses Slander Case

OTTAWA (CP) — The presence of reporters at a Social Credit meeting in 1965 stripped Premier W. A. C. Bennett of his defence of qualified privilege in a slander suit brought against him for remarks about a former provincial public servant, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled Wednesday.

The decision confirmed a $15,000 damages award against Mr. Bennett.

UNANIMOUS

In a unanimous judgment written by Chief Justice J. R. Cartwright, the high court restored a trial judge's finding that the British Columbia premier slandered George Jones, then chairman of the province's purchasing commission, in remarks at a Victoria party rally.

Look Behind Veil

All's Not Well With World For Everyone

By DON COLLINS

There is a tendency in the Christmas season to feel all is well with the world.

Unfortunately, this isn't the case. You need only look behind Victoria's veil of affluence to see the other side of the story.

You can see it in the sad face pressed against the toy store window—the face of a little boy old enough to know this family can't afford Christmas, but young enough to want until the wanting hurts.

* * *

You can hear it in the voice of a mother who knows she must tell her children not to expect very much for Christmas.

You can feel it deep within you after talking to social workers about the cases of human tragedy found throughout Greater Victoria.

The sadness felt in a home of want Christmas Day cannot really be understood unless you are a resident of such a home. But it can be lessened somewhat by the Colonist 500 Fund. This is the 12th consecutive year that the fund, through the generosity of Colonist readers, will aid families in need.

There are no administrative costs, and the amount given can be deducted for income tax purposes.

Money from the fund goes

Reform Slowed, But Time Added

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The sudden illness of Quebec Premier Bertrand is virtually certain to postpone next week's constitutional conference.

Bertrand, in a phone call Wednesday morning asked Prime Minister Trudeau to postpone the conference. Trudeau immediately polled the premiers, by telegram, and indications were they would agree to the Quebec premier's request. (See also Page 2.)

The federal government is clearly disappointed over the conference upset. It was ready to unpack the first batch of proposals to achieve a new constitution in five to 10 years.

As a first step, it was expected to offer a draft charter of human rights, plus its plans for reform of the Senate and the Supreme Court of Canada.

* * *

The delay will have some beneficial effects — there will be more time to study the proposals at the political level.

At the Liberal caucus Wednesday, there was a great deal of criticism of the idea that provinces should have a voice in the choice of Senators. This is one of the suggestions to be made by Ottawa.

The delay will also allow Alberta's new premier, Harry Strom, and Bertrand himself, only two months premier of his province, more time to prepare.

The illness of Bertrand, following the death in office of three Quebec premiers in the past decade, tells the story of the strains of political life, particularly, apparently, in the province of Quebec.

But illness is striking the premiers like ninepins, as it has been striking the front line in the federal government.

* * *

Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan has the flu and could not have attended a conference next week. Premier Robarts of Ontario also has flu, but he was still expecting to attend the meeting.

The delay means the conference will probably be held early in February.

Trudeau, who will be tied up with the Commonwealth conference for much of January, said the delay was regrettable and a setback. The people of Canada, he said, want to get on with the work of constitutional reform and settlement of financial problems.

Robert Stanfield, the Conservative leader, endorsed the postponement. The presence of the Quebec premier is essential to the success of any conference, he said.

The consensus in Ottawa is that there is really no purpose in having a constitutional conference without Quebec participating in a full role.

U.S. Envoy Bares Plan for Peace

ROME (UPI) — President-elect Richard Nixon's envoy William Scranton said Wednesday the new administration will offer a Middle East peace plan shortly after taking office Jan. 20.

Scranton made the statement to newsmen as he arrived by plane en route to New York after a week's fact-finding tour of Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Lebanon and Israel.

"Certainly we will put forward a peace plan," the former Pennsylvania governor said. "But for now I cannot say anything. I must keep my ideas to myself."

Scranton said he went to the Middle East in search of a peace solution.

"I was able to establish that the interested parties truly intend to find a solution to the problem," he said.

Mideast Battle

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — Israeli and Jordanian regulars fought three duels with tank cannons, machine guns and bazookas across the Jordan River cease-fire line Wednesday. They were the first ground clashes in a week.

In Amman, the Palestine Liberation Organization, an Arab guerrilla force, reported one of its bands traded rocket and automatic weapons fire with Israeli units in the northern Jordan Valley. The Israelis also used mortars and two war planes, a communique said.

It was the first outbreak of fighting on the Israeli-Jordanian line since last Wednesday.

Delegate Cites Guerrilla Threat

Korea Still Major Test for UN

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The United States and South Korea said Wednesday the United Nations must stay in Korea to avert a major communist guerrilla war.

Communist delegates staged a mass walkout when the annual Korea debate opened in the General Assembly's main political committee with a speech by South Korean foreign minister Kyu Hah Choi. But they returned to hear counter-attacks by Mongolia and the Soviet Union.

30,000 TRAINED

Choi accused Communist North Korea of training 30,000 special commando cadres to infiltrate the south, disrupt prosperity and stability, and lay the foundations for a massive guerrilla war. He said only faith in the United Nations keeps South Korea from retaliating against increasing communist violations of the 1953 armistice.

U.S. Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., warned that United Nations withdrawal risks the same consequence as the unilateral pullout of American troops in 1949 and 1950.

"Korea is one of the world's testing ground for the principles for which the United Nations was founded," he said. "What happens to this country is of grave concern to all nations interested in keeping those principles alive."

Choi reminded the committee of the series of North Korean raids since a 31-man commando team of North Korean army officers slipped across the demilitarized zone last January in a daring attack aimed at the presidential mansion in Seoul.

Choi said infiltration and raids continued at an ever-increasing rate during the year, hitting an unprecedented level of 51 major armistice violation in the 15 days from Oct. 21 to Nov. 4.

The climax was the landing of more than 90 guerrilla agents along the under-populated east coast of Korea between Oct. 31 and Nov. 2 in "the most massive and serious military provocation" since the 1953 armistice.

Italy Plagued By New Woes

ROME (UPI) — Italian student and labor agitation, stirred up by months of government instability, intensified across the nation Wednesday while premier-designate Mariano Rumor sought to put together a cabinet for his new government.

Thousands of industrial and farm workers staged a one-day general strike in Sicily and 10,000 port workers at Genoa walked off their jobs, tying up more than 60 ships.

Gas station attendants called a nationwide strike for Friday and department store and supermarket workers scheduled a walkout for Dec. 21 and 22, the peak of the pre-Christmas shopping period.

Railmen May Strike

PRAGUE (UPI) — A railway engineers union threatened Wednesday to stage the first crippling industrial strike in Czechoslovakia since the Stalinist era of 1953.

The Federation of Locomotive Engineers complained bitterly in a newspaper statement it had been persecuted on orders of Soviet occupation authorities and had lost its government recognition.

A competing union sanctioned by the government implored engineers not to support an illegal strike which would devastate the economy of a nation heavily dependent upon its railways and already struggling with inflationary economic problems.

RUMORS SQUELCHED

The labor quarrel burst upon Prague as the chief Czechoslovak Communist party press spokesman squelched rumors that major changes in party leadership would be made at Thursday's central committee meeting.

"I certainly don't believe there will be any major changes," press aide Dr. Josef Tichy said.

Port Hardy Indians

Court Action Threatened Over Reserve

PORT HARDY — If the Indian affairs department does not set aside amalgamation of three Indian bands near Port Hardy, court action will be taken, it was stated this week.

The comment came from MLA Tom Berger, a Vancouver lawyer, who had submitted a brief to Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien on behalf of the Kwawkewlth Indian band.

The brief says the band's amalgamation with the Quawshelah Nakwato bands was illegal and demands the return of the Tsulquate Reserve and band funds.

NO REQUEST

The brief protests the action because it was initiated by the Indian affairs branch and not by the Kwawkewlth band to whom the Tsulquate Reserve belonged.

The reserve had already increased in value and would be even more valuable in the future, said the brief. While the Kwawkewlth band did not live there, it still belonged to members.

It said that three months befor amalgamation, the Indian affairs branch was building homes for the other two bands and relocated them to the reserve before the order was made.

Band funds are also involved, said the brief.

The trust accounts of the Quawshelah and Nakwakto bands contained $4,220.54 and $3,730.43 respectively at Nov. 30, 1964. The Kwawkewlth fund fund stood at $15,676.57.

BAND FUNDS

"The result of amalgamation was therefore not only to deprive the members of the old Kwawkewlth band of the Tsulquate Reserve but also of their band funds."

"While the amalgamation may have been carried for reasons which the Indian affairs department thought were sound, it brought no benefits at all to the Kwawkewlths.

"The fact is there are now two villages, one village consisting of the old Quawshelah and Nakwakto bands, who are living on the Tsulquate Reserve and the other village consisting of the old Kwawkewlth band who still live in their old village south of Port Hardy.

'A MISTAKE'

"To force them together and to superimpose one chief and one council on them, especially as this has left the members of the Kwawkewlths's band in a minority position, was altogether a mistake from any point of view."

The brief says a request for amalgamation from the Kwawkewlth band was necessary under the Indian Act. However that was not made.

The brief refers to a meeting in April, 1962, at which band members indicated they would like to help the other two bands. But there was no reference to amalgamation by the band.

NO ADVICE

Discussing a vote during the meeting, the brief said an interpreter was not used, despite what the superintendent claimed, and that some band members did not understand English and were not advised about what was being discussed once elections were over.

The brief also points out that the superintendent in charge of the Kwawkewlth agency then was shortly afterwards found guilty of converting property belonging to the Indians and Indian affairs branch and was sent to prison.

The submission of the brief follows recent comment about the relocation by MP Richard Durante in the Commons.

It's Time to Make Christmas Calls

NANAIMO — Lionel Huxtable, B.C. Telephone district manager, said Wednesday that people are beginning to make their overseas long-distance Christmas telephone calls.

"This is a good time to start. True, their messages aren't getting through right on Christmas Day but at least this way they're getting through," he said.

Mr. Huxtable said the Christmas calls, if early, could be made without any problem. But if they were made on Christmas Eve, Christmas or Boxing Day, they could be held up for hours before being completed.

Welfare Causes Concern

DUNCAN — Prosperity and social welfare do not go hand-in-hand, Ald. Martin Lukaitis said at this week's Duncan council meeting.

"We are supposed to be living in prosperity and people should be made aware that welfare makes a large portion of the budget." Mayor Quaife said: "Welfare seems to become a household word."

In the last three months, the city paid the following for social welfare: $11,638 in September; $10,400 in October; and $10,758 in November.

Council was told that building permits during November amounted to $61,200 as against $14,000 in November last year. Eleven-month totals in 1967 and this year were $1,034,330 and $628,175.

The public works department of public works has said that the new court house will be opened Jan. 10 at 2 p.m.

Pacific Hovercraft has said that a hovercraft connection between Duncan and other B.C. centres would not be possible at present because there is not enough equipment available.

More flood control work had been carried out during November said Ald. Jim Saunders. It included the extension of a dyke, taking out some of the gravel bar and checking of flood gates.

Nanaimo Chosen For Chefs' Talks

NANAIMO — For the first time Nanaimo has been the host city to a meeting of chefs de cuisine.

It was held in the Malaspina Hotel Wednesday. The hotel is a member of the Canadian Chefs' Federation.

Hotel chef Gene Chanasyk, said the reason the chefs were meeting in Nanaimo rather than in Victoria's Empress Hotel was to give the other Island chefs a break for one year and reverse the usual travelling arrangements.

He said the meeting was not an exchange of cooking but of ideas.

Mr. Bateman brought culinary recognition to the Island when he joined Canada's team in an international chef's Olympics in Europe.

School Closing

NANAIMO — Nanaimo school board announced it would institute the annual method of advising parents about school closures, due to inclement weather, with announcements over a local radio station. Bus route changes would also be announced this way, the board said.

Hospital Design

'Professional Planners Would Save Money'

DUNCAN — Considerable money could be saved in regional districts if the provincial government employed professional architects to design hospitals, said Ald. Jim Moore of Ladysmith on Wednesday.

Directors were told that Cowichan District Hospital Board "strongly recommends" that a bill for $9,000 from an architect's firm, involved in the preliminary planning of an extended care unit at Duncan Hospital, should be paid.

BREAKDOWN WANTED

It was stated that the bill includes architectural, engineering and design fees. However they decided to obtain a detailed breakdown before the bill is paid.

The hospital board will also be asked to do everything in its power to minimize vandalism at the old King's Daughters' Hospital and nurses' residence.

Moore

Ald. John Cannon of North Cowichan said that two board directors, two Cowichan Airport Society members and the regional district clerk will meet with the lands minister soon to discuss acquisition of 80 acres of Crown land for a new airport in the Glenora area.

NEW AIRPORT

Ald. Cannon said that the airport society members explained that "the facilities of the proposed new airport would accommodate aircraft capable of carrying up to 15 passengers.

"It was also anticipated, considering the future economic development of the area, that the maximum length of the strip of 3,500 feet would be sufficient to meet any aviation demands in the future."

The facilities include several roads, community hall, playing fields, children's playgrond, fire hall, community water and sewer system and the land on which the new well is located.

Residents in the area will have a vote, probably early next year, so that they can say to whether they want the district to take over, it was stated.

Mr. Hayward told the board that the 1969 taxable assessment for the area was $260,000, but that included some of the sawmill building which would be demolished eventually.

Magistrate Named

William Ernest Philpott has been appointed Nanaimo magistrate and judge of the Family and Children's Court, the provincial cabinet announced Wednesday.

Gold River Service

Improved TV Urged

GOLD RIVER — MP Richard Durante has told Gold River council that he is supporting a petition from the town for an improved television service.

In a letter to Secretary of State Gerard Pelletier, Mr. Durante said: "I am convinced that the residents of this area are justified in their criticism of the present services and in the event that Telesis Co.'s application will result in improved services, I would like to suggest favorable, immediate consideration be given to their application."

SECOND TOWER

Durante

Mr. Durante said he would keep council informed of developments.

Replying to an enquiry from council regarding completion of the Campbell River-Gold River road, R. G. Mulcaster, district engineer of the highways department at Courtenay, said that minor improvements would be made in the gravel section.

"Funds have not been allocated for complete reconstruction," he said. "Your query is being passed on to my superiors for their advice."

HIGHWAY PLANS

Council directed clerk Norman Paulson to send a letter to the Highway Minister Wesley Black requesting information regarding completion of the road, and about long range plans for highway development in the central and northern areas of Vancouver Island.

Council received a report from D. G. Whyte, president of B.C. Land Surveyors regarding control of firearms in built-up areas.

SUGGESTIONS MADE

Mr. Whyte said: "We believe people in settled areas can no longer tolerate irresponsibility in hunting."

Suggestions in the report include education and training of young people and adults; enlarging areas where hunting is already forbidden; employing auxiliary officers during the hunting season to assist police in safety enforcement duties, licencing Indians, possibly at no fee, to include them in a training and examination program; setting up a fund, sustained by licence fees, to provide financial compensation for those experiencing property damage and to assist dependents of people killed or wounded; and membership in a rod and gun club.

LETTER TO MLA

Council decided to prepare a brief incorporating the suggestions and will send a letter supporting them to MLA Howard MacDiarmid.

Works Superintendent Larry Benoche advised council that fluoridation equipment is operating. Installation costs comprised $2,834.57 for equipment and $1,148.01 for labor. Anticipated costs for 1969 are $300 for fluoride testing equipment, $180 for sodium silicofluoride, and $960 for maintenance, one man hour per day, council was told.

S. Cahmut, public health inspector of the Upper Island Health Unit in Campbell River, will test the fluoridelon concentration in the water supply.

Building Law Change Wanted by Alderman

By BRANT FELKER

CAMPBELL RIVER — Campbell River council was told Tuesday by Ald. Jack McLeod that he intends to seek an amendment to the area's building bylaw.

Ald. McLeod served notice of motion for deletion of a section of the bylaw which demands parking areas in ratio to the size of proposed business establishments.

Ald. McLeod said he would propose a bylaw which would suggest that parking areas form part of a nearby joint parking lot or a municipal off-street parking arrangement.

DOWNTOWN RAMPS

After the meeting, Ald. McLeod said he would like to see the responsibility for parking taken from business property owners and handled by the municipality.

He said he favored provision of downtown parking ramps and lots where suitable property can be found.

At the moment the municipality has one lot and Ald. McLeod suggested that the administrative staff should introduce a recommendation concerning location of parking areas, cost of construction and an amendment to the zoning bylaw.

Council also received reports from its works superintendent and treasurer Donough O'Brien following a study of a possible municipal garbage collection.

Cost estimates indicated that it could be done at a profit but Mr. O'Brien said that other treasurers had warned against the measure during meetings.

There were also notices of motion to extend the municipality's boundaries.

LODGE LINE

Three areas are being considered. Residents in the Stapley subdivision of Quinsam Heights have asked council to include their area in the municipality. Aldermen also learned that, when boundaries were drawn, a line ran through the centre of Forbes Landing Lodge.

It has been suggested that as it was an "unreasonable tax situation," the municipality will take in sufficient land to include the whole lodge.

Council was told that there are no hydrants next to the senior secondary school with sufficient water to fight an outbreak.

WATER SUPPLY

Although the school is not within the municipality, it was decided to put a hydrant at 4th and Dogwood which will supply water from a 16-inch main.

Students Picket In Bid For School Bus

LAKE COWICHAN — Students picketed Lake Cowichan school board's office Wednesday morning chanting, "We want a bus, we want a bus."

There were approximately 75 students from grades eight to 10 asking for a bus to take them to a skating party at Fuller's Lake Arena, Chemainus, in the evening.

A previous request to the school board was turned down. The students had offered to pay for the use of the bus and a driver.

Pat Bryan, vice-principal at Lake Cowichan senior secondary school, told the children that they would not gain anything by their action and to hold a meeting at school.

Following the meeting the students decided to approach the board again through normal channels.

Ron Kimak, board secretary-treasurer, said: "we are not allowed by law to rent the school buses out.

"If we did, we would be violating laws set up by the transport commissioners.

"The school board does not recognize transportation assistance for the skating party because they do not consider it an extra-curricular function," he said.

"From the financial aspect, if we did supply transportation we would establish a precedent and would have to give the same opportunity to every other school student in the district," he continued.

"The skating party involves at least 200 students so that would mean at least four buses, not just one.

"The group that picketed did not receive the endorsation of the students' council. I think it was just a group of radicals who felt it was the opportune time to get a little fresh air and moved off.

"Certainly if they have a point to make, there are ways and means and this was not one of them.

"Many parents have called and expressed their astonishment and disgust at the picketers' actions. I have yet to receive a call that is in agreement."

Big Brothers May Aid Young Nanaimo Boys

Don Omlid of 890 Bay Street, who has been working on the project for several months, said this week that he had been studying possibilities of setting up the organization in the district.

"It was the Halloween near-riots that really got me going," he said. "Up until then I was only going slowly but then I decided to really get going on it."

The Big Brother objectives are to give a fatherless boy an adult male companion who will help him to learn to live in society, he said.

The Big Brother does not take over family autonomy but becomes a friend, giving the boy objectives for maturity rather than having the boy grow wild, possibly becoming a social liability, he said.

Mr. Omlid said that if the society is formed, Big Brothers would be chosen under the strict requirements.

"When you make a mistake with a boy, it isn't a mistake made with a pet that can be destroyed. It's with a child who will carry that mistake for life."

Mr. Omlid has not been working alone. He said he has been seeking help through groups such as churches, service clubs, welfare agencies, Brannan Lake Boys' School authorities and the RCMP.

"About a dozen hard-core community-minded people are very interested."

Mr. Omlid said he would wait until the first two weeks of January before calling a meeting to form a steering committee.

Funeral Today

FULFORD—A funeral service will be held today at 1:30 p.m. at St. George's, Ganges, for Mrs. Kathleen Scott, 93, who died on Sunday at Nanaimo.

Mrs. Scott was the last of 11 children of the late Rev. Edward Wilson who took over the Salt Spring Anglican parish in 1894. He was rector for 15 years after which he retired to Victoria.

Parksville Accepts Tenders

PARKSVILLE — Parksville will be getting its waterworks improvement project for less than what was originally estimated.

Village council discovered Wednesday that the cost will be $191,211.76 instead of $230,000.

Aldermen accepted the following bids: A. J. Barr of Victoria, $114,297 for pipe-laying and a reservoir; John Manville, $82,365.96 for pipe-supply; Terminal City Contractors, $14,548.87 for fittings.

A. J. Barr's contract was the lowest of nine received from Parksville, Victoria, North Vancouver, the Okanagan and Alberta.

Ennals

Socreds Hear Ennals

NANAIMO—Duncan physician Dr. Charles Ennals was a special guest at Nanaimo Social Credit Constituency Association meeting this week.

Dr. Ennals, first vice-president of the B.C. Social Credit board of directors, is also secretary-treasurer of the executive.

He recently represented the provincial party at the Alberta Social Credit party's annual meeting in Edmonton when the first leadership convention was held.

FIRST YEAR

"I was especially interested because the B.C. party does not have any provision to elect a leader—leaders are just elected by caucus. This was the first year for Alberta," said Dr. Ennals.

He said that he was chairman of a committee to take the constitution to the next B.C. convention.

"One of my recommendations will be to alter the constitution to include a leadership clause."

Imlach, who assured club owners earlier this month that his club would be in the National Hockey League playoffs, got his finest performance of the season from the Leafs last night.

Winner of three straight games after the confrontation between Imlach and owners, the Leafs delighted their coach and 16,845 Toronto fans last night by earning a 4-4 tie with Montreal Canadiens in a free-wheeling game which produced some exceptional hockey in the last two periods.

FINE GOALKEEPING

Leafs went out to match Canadiens at their game of speed, and stayed with them in sizzling action which produced good passing, good defensive play and brilliant goalkeeping by both Bruce Gamble and the Montreal stand-in, Tony Esposito.

All eight goals came off outstanding individual efforts or pin-point passing which left goalkeepers helpless.

LEAFS OUTSHOT

Gamble had to contend with 41 Montreal shots but while the Leafs managed only 28 at Esposito, the Montreal netminder had some tough chances and was superb in the third period when he saved the point for his club during a Toronto power play.

Esposito made five big saves to keep the Leafs at 4-3 and make John Ferguson's goal in the 15th minute mean a tie.

Leafs were best served by the Dave Keon-Murray Oliver-Ron Ellis line. It produced goals by Keon and Ellis, both set up by Oliver, who was named the outstanding player of the game.

ARMSTRONG SCORES

George Armstrong, neatly tipping in a shot in the first period for his first goal since coming out of retirement, and Paul Henderson scored the other Toronto goals.

OTHER SCORES

In other games, Pittsburgh's improved Penguins scored a 4-2 win over Minnesota North Stars, Chicago Black Hawks ended St. Louis Blues' unbeaten skein at 12 games with a 6-3 win and Detroit Red Wings lost to the Kings, 6-2 in Los Angeles.

Three goals within 55 seconds in the second period turned things around in Chicago, where the Blues has a 2-1 lead after 20 minutes.

The barrage came against Glenn Hall, who replaced Gary Edwards at the start of the period. Edwards had taken over from Jacques Plante for the last six minutes of the first period after Plante suffered a forehead cut which needed 15 stitches when struck by a puck shot by Stan Mikita.

FIRST OF TWO

After Dennis Hull and Frank St. Marseille had exchanged third-period goals, Bobby Hull ended the scoring late in the game with his 20th goal of the season.

Bill Flett's three goals against two Detroit goalkeepers sparked Los Angeles to the win over the Red Wings.

NHL-Soviet Match In Planning Stage

TORONTO (CP) — A reliable source says plans are underway to match a team of professional players against the Russians for the world hockey title in the near future.

The team could be Toronto Maple Leafs or Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League providing the International Hockey Federation agrees to change the world tournament into open competition, the source said Wednesday night.

The statements were made in connection with one made earlier in the day by Earl Dawson, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

". . . the Canadian public and the wish of the European countries — especially Russia — to prove their supremacy against the best we have to offer will force the change," Dawson said.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Gordie Howe Number 9.

That's the title of a book written by Toronto sports editor Jim Vipond (Ryerson Press, $4.95), and it couldn't have become available at a more appropriate time. Not only is Howe still making headlines as big as ever in a career that is almost beyond belief but anyone still with a Christmas gift problem for anyone interested in sport need look no further. Howe may well be the best-ever Canadian athlete and Vipond has done an excellent job of putting the tremendous amount of material at his disposal into a fascinating history of an attention-holding performer.

No reasonable person will argue any longer that Howe isn't the greatest player hockey has ever had but this amazing man, experts say, could have had a big-league baseball career and could probably have earned a luxury life as a professional golfer. But a man eventually has to be judged by what he is off the playing surface, and everyone will be the richer for having read about Gordie Howe the man.

Seldom in the history of sport has anyone as prominent as Howe lived a more exemplary life. Off the ice he is the perfectionist he is on it, determined to excel at everything he undertakes. He is a fine family man, his modesty amazes those who meet him for the first time, he is thoughtful, still more shy than reserved and has a whimsical sense of humor which expresses a philosophy of life more of us could subscribe to.

★ ★ ★

Vipond's book abounds with tributes to Howe the man as well as to Howe the athlete.

On his ability, the most telling comment came from Frank Selke.

"Gordie Howe," said the man who ran Montreal Canadiens in the days when Maurice Richard was the greatest name in the game, "is the greatest all-round player in the history of hockey. He is a composite of some mighty fine stars including Rocket Richard, Jean Beliveau, Milt Schmidt and others. I've been watching the game as fan and official since the 1900's. I've never seen anyone combine so many faculties. He is simply the greatest."

"Howe's hockey record speaks for itself," says Tommy Ivan, one-time coach of Detroit Red Wings. "As a man he has been a credit to the game, to his family, to his parents and to his friends. He is what a pro athlete, or anyone for that matter, should be. He was the easiest guy to handle—a good-living guy. Like Gordie, I had things a little rough as a kid, and I fully appreciate ethe way he came up."

"I only wish," says Pierre Pilote, now playing defence for Toronto Maple Leafs, "that half the nice things said about Gordie could be said about me."

Reasons for that kind of admiration abound through the book. Howe signed only one contract which called for a bonus based on the number of goals he scored. It earned him an extra $1000 but since then, bonus arrangements have been based on team performance and league awards.

"I think a player could become a puck hog and forget to pass," Howe explained about goal bonuses. However, he works unceasingly to set up teammates who have a chance to get a bonus from scoring, and Detroit coaches almost always assign a rookie or a player having troubles to be Howe's roommate on road trips because he is always trying to help others.

He winces when someone claims that the Wings have been a one-man team since he joined them, doesn't moan about the fact that he didn't become the second 50-goal scorer in the National Hockey League because the scorekeeper, despite Red Kelly's protests, wouldn't credit Howe with tipping in a shot by Kelly. That came late in the 1952-53 season, in which Howe finished with 49 goals.

And Howe scoffs at reports that he has been the physically strongest man in hockey. He lists Maurice Richard, Jack Stewart, Fern Flaman and, particularly, Bobby Hull, as being stronger.

"That guy," he says about Hull, "is so strong that when he goes out to the field to get his Herefords at night he doesn't herd them. He picks them up and carries them to the barn."

About the only harsh thing said about Howe is that he plays it rough on the ice, and there is no doubt that, determined to excel and with what is perhaps an obsession about never being made to look bad, there is some substance to the charge. But many argue that Howe just finished things and never starts trouble.

Among those is Hull, who was only seven years old when Howe started his NHL career. Hull, who asked for No. 9 when he joined Chicago Black Hawks "because it was Gordie's number and he was the player I wanted to read about and pattern myself after, "is still a staunch Howe supporter.

"He is not the demon some people say," Hull says. "If you want to play hockey, he'll play. He just wants to play, but if guys want to fool around they always come out second best."

Traded to the Hawks in 1957, Lindsay was full of rancor the first time he faced his former teammates, on Oct. 29 that year in Chicago, and immediately started to play it chippy.

At the first stoppage of play, Howe skated over to Lindsay and asked, "You want to play hockey the right way or your way?"

"We'll play it the way it should be played," Lindsay said. "I'm not sacrificing our friendship."

Greece Upsets Portugal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Greece scored a major soccer upset Wednesday night, beating Portugal, 4-2, in a qualifying match for the 1970 World Cup.

Third in the 1966 World Cup finals, Portugal faces a tough task to qualify this time from a group which also contains Romania and Switzerland.

Northern Ireland beat Turkey, 3-0, in Istanbul to add to their 4-1 victory over the Turkish team in Belfast in October. But favored in this group is the Soviet Union, which has yet to enter the fray.

Scotland crushed Cyprus, 5-0, in Nicosia, scoring all the goals in the first half. The Scots' main opposition in this group will come from West Germany, runners-up in the 1966 finals. Both Scotland and West Germany have won their two group matches to date.

PLAY TO DRAW

Belgium drew, 1-1, with Spain in Madrid and remained a threat to all teams in its group, which includes Yugoslavia, runners-up in this year's European soccer championship.

Claremont, Oak Bay Win

Carla Van Schaik scored 18 points to lead Oak Bay to a 30-27 win over Esquimalt in Inter-High School Senior Girls' Basketball League action Wednesday at Esquimalt.

San Diego Gulls are refusing to wait for any of their Western Hockey League rivals.

The Gulls stormed to a 6-1 win over Phoenix Roadrunners Wednesday before 5,157 San Diego fans to maintain a five-point edge over Portland Buckaroos, who trimmed Seattle, 4-1, at Portland.

Vancouver Canucks failed to keep pace with the Bucks as they bowed, 2-3, to the last-place Denver Spurs to the delight of 1,217 Denver fans.

TWO FOR CARMICHAEL

Two goals by Bruce Carmichael and others by Warren Hynes, Alex Faulkner, Ed Ehrenverth and Fred Hilts gave the Gulls a 6-0 lead before Ted Snell spoiled Jack McCartan's bid for a shutout at 3:43 of the third period.

Portland used two power-play goals, by Norm Johnson and Bill Saunders, on their way to victory before 5,142 home fans. Andy Hebenton and Larry Leach were the other scorers while John Hanna scored the opening goal for Totems.

A third-period goal by Don Carter, after Canucks had come from behind twice, gave Denver its sixth win of the season.

Driver Sets New Record

MONTREAL (CP) — Herve Filion of Ancers, Que., shattered the world record for most harness racing victories in one season as he posted three wins at Blue Bonnets Raceway Tuesday night.

The three victories boosted Filion's total to 387 triumphs this year, three more than Eddie Freundt of Dusseldorf, West Germany.

League's Best Fielding Helped Tigers to Title

BOSTON (AP) — Detroit Tigers had more than hitting and pitching en route to the American League pennant.

Official figures announced by AL president Joe Cronin showed Wednesday that the Tigers jumped from fifth place in 1967 to first in AL team fielding in 1968.

The Tigers, who fielded .978 in missing the pennant by one game in 1967, flashed a tight defence in winning the flag this year. They compiled an average of .983, just two percentage points below the league record set by Baltimore Orioles in 1964.

TWO ARE PERFECT

Although outfielder Mickey Stanley, who switched to shortstop to help Detroit win the World Series against St. Louis Cardinals, was the only individual leader, the Tigers committed only 105 errors, 27 fewer than in 1967.

Stanley and Ken Harrelson, Boston Red Sox' converted first baseman, topped outfielders as neither committed an error in compiling 1.000 marks. Roy White of New York Yankees was next among regular outfielders with .997.

LEADS AGAIN

Other individual fielding titles were won by first baseman Danny Cater of Oakland, .995; second baseman Bernie Allen of Washington, .991; shortstop Rico Petrocelli of Boston, .978; and catcher Joe Azcue of Cleveland, .986. New York's Mel Stottlemyre topped 45 perfect-fielding pitchers.

Youngsters In Action At Jamboree

Three girls and three boys' games for the 9-11 age group and two girls' and two boys' games in the 12-13 age group are scheduled with action due to start at 6.

Games will consist of two eight-minute periods with no time outs allowed. Presentation of crest will follow the last game, scheduled to start at 9.

Namath Shaves $10,000 Beard

The economics of the thing was simple. Joe is about $10,000 wealthier without the moustache than he was with it.

"I didn't want to shave it off—I liked it," the New York Jet quarterback said. "But I went ahead and did a commercial this morning."

Namath declined to say how much the shave for television was worth, but The Associated Press learned the fee was in the neighborhood of $10,000.

FOR CAMERAS

Back at Shea Stadium for a workout, Namath made it clear he didn't shave because anyone said he should.

Milt Woodard, president of the American Football League, had written to Jet coach Weeb Ewbank suggesting the moustaches and beards that Namath and several other Jets had grown didn't do anything for pro football's image.

WHO'S TO SAY

"I didn't like what the league said about it—the moustaches and the sideburns," Namath said, his sideburns still reaching down to the tips of his ears. "I think that's a little personal. . . .

"Who's to say where long sideburns begin. And I wonder why, all of a sudden, hair became bad. The most perfect guy in the world had long hair and a beard."

Sidney Urges Paid Fire Chief

Defeat of the proposal earlier in the year led to the resignation of the joint fire committee chairman, Arthur Freelove.

At that time, North Saanich council ruled out of order approval by Sidney council of a budget which included six months' pay for a fire chief.

POLICY DECISION

In a letter to Sidney council, North Saanich Mayor J. B. Cumming said such an appointment would be a policy decision which had not been made.

Mr. Freelove was chairman of the joint committee for the fire department which serves both Sidney and North Saanich, and which has two representatives from each council.

At Monday night's council meeting, Sidney approved without question recommendations by fire committee member Ald. W. W. Gardner, who said the recommendations were the result of a special meeting between the fire committee and Sidney firemen.

He said the committee had been given a letter signed by every fireman.

As a result he recommended:

- That Sidney recommend to North Saanich the establishment of the position of full-time fire chief;
- That Hugh Loney, the present volunteer chief, fill the position effective Jan. 1, 1969;
- That North Saanich be asked to reply by Dec. 20.

Vandals See Light

Victoria Jaycees decided Tuesday to donate $25 to the lagging United Appeal, following sentences in family court to four youngsters for breaking Christmas tree lights.

President Lorne White said that since police could not accept rewards, the Jaycees would hand the reward money over to the United Appeal.

The boys concerned will be put on a Jaycee work party to replace about 500 damaged bulbs.

Unbagged Clippings

Why Trashmen Refuse Refuse

Victoria Mayor Hugh Stephen said Tuesday it is an "antiquated" practice for city crews to "pry into the contents of garbage."

He was commenting on a bylaw that forbids pickup of grass clippings and garden refuse.

An irate taxpayer complained to public works committee that city garbage collectors had refused to empty bins containing grass clippings.

However, he conceded under the mayor's questioning, "If grass clippings were wrapped and put under other garbage the garbagemen would never know."

Committee decided to recommend a change in the bylaw that would permit city crews to pick up a "reasonable amount" of garden refuse.

No-Surprises Cabinet

Nixon Names Old Friends

Rogers

Finch

Shultz

Mitchell

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Nixon Wednesday night named former attorney-general William P. Rogers his state secretary and Representative Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin defence secretary to fill the premier posts in a Republican cabinet featuring old friends and familiar faces.

He chose David Kennedy, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank of Chicago, to be treasury secretary.

It was a cabinet of no surprises, with no Democrat, no Negro and no woman among its 12 members.

★ ★ ★

By the time Nixon announced his selections in a nationally-broadcast and televised appearance from Washington's Shoreham Hotel, the lineup was an open secret. He advised congressional leaders in advance, and his list swiftly became public knowledge.

His selection for the other jobs:

★ ★ ★

Secretary of health, education and welfare: Lt.-Gov. Robert H. Finch of California, who managed Nixon's first, losing campaign for the White House eight years ago.

Secretary of housing and urban development: Gov. George Romney of Michigan, the man Nixon pushed out of the 1968 presidential race with a drubbing in the public opinion polls prior to the New Hampshire primary.

★ ★ ★

Secretary of commerce: Maurice H. Stans, budget director to former president Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Nixon's campaign finance chairman.

While Romney was a onetime political rival, the other two governors Nixon named to his cabinet were ardent and early supporters of his quest for the Republican presidential nomination.

Eight of the cabinet members are men well known to Washington, through elective politics or through assignments within the federal government. Rogers, Stans, Volpe, and briefly, Kennedy, served in administration posts when Eisenhower was president.

Nixon, who had indicated during his campaign that there would be Democrats in his cabinet, apparently sought to offset the lack by disclosing that he will soon name a Democrat to be U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Sargent Shriver, now U.S. ambassador to Paris, is reported to have been offered that assignment. Shriver is a brother-in-law of the late President John Kennedy and late Senator Robert Kennedy.

★ ★ ★

Nixon also announced plans to reappoint Commissioner Walter Washington to another term as mayor of the District of Columbia. Washington is a Negro whose term expires next Feb. 1.

Prior to the mass cabinet announcement—without precedent in modern times—Nixon had appointed a Chicago banker to be his budget director.

That selection, announced in New York City, is Robert P. Mayo, 52, vice-president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago, a veteran of 18 years in the treasury department.

Nixon's audience for the cabinet announcement included the men he named, their wives and children, and the people he has chosen for White House assignments.

★ ★ ★

Herbert G. Klein, director of communications for the incoming administration, said the whole "official family" was represented.

Klein acknowledged that there was no Democrat in the lineup.

"They're all independents who vote Republican," he said.

Rogers, 55, a Washington and New York lawyer, has been a close friend of the president-elect since they served together in the navy during the Second World War.

★ ★ ★

In hours of personal or public crisis, Nixon has turned since to his friend for counsel. Rogers was at his side 16 years ago during the political uproar over the Nixon fund, the contributions which jeopardized his place as vice-presidential candidate on the Eisenhower ticket in 1952.

Rogers became attorney-general in 1957 and served in that post through the remainder of the Eisenhower administration. He has had only brief experience in foreign affairs, as a member of the U.S. delegation to the 1965 United Nations General Assembly.

Laird, 46, is rated the most shrewd and among the most influential of Republicans in the House of Representatives. He is an expert on defence spending, a 10-year member of the House defence appropriations subcommittee.

Laird was a frequent Nixon companion during the presiden-

Muzzle Applied

NEW YORK (UPI) — President-elect Richard Nixon Wednesday ordered his cabinet appointees muzzled until their inauguration Jan. 20.

He told newsmen he knows they are interested in the policies of individuals, and they are welcome to ask, "but if any of them (the cabinet members) answers those questions, he will have difficulty being in the cabinet."

Campbell Wins

FLUORIDES JUST MISS

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C.'s Lower Mainland wants fluoridation of its water, but not by enough to make it legal.

The 15 communities served by the Greater Vancouver water district voted Wednesday and last Saturday in favor of the measure by slightly more than 56 per cent, and 60 per cent approval was required passage.

Fourteen outlying communities cast their votes on fluoridation last Saturday and the results were kept secret until the count of ballots started after Vancouver's annual election Wednesday. (Pictures, Page 10.)

'TOM TERRIFIC'

Meanwhile, Mayor Tom Campbell was re-elected to a second two-year term in one of the heaviest Vancouver civic election turnouts in years.

The mayor, often called "Tom Terrific," claimed victory only two hours after the polls closed, saying:

"The last two years have been a hard battle and I'm sick and tired of the continuous bickering in council. Now I've won the big stick to end the bickering."

TEAM BEATEN

The mayor, 41, won by only 600 votes two years ago, but had 40,000 votes with 83 of 111 polls reported compared to 27,500 for Alan Emmott, 12-year mayor and reeve of Burnaby and candidate of a new organization called TEAM, The Electors' Action Movement.

TEAM generally represents the centre and left of the political spectrum while Mr. Campbell ran on the ticket on the conservative Non-Partisan Association, which has dominated civic politics for decades.

FIGURES GIVEN

A total of 37,899 approved fluoridation outside the city, 56.8 per cent, while 28,768 were against it. The rural and suburban figures were lumped together with those from Vancouver for an over-all percentage breakdown.

In Vancouver, the vote was running 55 per cent in favor of fluoridation.

Six communities approved fluoridation by more than 60 per cent. They were University Hill, 94.2 per cent; Port Coquitlam, 62.1 per cent; Fraser Mills, 71 per cent; North Vancouver district, 68.6 per cent; Richmond, 63.7 per cent; West Vancouver, 65.3 per cent.

VOTING AGAINST

Four communities had a majority in favor, but were short of the amount required for approval — Burnaby, 55.6 per cent; Coquitlam district, 59.5 per cent; Delta, 56.6 per cent; Port Moody, 55.3 per cent.

Communities voting against fluoridation were Maple Ridge district, 37.9 per cent in favor; New Westminster, 45.9 per cent; Pitt Meadows district, 45 per cent; Surrey district, 45.4 per cent.

Privilege Denied

Bennett Loses Slander Case

OTTAWA (CP) — The presence of reporters at a Social Credit meeting in 1965 stripped Premier W. A. C. Bennett of his defence of qualified privilege in a slander suit brought against him for remarks about a former provincial public servant, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled Wednesday.

The decision confirmed a $15,000 damages award against Mr. Bennett.

UNANIMOUS

In a unanimous judgment written by Chief Justice J. R. Cartwright, the high court restored a trial judge's finding that the British Columbia premier slandered George Jones, then chairman of the province's purchasing commission, in remarks at a Victoria party rally.

Look Behind Veil

All's Not Well With World For Everyone

By DON COLLINS

There is a tendency in the Christmas season to feel all is well with the world.

Unfortunately, this isn't the case. You need only look behind Victoria's veil of affluence to see the other side of the story.

You can see it in the sad face pressed against the toy store window—the face of a little boy old enough to know his family can't afford Christmas, but young enough to want until the wanting hurts.

★ ★ ★

You can hear it in the voice of a mother who knows she must tell her children not to expect very much for Christmas.

You can feel it deep within you after talking to social workers about the cases of human tragedy found throughout Greater Victoria.

The sadness felt in a home of want Christmas Day cannot really be understood unless you are a resident of such a home. But it can be lessened somewhat by the Colonist 500 Fund. This is the 12th consecutive year that the fund, through the generosity of Colonist readers, will aid families in need.

There are no administrative costs, and the amount given can be deducted for income tax purposes.

Money from the fund goes to 500 families selected by the Christmas Bureau, an agency of the Community.

Reform Slowed, But Time Added

Bertrand

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The sudden illness of Quebec Premier Bertrand is virtually certain to postpone next week's constitutional conference.

Bertrand, in a phone call Wednesday morning asked Prime Minister Trudeau to postpone the conference. Trudeau immediately polled the premiers, by telegram, and indications were they would agree to the Quebec premier's request. (See Pages 2, 10.)

The federal government is clearly disappointed over the conference upset. It was ready to unpack the first batch of proposals to achieve a new constitution in five to 10 years.

As a first step, it was expected to offer a draft charter of human rights, plus its plans for reform of the Senate and the Supreme Court of Canada.

The delay will have some beneficial effects — there will be more time to study the proposals at the political level.

At the Liberal caucus Wednesday, there was a great deal of criticism of the idea that provinces should have a voice in the choice of Senators. This is one of the suggestions to be made by Ottawa.

The delay will also allow Alberta's new premier, Harry Strom, and Bertrand himself, only two months premier of his province, more time to prepare.

The illness of Bertrand, following the death in office of three Quebec premiers in the past decade, tells the story of the strains of political life, particularly, apparently, in the province of Quebec.

But illness is striking the premiers like ninepins, as it has been striking the front line in the federal government.

Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan has the flu and could not have attended a conference next week. Premier Robarts of Ontario also has flu, but he was still expecting to attend the meeting.

The delay means the conference will probably be held early in February.

Trudeau, who will be tied up with the Commonwealth conference for much of January, said the delay was regrettable and a setback. The people of Canada, he said, want to get on with the work of constitutional reform and settlement of financial problems.

Robert Stanfield, the Conservative leader, endorsed the postponement. The presence of the Quebec premier is essential to the success of any conference, he said.

The consensus in Ottawa is that there is really no purpose in having a constitutional conference without Quebec participating in a full role.
